City Loses Case On Voter Forms

B.C. Supreme Court Judge J. A. Macdonald today ordered Victoria city clerk Morran Waller to supply voter registration applications to those who request them.

The judge's decision followed an application for such a court order by the Fairfield Community Association, after Waller last month refused to supply the forms in bulk to the association.

Counsel T. P. O'Grady representing Waller argued that on the face of it the Municipal Act required the clerk to provide an unlimited number of forms to anyone who asked, but this was "manifestly unreasonable" and the clerk must be governed by common sense.

He suggested the wording of the act was careless and that issuing a writ of mandamus was for special situations and not justified in this case.

The association represented by John Brewin and Bob Milne argued that there was a degree of urgency. While the registration list closed Tuesday, applications submitted this month can be approved by a court of revision in time to qualify voters for the November municipal election.

The dispute arose two weeks ago when FCA president Sid Langfelt charged that Waller was violating the act in denying the association cards to distribute among its members.

Langfelt stressed that section 38 of the act requires municipal clerks to furnish applications, plural.

Crisis Building Talks

Labor Minister Allan Williams was holding crisis talks in Vancouver today with representatives of the Construction Labor Relations Association and building trade unions are the threat of a new construction tie-up.

A total lock-out of the unions is planned by CLRA for 4 p.m. Friday and a spokesman for the cement masons union said Tuesday that if the lock-out goes into effect the union will tear up its recently-signed contract with the association.

Frank Stevens said another work stoppage would make a one-year contract ridiculous and if the stoppage occurs the masons will seek a new contract covering 18 months and make additional demands retroactive to the end of April.

Stevens also said the cement masons will not sign a one-year pact if any of the other trade unions take any reciprocal action.

Chuck McVeigh, association president, said CLRA decided to take the lock-out action because of the strike by members of the plumbers.

AIR FARES UP

OTTAWA (CP) — General domestic air fare increases of up to eight per cent took effect today on Air Canada and CP Air routes. The increases, second this year and fifth in three years, were judged "fair and reasonable" by the Canadian transport commission. They average 4.5 per cent on economy tickets.

BARRETT BARES STUDY

Major Ferry Report Ignored by Socreds

By LIZ HUGHES
Times Staff

A major report on B.C. Ferries rates and policies by a provincial government committee suggested a 50 per cent ferry fare hike, Opposition leader Dave Barrett said today.

The fares were actually increased 100 per cent June 1.

Barrett today released the report compiled by the Environment and Land-Use Committee, and said it was scandalous that such a report was ignored and kept secret by the Bennett government.

The report was commissioned in early 1975 by the NDP government, Barrett said, was completed in January, 1976, and delivered to a ferries' steering committee April 8.

The Social Credit government, instead of using the ELUC report as a basis for rate increases, used a report by Price Waterhouse Associates, a management consultant firm, which took only 10 days to complete, Barrett said.

Price Waterhouse itself complained in a confidential letter to Ferries' general manager Charles Gallagher that the time allotted for the report was insufficient.

The letter to Gallagher says: "This very tight time constraint (Jan. 6 to Jan. 15) restricted the scope of our review to an examination of major items contained in the 1976-77 estimates already prepared by B.C. Ferries."

The letter also complained that the study was constrained by "the inability to undertake detailed analysis and the lack of meaningful statistical data."

Barrett said the ELUC report, which took a year to complete, proposed a program and rates completely contrary to the steps actually taken by the provincial government."

If the Social Credit government had followed the ELUC recommendations, Barrett said, the ferries policy would now include:

—Rate increases held to 50 per cent;

—A length measuring system so large cars would pay more than small cars;

—A seasonal fare structure with higher rates in the summer and lower rates offseason;

—Lower rates for foot and bus passengers;

—Books of tickets available

PEN DRAMA LASTS 10 MINUTES

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The latest hostage drama at the B.C. Penitentiary lasted only 10 minutes Tuesday night.

It began about 8:30 when Richard Alexander, serving a two-year sentence for breaking and entering grabbed a guard who has not been identified and held him at knifepoint.

About 10 minutes later, another guard, John Lacusta, managed to grab Alexander's hand and disarm him.

In the ensuing struggle Alexander suffered cuts and bruises, according to pen spokesman Jack Stewart.

He was removed to the super-maximum-security wing of the penitentiary after the incident.

Reason for the incident has not been revealed.

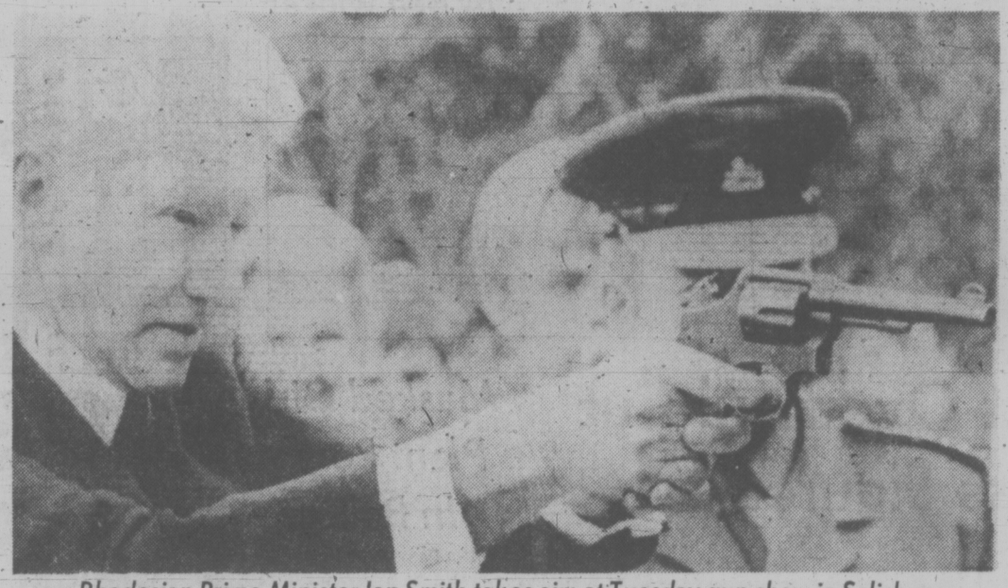

"He had no time to issue any demands or give his reasons," Stewart said.

Northland Lays Off 150 Men

VANCOUVER (CP) — Northland Navigation Tuesday served notice that the company intends to lay off 150 employees Oct. 31 because of the federal government's recent withdrawal of the coastal shipping subsidy.

The employees affected are officers and crew members of the Northland Prince, the Skeena Prince and the Island Prince, three Northland vessels currently serving remote British Columbia coastal communities on the mainland.

The four unions involved the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers, Local 400; Seafarers International Union; Canadian Merchant Service Guild; and International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, Local 514 were notified.

Kissinger Urges Talks, Not War, for Africa

By MURREY MARDER
Washington Post

PHILADELPHIA — U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told the leaders of black Africa Tuesday that they must not let the opportunity for resolving Africa's injustices slip away by abandoning negotiations and choosing violence.

"Violence will only escalate bloodshed and lengthen, rather than shorten, the road to their goal," he warned.

This admonition came as some of Africa's most important moderate black leaders, notably Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda, are reported to have despaired of the prospects that diplomacy will achieve their goal of black majority rule throughout southern Africa.

Kissinger said he may make the first visit by U.S. secretary of state to South Africa, if his talks with South African Prime Minister John Vorster in Zurich this weekend warrant it, and if Africa's black leaders concur.

To emphasize that the support of Africa's black leaders is crucial to his diplomacy, Kissinger stressed at a news conference here that a trip to south Africa would come only after he visits black Africa and would take place "in the closest co-operation and with the full support of black Africa or it will not be made."

In an earlier luncheon speech before a predominantly black audience, Kissinger acknowledged the pitfalls on all sides of his latest diplomatic mission to bridge the black-white gulf in Africa before time runs out.

At the same time, he sought to convince his audience here, and in Africa, that the time is ripe for diplomacy and the prospects are good, "even though he acknowledged "there is no guarantee that our current diplomatic effort will succeed. It would be naive to suggest that a peaceful solution to issues so suffused by passions is inevitable."

Kissinger claimed that "unmistakable progress has been made" since he launched the Ford administration's new activist policy for Africa in that continent last April.

S. Africa Razes Border

Manchester Guardian

LUANDA — Namibian refugees in Angola tell of the destruction of villages and crops in the border area by South African forces to clear a militarized no-man's land.

The troops and civilian-driven bulldozers are leveling houses and burning or plowing up crops in the densely populated border zone, the refugees say.

People who volunteered for resettlement from the zone earlier this year were paid, but this compensation has ceased as the clearing operation has come to involve the enrire border area. Eviction is now by force, it is reported here.

A RIGHT ROYAL CAN OF WORMS

CALGARY (CP) — Queen Elizabeth would be happy to use a less expensive toilet than the $50,000 facility planned for her use during the 1978 commonwealth games in Edmonton, a Canadian monarchist said Tuesday.

John Aimers, chairman of the Monarchist League of Canada, said in a speech here that the Queen "would be the last person" to expect the elaborate royal flusher being planned for the games.

"That toilet reflects the over-enthusiasm of some the people preparing for the visit, rather than the Queen's personal desire," Aimers said.

"This is a question the press has dug up to detract from the serious purpose of her visit and to ridicule the Crown."

Aimers also said he believes Canadians have moved from questioning the survival of the monarchy to grappling with its role in Canada in the 1970s.

AUGUST ALL WET

No, it wasn't an illusion. August was in all respects a lousy month.

But the Victoria weather office confirmed today that masochistic Victorians at least have a record to boast of (cry about?) for all that suffering.

There was less sunshine during the month than any August since records were first kept 85 years ago.

At the Gonzales observation station, where records go back to 1891, the previous dullest August was in 1975 when 191.6 hours of sunshine were recorded.

But in this record-breaking Olympic year we made that record look silly with a mere 174.6 hours — or 11.7 hours below the average August sunshine tally of 286.3 hours.

At Victoria International Airport, where records don't go back nearly so far, the figure was even lower: a paltry 148.1 hours.

It was also a cool month, with a mean temperature of only 14.9 degrees Celsius compared to the normal 16.1 for August. But August of 1973 was cooler still, with a mean temperature of only 14.5 degrees.

Extreme temperatures last month were a high of 24.5 on the 12th and a low of 8.2 on the 21st.

Then, of course, there was the rain. The Victoria area received 46 millimetres last month. The average August rainfall is 25.1 millimetres.

What the weathermen call "measurable precipitation" occured on twice as many days as usual — 12 instead of six.

In summary, then, it was colder, wetter and a whole lot duller than usual.

But it wasn't all bad.

"August was less windy than usual," said the spokesman, consolingly.

Juvenile Lock-Ups Promised

The Social Credit government is committed to providin secure facilities for juvenile delinquents like the 13-year-old boy brought to Victoria from Nanaimo Tuesday, Attorney-General Garde Gardom said today.

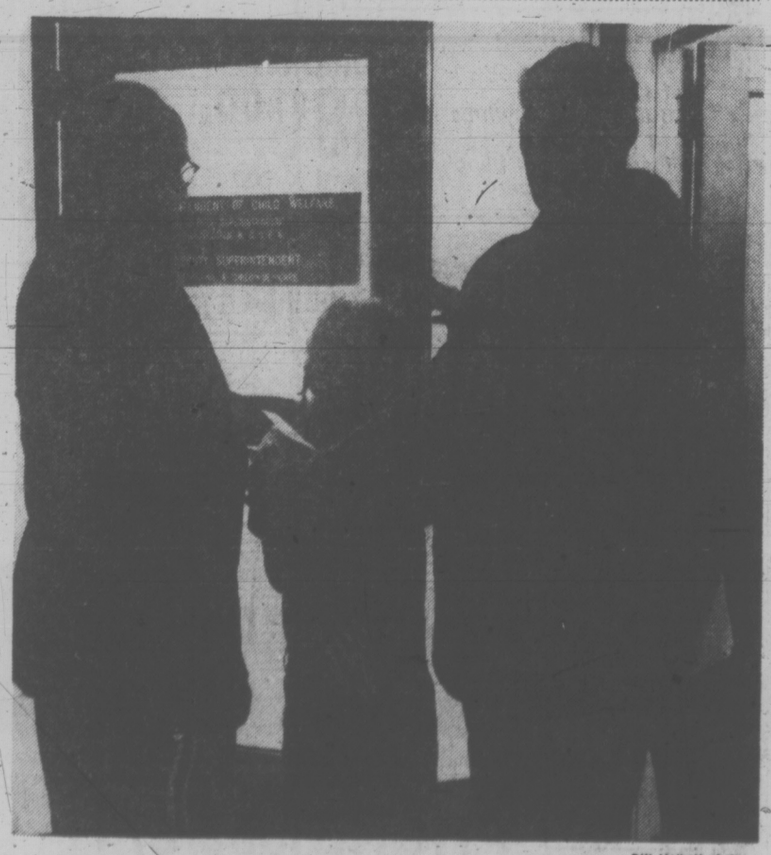

Gardom said he would be taking recommendations contained in a report on juvenile detention facilities to cabinet shortly and expected action quickly.

The boy was delivered by sheriffs' deputies to Superintendent of Child Welfare Vic Belknap Tuesday.

Nanaimo Juvenile Court Judge Stanley Wardill ordered Monday that the boy, charged with several breakins and theft of a car, be delivered to Belknap because he was the boy's legal guardian.

In his ruling, the judge complained of the lack of secure facilities for repeating juvenile delinquents.

Gardom said today such facilities were necessary because now the only response of the judicial system to hard core delinquents is to transfer them to adult court.

FEUD IN TAHSIS

TAHSIS — A family feud was at the bottom of a weekend riot which resulted in one man being shot in the leg, another in hospital in Victoria with head injuries, and numerous cases of cuts and bruises.

RCMP are considering numerous charges following the riot which involved two groups fighting with machetes, knives, axes, a rifle and lengths of lumber.

The riot started in a trailer park as the result of a deep-rooted family feud between two family groups, each consisting of about 10 members.

It ended when two shots were fired from an unknown source. RCMP said that by that time, the rioters were exhausted and apparently unable to continue.

Police moved in to clear up and cart the participants off to hospital.

Parents Hunt Child Molesters

LANGLEY (CP) — About 200 parents here have volunteered to start one of the most intensive programs in British Columbia to prevent child molesting.

"Wherever the children go, they will be watched — parks, playgrounds, to and from school, and in the schoolyards," RCMP Constable Rick Scott, the man who organized the program, said Tuesday.

"Langley hasn't had any incidents of child molestings, but the number of reports of suspicious activities has increased," he said.

"I think people are generally concerned about the number of sex-related crimes in the Lower Mainland — the missing girl in Port Moody, the young girl found murdered in Matsqui, the young girl sexually assaulted and murdered in Mission. Those have all happened this year."

Constable Scott said he was confident more people will join once school begins.

"There's been a lot of apathy and a lot of enthusiasm so far. I guess nothing has come close to home yet so people don't take such a great interest in it."

Langley, including both city and township, has a population of over 45,000.

Freeway entrances into the municipality, the 29 elementary school areas, and other selected points will have signs to warn the public that the program is in operation.

Patrollers have been organized to watch all the day-to-day activities of the children. Co-ordinators have been chosen for each of the school districts so that each patroller only has to work one to two hours each week.

Mayor Is Receptive to Hotel Start Delay

A development company wants Victoria city council to absolve it from a contractual commitment to start construction of a hotel on the Inner Harbor not later than Jan. 1, 1978.

And Mayor Mike Young said Tuesday the request by Canadian Freehold Properties Ltd., for an amendment to the land-use contract governing its Laurel Point development, is "beneficial to the city."

Meanwhile, a company spokesman announced Tuesday that construction of the hotel is planned to begin Jan. 2, 1977, for completion by the spring or early summr of 1978.

The requested contract changes, including a proposal to scale down the hotel to only about half its original size, would virtually leave Canadian Freehold with an open-ended contract.

Instead of starting the hotel second phase of the development — to follow the condominiums and luxury townhouses already built — by Jan. 1, 1978, as the present contract stipulates, the company could delay a construction start indefinitely.

The only requirement would be that once construction is under way it must be completed within three years after the building permit is issued.

The negotiated amendments would also require CFP to remove temporary structures and materials, and tidy and landscape the construction site, if the construction has not started by Jan. 1, 1978.

The mayor told council's caucus meeting Tuesday that the requested amendments reflects "continuing uncertainty as to the economy and the ability of the company to sell its package."

(The company has admitted that all seven townhouses remain unsold, and only 19 of the 120 condominium units have been purchased).

In view of this uncertainty, Young said, "they would not like to have a commitment to commence on a certain date. I do not think we can encourage them to do something they have not the funds to go ahead with."

He added: "The contract is beneficial to the city. If they do not proceed with it, we have not lost any ground."

Ald. Murray Glazier noted that if the second stage of the development is not built, the city will lose considerable tax revenue.

He asked if it were feasible to write into the revised contract a "performance feature," whereby the developer in such an eventuality would have to pay the city a sum equivalent to "what would have been paid if the project had been completed, assessed and taxed."

Young was dubious and said in any case he would not support such a tactic. "To turn around and suggest you are going to charge them for something that isn't there. . . ."

Ald. Ron McKenzie commented that the developers appeared to have "got us," and said what once seemed a watertight contract has proved not to be that at all.

The mayor rebuked him for "looking in a rear-view mirror," and added: "If ever I heard a bunch of Irishmen arguing, it is this council when discussing what to do with that site."

Young reminded council that from the outset of negotiations with the developers the city had tried to whittle down the density and scale of the project to an acceptable level.

Now there was fresh proposal by the company itself to reduce the size still further, he said, and that should be welcomed by the city.

Ald. Bob Wright agreed: "I think the change by the developer is a plus for us."

for regular commuters on a discount basis;

A major construction program for more "super-ferries;"

Detailed work under way on an Iona Island terminal to replace the Horseshoe Bay terminal and, if environmental problems were overcome, plans for a Gabriola terminal to replace Departure Bay would be under way.

Transport Minister Jack Davis said he would not comment until he had studied Barrett's charges.

Vancouver Island NDP MLAs today berated the government for imposing the large fare increases after the ELUC report had warned large increases would have a serious effect on the Island's economy.

"Any large fare increase resulting in a rapid decline in peak period demand could have a serious short-term effect upon Vancouver Island's tourist industry . . .," the ELUC report says.

The report also says that a "very large increase," at least for the Nanaimo route, may not substantially improve the gross revenue of the ferry services and "above a certain increase, could result in reduced revenues."

Nanaimo NDP MLA Dave Stupich said it was "dumb" to procede on a 10-day report when the government had a report in January which took a year to complete and had the best people working on it.

Barrett said it was tragic that the lifestyle in budgets of most British Columbians have been adversely affected because the government ignored the ELUC report.

"The economy of Vancouver Island in turn in faltering because of their incompetence," he said.

PLANE CRASH PILOT SAFE

DUNCAN — A 33-year-old Matsqui man escaped injury when a small airplane he was piloting crash-landed near the airport here this morning.

Duncan RCMP said Richard Ulmar was coming in for a landing at 9:12 a.m. when he overshot the runway, tried to climb, clipped a tree and came down in a pasture.

A police spokesman said the plane's propeller and motor were damaged.

UIC Act Overhaul Cut Jobless Figures 1%

OTTAWA (CP) — The 1971 overhaul of the Unemployment Insurance Act helped reduce the jobless rate in 1973 by almost one percentage point, a study released Tuesday by the Economic Council of Canada shows.

The study, prepared for the council by four authors, says if the revisions had not been made, unemployment would have been 30,000 less than it was in 1972 and 112,000 less in 1973.

The council says in a news release the study does not necessarily reflect its views. The council is a federal advisory body.

In addition to the effects on employment, the revisions helped increase the real growth rate of the economy by seven-tenths of one per cent and five-tenths of one per cent in 1972 and 1973 respectively, the study says.

The report also says five programs developed by Ottawa in the late 1960s together were more effective than tax cuts would have been in stimulating the economy and providing jobs because they had an immediate impact.

The five programs, in addition to the unemployment insurance revisions, were the Canada Manpower Training Program, the Local Initiatives Program, Opportunities for Youth and the Canada Manpower On-the-Job training Program.

But the study concludes that while the new Unemployment Insurance Act — which expanded coverage of the work force — was clearly expansionist, results would have been the same if the government had reduced personal income tax by the amount equal to benefits paid by the government.

The additional $2.5 billion in personal income achieved by reducing taxes would have been used to stimulate the economy through higher investment and consumption.

The four authors of the study are Peter Cook and Cyril Hodgins of Canadians Economic Services Ltd., Ottawa; Gregory Jump, Institute for Quantitative Analysis, University of Toronto, and Charles Szabo of the University of Montreal.

B.C. TEL OVERDUE, FINED

BURNABY (CP) — British Columbia Telephones will have to pay $22,010.69 in penalties for delinquent property taxes to the Municipality of Burnaby.

Council approved a staff recommendation Monday that it deny the telephone company's earlier request for special treatment concerning late payment of taxes owing this year.

Burnaby officials said today that the telephone company owes $728,830.97 in taxes for 1976 and failed to meet the July 5 deadline for payment.

The company was assessed a one-per-cent penalty July 6 and a further two-per-cent penalty Aug. 4.

Colin Patterson, a B.C. Tel spokesman, said a cheque to cover the company's 1976 taxes was mailed June 23 to meet the July 5 deadline, but for some unknown reason it has not been received by Burnaby.

"We assumed that it had arrived, but we weren't advised until recently that it didn't," he said.

Patterson said the company has stopped payment on the first cheque and will issue another.

Masked Girls Plant Bombs In Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — Two masked girls carrying guns planted a bomb that blew up a Chinese restaurant late Tuesday at Lurgan, 25 miles southwest of Belfast.

The bomb exploded shortly after the building was cleared and fire followed the blast.

Earlier six men planted bombs in one of northern Ireland's biggest tire warehouses in South Belfast. They packed cans of gasoline around them and the blasts started large fires damaging the firm's two buildings.

Security officials, meanwhile, expressed concern over the accuracy of a mortar shell attack on a joint army-police post in the border town of Crossmaglen that injured six British marines.

"There have been many mortar attacks throughout northern Ireland in the past, but in general they have been carried out with a lack of accuracy that has been alarming for nearby residents," an army spokesman said.

turned from a visit to the remote refugee camps, said he had spoken to dozens of primary school children who had chosen to flee from Namibia because of the present conditions.

He said that he had watched one boy of 6 run into his sister in the refugee camp. "What are you doing here?" she asked. "I told you to take care of the cattle." Unknown to the other, each child had fled across the border.

The children also told of visits to their schools by South African troops, the doctor said. The children said they would leave the school building and stand outside singing rather than answer the questions of the soldiers. The doctor said he was able to confirm this with several teachers who had been present.

According to SWAPO sources here, the only safe way for refugees to cross the border from Namibia to Angola is with the help of the SWAPO guerrillas.

Many paths have been mined, and there are strong troops concentrations in the area. SWAPO claims that British-manufactured mines are being used by the South African forces.

The information dates back to the South African raid on the SWAPO camp at Sialolo in Zambia on July 11. One source who visited the camp immediately after the raid said he saw British-manufactured mines left by the invading forces.

Other SWAPO sources say the situation in northern Namibia is now so critical that the Ovambo Bantustan (tribal land) leader, Pastor Njomba — a key figure in South Africa's plans for Namibia — is no longer sleeping at home.

Apparently he is flown nightly by an army helicopter to safety outside the Bantustan in the "police zone," either to the copper town of Tsumeb or to the garrison town of Grootfontein. He returns to work in his office in Oshakati each morning.

The situation across the Namibian border is also of concern to the Angolan authorities. They are increasingly worried about fate of the hundreds of Angolans still held inside Namibia.

Angolan officials working in the southernmost provinces of Angola report little or no movement of Angolan refugees back across the border. It is feared that they are under South African military guard and unable to return.

the weather

Of the few brief spells of nice weather which began as a rather dismal August was drawing to a close appears to be fading as another disturbance offshore moves across B.C. today triggering more showers. Another disturbance is again expected to move to the Charlottes Thursday and remaining areas of the province Friday.

Sweep Winner Bought Ticket On Credit

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — A Sault Ste. Marie bank clerk says she won $500,000 in Sunday's Olympic lottery draw on a ticket she purchased with a Chargex card at a competing bank.

Hilda Pountney, 24, a clerk at a branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, said in an interview Tuesday that she used her credit card to buy ticket 1881638 in Series B two weeks ago because she was short of money.

She said she had planned to buy one at her bank but all were sold.

Mrs. Pountney and her husband, Larry, 25, a laborer at Weyerhaeuser Canada Ltd., a lumber company, learned they were winners while watching the news on television Sunday night.

Just to be sure, they called Pountney's sister Ethel Comeau and her husband, Edgar, who live in the same building and who had written down the numbers.

Early Monday, they talked to a lawyer and made arrangements to invest most of the money. Neither went to work and they say they won't, "for a few days."

They plan to use some of the money to buy houses for themselves and their parents. They say they plan to fill their house with children.

The couple came to Sault Ste. Marie from Chapleau, about 130 miles northeast of here, before their marriage three years ago.

Pountney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Pountney, and a brother, Terry, also moved here but Mrs. Pountney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fox, still live in Chapleau.

The first thing the winners purchased was a 10-speed bicycle for their nephew Larry Comeau, who was 16 Tuesday.

Next came some clothes for Pountney.

"He never buys himself anything and buying clothes is my favorite hobby," his wife said. "I really enjoy doing that."

Mrs. Pountney, born under the sign of Libra, said the win was predicted in her horoscope Sunday.

20 Years For Cypriot 'President'

NICOSIA (UPI)—Nicos Aampson was sentenced to 20 years in prison Tuesday for the 1974 Greek-led coup which briefly toppled President Archbishop Makarios and led to the Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

The coup and subsequent Turkish invasion precipitated the collapse of the seven-year-old military dictatorship in Athens.

Sampson, 41-year-old former terrorist of the Greek Cypriot Eoka organization and later a leader of the Enosis movement calling for union of Cyprus with Greece, pleaded guilty to charges of "aiding in ..... warlike undertakings" and usurping the presidency.

His lawyer, Xanolis Christofides, said there would be no appeal against the sentence.

Sampson, who as a young man in the 1950s was known as one of the most ruthless of the Eoka terrorists fighting against British troops, took the sentence calmly.

"Thank you, Mr. President," Sampson said, smiling at the presiding judge of the three-man tribunal which took less than 30 minutes to reach its verdict. He then embraces his wife and mother and was led away.

Friends, relatives and supporters cheered as the handcuffed Sampson was taken away to the same jail the British held him in under a death sentence.

AMERICAN VINTNERS GET BAD PRESS

United Press International

Wine, the age-old nectar of the gods, may be getting a bad name.

First the U.S. government says it wants to send inspectors to foreign vineyards to assure the fancy labels deliver what they promise. The same day, three American scientists report some domestic wines may contain up to four times as much arsenic as the government allows in drinking water.

Now California's top health official says he will test a cross-section of that state's wines for arsenic in response to the scientists' charges.

The wine started going sour Monday. The U.S. bureau of alcohol, tobacco and firearms proposed new rules whereby its inspectors would visit foreign vineyards and bottling plants to ensure conformity to U.S. standards.

The same day, three Wisconsin scientists attending the American Chemical Society convention in San Francisco — Richard Vitek of Bio-Metal Analysis, New Berlin, Dr. William Houser of Milwaukee County Hospital and James Bors of Wauwatosa — said tests showed some wines had high levels of arsenic.

Their report, however, was withdrawn before formal presentation to the convention because, the scientists said through an attorney, sensationalism created from advance publication in the press "has detracted from the purely scientific nature of the paper."

"The paper calls for further research into arsenic and foodstuffs and is not intended to imply that all wine or fruit juices contain arsenic, or that the consumption of any wines or fruit juices poses a substantial health hazard or that scientific investigation was complete," the attorney's statement said.

California health department director Dr. Jerome Lackner, however, said minute amounts of arsenic may be found in wines because it is a trace mineral often found in wine, fruit juices and other foods.

He said its normal source is the soil where it is ingested by plant roots which pass the substance on to the fruit. The Wisconsin scientists speculated the arsenic may come from pesticides used in vineyards.

They also said foreign wines tested contained considerably less arsenic.

New Channel Record

FOLKESTONE, England (UPI) — Student teacher Wendy Brooks, 20, set off from Dover on her first attempt to swim the English Channel — and waded ashore in France as the new champion.

Wendy took 8 hours 35 minutes for the 21-mile swim Tuesday, seven minutes faster than the old record set only last month by 17-year-old Tina Boshoff of Columbus, Ohio.

A surprised Wendy said she did not think she had any chance of breaking the record when she started but, about three miles from C.p. Gris Nez, said "Everyone in the escort boat started shouting and waving and I started to make an effort."

HOW TO FIX A WHITE ELEPHANT

It sounds like it should be big and white and wild. But strangely, a White Elephant is short and white and smooth. So smooth, and so delicious, in fact, that you'll hardly know that it has 2 oz. of liquor in it. Like all elephants, a White Elephant should always be treated with respect.

Here's all you do to mix a White Elephant: pour 1 oz. Smirnoff, 1 oz. white creme de cacao and 1 oz. milk into a short glass with ice. Stir. And enjoy the little alabaster behemoth.

SUN-RIPENED PLUM JAM MADE WITH CERTO LIQUID.

Makes about 11 medium glasses.
4½ cups prepared fruit (about 3 lb fully ripe plums)
7½ cups sugar
½ bottle Certo liquid fruit pectin.

First prepare the fruit—Pit (do not peel) about 3 pounds plums. Cut in small pieces and chop. Add ½ cup water; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Measure 4½ cups into a large saucepan.

Then make the jam—Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in Certo. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes to cool slightly to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into sterilized glasses. Cover at once with ⅛-inch hot paraffin.

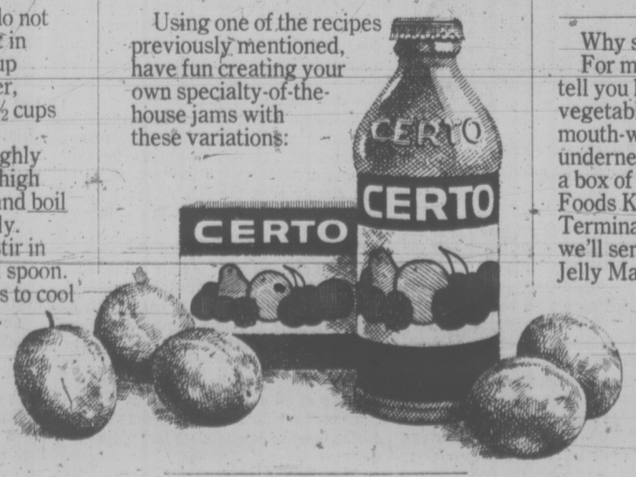

SUN-RIPENED PLUM JAM MADE WITH CERTO CRYSTALS.

Prepare fruit as above using a total of 4 pounds plums and ½ cup water to obtain 6 cups prepared fruit. Measure 8 cups sugar and set aside. Add 1 box Certo crystals to fruit in saucepan. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a boil. Stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and continue as above. Makes about 14 medium glasses.

Hypocritical Regulations

Through long practice and public complacency provincial governments have announced new liquor regulations as a matter of divine right. The fact that upwards of 80 per cent of the population drink alcoholic beverages, at least moderately, never moves administrations to ask the public its opinion.

The fact that alcohol consumption represents one of the most costly social problems in the country never moves the politicians to consult doctors or social workers when formulating these regulations. No, the attorney-general's department — it is interesting how liquor and enforcement are always linked — arbitrarily rules.

True to form B.C. Attorney-General Garde Gardom says the province will announce new liquor regulations Nov. 1. What's in them is none of our business until thay are law. So much for democracy. Meanwhile an 18-month-old rule banning liquor advertisements from the back covers of B.C. magazines is suddenly being enforced. The idea, apparently, is to do away with the "high color, high impact, lifestyle ads." While the original idea for the banning came under the NDP administration, the Socreds, advocates of free enterprise, say no too.

Let us try and examine this stupid rule logically. the federal government has done its utmost to encourage Canadian magazines. Now the B.C. government, with its misplaced moralism, is interfering with a class of advertisers who represent a sizable portion of a magazine's revenue. And what is so sacrosanct about magazine back covers? Does the government think that children passing newsstands will see the ads and fall into sin?

Perhaps the greatest hypocrisy in the government's position is that it has the monopoly on the sale of alcoholic beverages.

In the last fiscal year it made a net profit of $155 million on the stuff, charging outrageous markups of up to 136 per cent on some items. Complacent in the knowledge that sales will continue to rise, the government feels morally bound to put a few magazines out of business by limiting their advertising revenue. This official self righteousness is ludicrous.

When it comes to anything to do with liquor, successive B.C. governments put on a pious face as they collect "taxes" on the sale of alcoholic beverages. One sees little interference with lewd or violent advertisements for movies. Businesses are rarely asked to prove their claims in advertisements. All manner of drugs are advertised as curing everything from sciatica to the common cold with no interference. But in liquor ads the government not only rules on the taste of commercial appeal, but tells magazines where to put them.

The time is long past when government can make huge profits from the sale of alcohol while at the same time crying about its evils. Unless the Bennett administration wants to put its money where its mouth is and hold a plebiscite on prohibition, it should make its new regulations correspond with reality.

Liquid Sunshine

Although any energy alternative to gas and oil looks more and more attractive these days—price up five cents a gallon this week, if you didn't notice it on your fuel bill already—the future of solar energy in British Columbia, to use a meteorological metaphor somewhat overused this summer, seems dull indeed.

A contest sponsored by the Solar Energy Society of Canada's B.C. chapter drew only three contestants on the weekend, and then th sun didn't shine until it was half over. And that was in Tsawwassen, which brags about its near-Mediterranean climate.

The winner heated water in two hours from 20 degrees celsius to 40 degrees. (For fahrenheit throwbacks, that's from 70 to 110.) Given those results, and B.C.'s weather, we think the only type of alternative energy source that has much chance of success is one that utilizes our bounteous "liquid" sunshine.

Maybe a raindrop pressure windmill that would use the downward force of those trillion and trillions of raindrops, each drop weighing a gram or two, to push a little vane connected to a bigger wheel? Gadzooks, the rainfall in downtown Ocean Falls alone should be enough to supply B.C. and generate enough surplus to sell to Washington, Idaho and Oregon.

Corporate Grace on High

Air Canada has taken its lumps these past few weeks as to poor service and large deficits so we thought it proper to pass on a story that shows the more positive side of the peoples' airline.

According to our informer who was there, Air Canada flight 215, Boeing 727 service to Vancouver, was hardly airborne out of Edmonton when a hesitant purser addressed the 120-odd passengers. It seems the pre-heated dinners had not been pre-heated which meant that passengers would not be served their dinner that night. Instead, Air Canada would provide all passengers with a complimentary drink or small bottle of wine. At the end of the flight meal vouchers worth $6.50 would be passed out to all passengers.

Now this is probably standard practice when any such snafus occur. And all the passengers would have still been there if Air Canada promised nothing more than those calficified dry roasted peanuts. But such a generous gesture in an age of indifference goes a long way to mollifying rumbling stomachs, and shows that even a crown corporation has a little heart.

HAROLD GREER

A Cancer-Energy Tradeoff

TORONTO — For some years now — the first evidence appeared in 1967 — there has been a growing suspicion if not a knowledge that society's increasing dependence on nuclear energy would involve a heavy and horrible price. It could mean some uranium miners would have to die of lung cancer.

Ore bodies containing uranium are radioactive and radiation can cause cancer. The greatest danger arises when the ore body is being mined and radioactive dust gets into the lungs. Recently completed statistical research on 15,094 miners who worked one or more months in the uranium mines of Ontario between 1955 and 1974 showed that the incidence of lung cancer was about twice that of the male population of Ontario as a whole.

Understandably there has been a rather desperate desire to mitigate the stark implications of this evidence. Nobody likes to accept the proposition that some miners must die because society needs energy. There has therefore been a pronounced tendency to blame the old days, when the problem was little understood and dust conditions in the mines were bad and radiation levels were high. There is a widely-held theory that lung cancer results only from prolonged exposure to high levels of radiation.

Punctures Theories

Above all, there has been a determination to believe that with the greatest application of mine-ventilating techniques and other methods for controlling dust and contamination, and with the imposition of still-lower exposure limits for miners, the risk of lung cancer can be reduced to normal, so that uranium can go on being mined without necessarily causing some miners to die in the process.

Those who believe all this should read chapter three of James Ham's report on the health and safety of Ontario miners.

Ham is dean of graduate studies at the University of Toronto and before that was dean of the faculty of applied science and engineering. For the past two years he has been investigating the occupational health and safety of miners for the Ontario government.

His report has been hailed as brilliant and exhaustive, and so it is. It is written in a way that the government can accept all or most of his 117 recommendations without people wondering why many of them were never implemented years ago. The provincial government has promised speedy action and everyone is delighted.

They should read chapter three again because there Ham says in so many words that lung cancer is an occupationl disease for uranium miners about which little, as far as he can see, can be done. If we want nuclear energy, we are going to have to kill some miners to get it.

To be sure, Ham recommends that whatever can be done to minimize the risk of lung cancer among the miners should be done. He proposes, among other things, that the Atomic Energy Control Board and the Ontario government get together to set a maximum annual exposure limit for mine and mill workers. (Believe it or not, there is only a "guideline" now.) He says uranium mines should be required to install central monitoring systems to make sure their ventilation networks are functioning properly.

URANIUM CITY
. . . Saskatchewan uranium mine

He says the government should specify radiation levels at the workplace which, if exceeded, automatically close the workplace down until corrected. He urges miners to give up cigarette smoking, which appears to double the risk.

But on the central question of a "safe" threshold of exposure, he has only these chilling words:

"Since the commission's study of data based on the Ontario uranium nominal roll (the 15,094 miners referred to above, and the best evidence extant) provides no evidence supporting the hypothesis of a threshold of exposure below which there is not sugnificant excess risk, the concept of a maximum safe exposure is not tenable on the basis of this data . . . Therefore, until contrary evidence is presented, the commission considers the issue to be that of setting the standard at as low as is practically and economically feasible, having regard to the human risks that are acceptable in return for the benefits of nuclear power."

Furthermore, Ham says, there is no point in instituting a policy of removing a miner from exposure and placing him in another job after he has reached some designated radiation accumulation.

This will be disconcerting news to the government and the mining industry, which has clearly been hoping that just such a policy of work rotation can solve the whole problem; the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board recently introduced such a policy for the uranium miners at Elliot Lake, Ont., on the theory that some of them have reached a "threshold" level of risk.

Be Generous?

But Ham says there is no medical or scientific basis for it. While it seems clear the risk of lung cancer increases with the amount of radiation exposure, a particular miner may or may not experience lung cancer at any level of exposure.

"Medical science is not currently able to determine which individual regardless of exposure . . . is destined to develop carcinoma of the lung." Therefore job rotation simply runs the risk of replacing a man who may not have it with a man who may get it.

Perhaps the most chilling recommendation of all, however, is Ham's final one. The Workmen's Compensation Board to date has accepted some 23 cases of lung cancer among uranium miners, for compensation, paid invariably to widows and families.

Ham suggests the WCB locate the families of all uranium miners in Ontario known to have died of lung cancer (81) and advise them to enter claims for compensation.

The board, he says, should be "generous" in adjudicating such claims, because "the costs of nuclear power for public use are so vast that the costs of being publicly responsible to uranium miners and their families are by comparison negligible." A comforting thought, indeed.

Irish Views

On my return to Victoria I have read your correspondent's letter One Hundred in Solitary and I should like to comment as follows:

Bitter hatred, even when it is based on historical facts, will not solve any problem and the situation in Ulster confirms my view. The withdrawal of British troops would certainly not solve the problem but would result in a blood bath.

Your correspondent Anne V. Sherbrook says that Ireland has been a colony for 900 years but I would point out that by the free choice of the freely-elected parliament of the 26 counties, Ireland elected to be a republic and not a member of the commonwealth.

Your correspondent says that the greatest crime in England today is to be Irish and yet there are over one million Irishmen and women living and working in Britain today.

The freely-elected government in Dublin is introducing laws which would increase the penalties for being a member of the IRA and for any acts for which they are convicted by Irish courts.

In the two world wars more Irishmen from the south joined the British forces per capita of population than any other member of the commonwealth.

Civil wars are always cruel and violent and the civil wars in the U.S. and Spain were certainly no exceptions. However, I can assure your correspondent that the parent of the British soldiers who serve in Ulster and fight an unknown enemy are not at all overjoyed by the presence of their sons in the six counties.

Your correspondent did not propose a settlement of the problem but if she has such a solution, except the total withdrawal of the British forces which would result in a blood-bath, I strongly urge her to offer her services to end this tragedy. — M. P. B. Wrixon, 301—1701 Cedar Hill Cross Road.

Better Way

I would like to comment on the article concerning industrial democracy in Monday Magazine of Aug. 27.

As one of many people who has felt that political support of organized labor has been imperative to ensure dignity and fairness for the working people, I too have been doing some re-thinking about the tools available to the worker.

I respect Victoria MLA Charles Barber's attempt to deal with the very controversial issue of strikes and lockouts. I wonder if the reluctance of the North American working person to give up his right to strike is based upon the lack of a better method to ensure his ability to be treated fairly by his employer? That has certainly been uppermost in my mind when contemplating the economic disaster in which we presently live.

Mr. Barber's research and proposals make eminent sense, and I sincerely hope that those of us in the work force will consider thoughtfully the suggestions which Mr. Barber discusses.

Perhaps a concerted effort by both management and labor to "find a better way" for the good of us all will produce a new era in workers' rights and production efficiency.

Well done Mr. Barber. — R. Rolfe, 2601 Penryhn Street.

Legion Praised

I am writing this to put in my two cents worth on the side of the Legion.

Comrade G. V. Laurenson is right in standing behind the Legion as it has done a magnificent job of helping the veterans down through the years. Some of the things the legion is doing for members and veterans are: 1. Giving money for meals when they are destitute. 2. Finding them housing accommodation. 3. Sponsoring education bursaries for bright students. 4. Active in sports — hockey and baseball for kids' teams. 5. Sponsoring picnics for DVA patients, this year excepted. 6. Distributing cigarettes and candy to veterans who are in hospitals. 7. Last but not least, giving the indigent veterans a decent burial when they die.

Those are only a few of the things that the Legion is doing to help the veteran. I could go on naming more but I won't.

You are real quick in asking the legion for help when you are down and out, but when you get a few dollars in your pocket you are real quick to knock the Legion too.

Dear Concerned and Disgusted, the legion is a lot better off without your kind. As for being a veteran, I doubt it very much.

Those so-called Legion members who you see "guzzling" beer in the club bars are not veterans. Eighty per cent of them are only in the Legion to have the prestige of saying "I am a Legion member."

The veterans are the ones who are doing something for their comrades and serving the Legion. — A Real Veteran.

Hog Fuel

In reference to a letter to the editor from Mr. Gordon M. Shrum, I'd like to suggest that the people of Vancouver Island consider the energy potential in the form of hog fuel, slash, beach logs and garbage, all of which are available at their doorsteps.

I think we should be utilizing our own waste material before talking "nuclear power."

More co-operation between government, hydro and the existing power-producing and consuming industries would help a great deal in beginning the use of such waste materials.

Furthermore, there is wind power. Let us not forget this possibility.—L. F. Westerman, Cobble Hill.

Proper Care

The Memorial Hospital was built for the veterans of both world wars with public funds and donations and was guaranteed by the federal government that this establishment would be always there for veterans, some of whom had given up to 6½ years of their prime years in life so that Canadians could all enjoy the things we have today.

All people of good conscience should make every effort to see that the federal government lives up to the promises and agreements that all veterans would be cared for in a hospital that was built for them — the veterans' Memorial Hospital.

As lower Vancouver Island and Victoria proper has more veterans per capita than anywhere else in Canada, I urge all members of the R.C.L., A.N.A.F., 800 Wing Air Force and concerned citizens to please get in touch with your MLA, MP, alderman to make sure that the veterans who were there when it counted are not counted out and should at least be given the proper care and treatment they are entitled to.

"Have you forgotten? Do you remember?"—J. C. Chambers, 2664 Millstream Road.

Wasting Food

In your issue of August 27 Richard Gwyn discusses the possibilities of Canada's productive capacities for supplying food for our increasingly demanding world.

He comments upon the conflicting estimates made of that capacity from the Science Council of Canada (pessimistic) and the optimistic view of the Ryerson Polytechnical Institute.

It is of interest to recall that the Rowell-Sirois royal commission of 40 years ago put the optimum population of Canada at 35 million. This is higher than the Science Council gives, and evidently less than the estimate R.P.I. would make.

What none of these commentators or studies considers are the facts that it takes about seven pounds of grain to make one pound of meat, and thus our food supplies are diminished to a comparatively large degree.

A second factor reducing our available food supply is the diversion of food grains and fruits, mostly grapes, in the destructive process involved in the production of alcoholic beverages.

One wonders what degree of wisdom is involved in deliberately destroying good foods for this harmful purpose. —H. T. Allen, 2140 Kings Road.

Positive Solutions

As frequently happens in this community when there are health and hospital problems, I am approached by individual citizens and asked to become involved in looking into such types of problems as they arise. In this particular instance I am just as dedicated as any veteran is towards seeing that the best possible standard of hospital and health care generally, be made available to the veterans.

It is in that context that I became involved in the current dispute regarding hospital service to veterans, and I will certainly do all that I can on their behalf to see that any shortcomings in the present service are corrected. However, it is very important in any public debate of this nature, where inevitably emotions can run high, that neither side in the argument indulge in the continuing dissemination of inaccurate information. In this particular issue, there has been the frequent statement by veterans that they will be losing, and I emphasize the word "losing," certain services to which they were accustomed when the veterans' hospital came under the jurisdiction of the federal government.

In particular, there has been repeated mention of the fact that veterans will lose the outpatient department as of Jan. 1, 1977. The fact is that the outpatient services will be relocated in a different building, next to the emergency department of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, in a room which is presently being completely renovated for the explicit and particular purpose of providing the most up to date and efficient standard of outpatient care. Furthermore, veterans will have access to that ambulatory care department 24 hours a day, and seven days a week, which is a standard of outpatient service which they did not receive under the former system when the federal government operated the hospital.

Under that former system, outpatient services were available only Monday to Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and were certainly non-existent during the substantial part of the week from 4:30 p.m. on a Friday until 8:30 a.m. on a Monday morning. During these hours outpatient and emergency services which were required by veterans were handled through the emergency department of either the Jubilee Hospital or the Victoria General Hospital. I do not wish to belabor this one specific point, but if the community as a whole is to understand the nature of the present dispute and if a spirit of co-operation and goodwill is to exist as an important means of resolving the dispute, then this is not likely to happen if wrong and inaccurate facts are constantly appearing in the columns of our local newspapers.

Undoubtedly, certain aspects of the federal-provincial agreement had led to changes in the services being provided to veterans, and I would be the first to defend their right to seek in every legal and democratic way open to them, to make their complaint to the authority concerned, and to seek correction of the inadequacies as they see them. Good will and mutual trust between both sides in the dispute, however, are essential, and this is not likely to be established if either side persists in misrepresenting some of the facts.

I am very eager, as I am sure every citizen in this province is eager, to see that veterans receive fair play in all their medical and social needs, and if the local situation is not fair and satisfactory, then indeed it must be corrected.

As a local elected representative I have always tried to speak out frankly and honestly on issues as I see them, and on contentious matters to be fair to all parties concerned. It is now up to all of us who are involved in this issue to sit down in an atmosphere of good will, stick to the facts, and work out a happy solution. — G. Scott Wallace, MLA, Leader, Progressive Conservative Party of British Columbia.

Norway: A Surfeit Of Riches

By PETER T. KILBORN

OSLO — Norway is poised to become the world's richest country, surpassing all except the few Arab sheikdoms that float on oil.

It is oil in Norway, too, North Sea oil, that is pushing the country past Switzerland and neighboring Sweden, currently the world leaders in wealth per capita. But unlike Kuwait or Saudi Arabia, Norway today would be relatively well off even without oil.

The country's prosperity has spawned a new model of the welfare state, a prosperous model that is still the unfulfilled goal of the Communist nations and a more generous and humane experiment, people here say, than the well-known one of Sweden.

"I have the distinct impression that Norwegians are satisfied with their lives," said Bjorn Balstad, head of the Norwegian Gallup Institute. "Quite a few people are saying they are too affluent and could do with less."

Indeed, one Gallup study found that 76 per cent of Norway's four million people felt they were too well off, in relation to the rest of the world, and that an additional 22 per cent felt their living standard was satisfactory. Ninety per cent think they eat too much.

Norway's growing oil wealth has meant that the government can disregard the harsh methods other countries sometimes have to use to protect their economies.

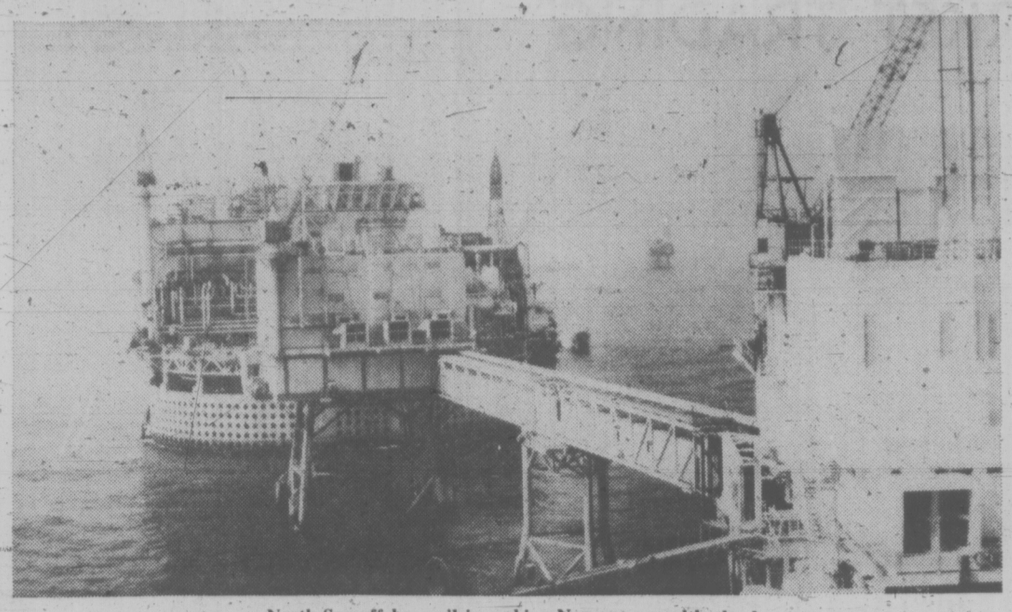

Last year when the worldwide recession forced nearly all other Western developed countries to accept high unemployment and economic decline, Norway enjoyed almost full employment and real economic growth. Norway did it by running up unprecedented debts in foreign loans, which will all be repaid, with little apparent pain, from the coming surge in oil revenues.

Such policies are propelling Norway ahead of the rest of the world. Just three years ago, before the first oil had come ashore, Norway ranked ninth among the 25 developed countries that make up the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development.

By last year, Norway was third; its per capita gross national product then was $7,100. This was $50 more than that of the United States and about $1,300 behind Switzerland and Sweden.

This year, and well into the 1980s, Norwegians expect their economy to grow at annual rates of 6 per cent and more. Switzerland's economy, by contrast, will grow only 1 per cent this year, the OECD predicts, and that of Sweden only 1.5 per cent.

Norway's prosperity is not the sort experienced by countries that blossomed earlier in the industrial Revolution. It is not the limousine wealth of the relatively few that is apparent here.

North Sea offshore oil is making Norway a wealthy land

There are few real epuivalents of swank shops or plush homes, no private schools to speak of, no well-heeled teen-agers in sports cars. The only Rolls-Royce in Oslo is believed to be the British Ambassador's, and of the thousands of boats in Oslo Fjord, the only true big yacht belongs to the country's jovial King Olav.

Norway's wealth, instead, is that of a sprawling middle class with paper-thin minorities at the extremities. Factory workers live nearly as well as their bosses. Every elementary school has a doctor, a dentist and a nurse. Up to half the population owns or has ready access to a scond home, usually a modest, wood-frame cabin in the mountains or along the coasts.

Taxes are among the world's highest. They are a common source of complaint, and evading them is a national sport. But it is the tax system, primarily, that has equalized incomes and preserved much of the traditional society. Taxes are used to subsidize farmers and fishermen.

The country's widely distributed prosperity has been hard on frugality. "Small boys," said Mrs. Tove Pihl, a school headmistress, "refuse to wear white underpants. They have to be colorful. And you should see the standard of their bicycles, their skis and their ski boots."

Despite their affluence, Norwegians have their worries, and their society has its flaws. There are still a few big businessmen — landowners and secretive shipowners—who have been able to beat the system. One shipowner paid no taxes at all last year because of business reversals, but at his home he built a tennis court, an indoor swimming pool and a garden.

At the other end of the social scale are the dropouts and the rejects, many of them dark-skinned immigrant workers from Pakistan whom the homogenous Nordic race has been reluctant to try to absorb.

"In general," said Odd-Steffen Dalgard, one of the country's few psychiatrists, "Norwegians are happy to be Norwegians. But we are not a welfare state in that all our problems are solved."

The urbanization of Norway, he said, seemed to be creating even more strains here than in other countries because until now Norway had been an unusually immobile, rural society.

"It seems to be," he said, "that people are less concerned with each other. There's a trend that problems should be met by some form of expert help. In rural areas, people are able to use their resources to help one another."

Flaws have crept into the economy, too. Inflation last year exceeded 10 per cent, and it is still above that level now. A higher level of inflation than most other countries are experiencing means that eventurally the prices of the goods Norway exports will exceed those of competing countries.

Oil is now coming ashore at an annual rate of 16 million tons, twice the amount the country uses for its own purposes. By 1980, the rate will be 70 million tons. It will continue to flow well into the next century. Revenues from the sale of oil then should be about $3.6 billion, or $900 per capita.

But even in the 1980s, oil will still represent only a quarter of Norway's exports. The other exports — lumber, pulp, furniture, machinery, sardines — will have to sell at competitive prices to assure the country's prosperity.

Plumber Parking A Tricky Issue

By JOHN CLARKE
The Globe and Mail

After they'd stopped laughing, many more thoughtful British Columbians last week were beginning to wonder whether the plumbers' union in Vancouver hadn't struck a sensitive nerve when it asked for free parking at downtown construction sites.

Free parking for the plumbers or at least compensation from their employers for the parking expenses they face? Everybody knows plumbers are among the most privileged of the already highly privileged construction workers in B.C. At least their hourly wage rates seem to many other workers a mark of privilege.

And plumbers have always considered themselves at the top of the pecking order among the construction trades. To most people plumbers are already getting more than they deserve. So why should anybody be prepared to give them free parking?

That's the question the Construction Labor Relations Association is asking and answering with a resounding no. The cement masons, also trade unionists, are indeed threatening to walk off the job if plumbers get free parking and they don't. No doubt a lot of other unions would do the same thing.

But it is true that members of the plumbers' union who have to work downtown are faced with expenses their brothers working elsewhere don't have to bother about. Those expenses are being pushed up by a city government determined to take as many cars off the street as possible to relieve congestion. Yet to give way to plumbers on this point would open up a Pandora's box of difficulties beyond the construction industry.

Wouldn't the thousands of office workers who make up most of the downtown's day population be entitled to free parking as well? And what about department store staffs and so on? They face parking expenses their counterparts in the suburbs don't face.

Businessmen may not get free parking but they often have other privileges that are just as valuable. The business lunch. The club membership. The gasoline allowances for which many of them get their pleasure driving free.

The point is that if the business perks are justifiable, it's also true that in an increasingly complex society ordinary workers are beginning to face work-related expenses that aren't covered in union agreements.

Labor has, of course, tried and sometimes succeeded in negotiating allowances for some of these extra costs. But it's unfair, say non-union workers, for union members to get such benefits while they can't.

That's the nub of the question. Frank Stevens, business agent for the cement masons' union, said downtown parking is not a plumbing issue. It's an issue for the construction industry as a whole, he claimed.

And, one might add, for the whole economic society. The implication of Stevens's remark is that collective bargaining or the labor union contract is not an appropriate vehicle for resoving the problem. It's a national issue, or at least becoming a national issue, that can only be resolved through some form of legislation, possibly an income tax deduction for workers' "business" expenses or some other compensation mechanism.

Nobody really expects plumbers to solve the parking issue this time around. But they are putting the question on notice for either future negotiations or possibly a legislative objective of the trade union movement.

Economic Council With Labor, Business Makes Sense

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — Organized labor is so much and so often the villain in this country. It is much more so, in middle-class circles (which are big, big circles) than is either big business or big government.

The "national day of protest" is the latest twist in the serial drama for unions as surely rogues, nay sayers and obstructionists.

It is bootless to spend time wondering how an interest group which framed something known as Labor's Manifesto for its convention and which followed up the manifesto by presenting proposals inspired by it to the prime minister, should now be distracting itself and everybody else from these interesting and arguable ideas with a one-day work stoppage.

The stoppage does nothing for the ideas which might well get a good hearing from middle-income, non-union people. About all October 14 might do for organized labor's purpose, if about two million workers stay away from their job, is to enable Joe Morris to say publicly to Pierre Trudeau: "See . . . we're strong enough for you to listen to us."

Personally, I think Trudeau, and, as far as that goes, Joe Clark as prime minister would listen at any time to the CLC speaking for organized labor. What's crucial in such an audience is not how many are on a demonstration picket line but the worth and force of the ideas being advanced.

By not revealing the kind of system post-controls which the unions would like and would take part in, the Congress is letting its views be discounted without ever being put.

For example, the critique is already out, bruited a bit by the prime minister, but echoed by scores of editorialists, that the CLC's concept, something called tripartism or corporatism, is unacceptable in a parliamentary democracy because it shifts decisions out of the hands of a representative or elected government to a group in which two of the three participants (labor and businesss) are not really of the people, by the people, for the people.

Yet the gist of the CLC proposals to Trudeau is that the tripartite body would be responsible through a minister to Parliament.

An act of Parliament would create the body. Parliament would have the final role in monitoring, amending and extending the proposals and the powers of the body.

The CLC suggests the name, Council for Social and Economic Planning, for the body. Labor and business would be numerically equal and government would have somone acting as chairman. By definition, goes the CLC argument, the government could not be an equal partner on the tripartite set-up because "the right to govern must always rest with the government."

Rather than the Congress envisaging a super-body that would be either above Parliament or off to one side of it, the proposal really would create a new economics ministry which would have a major and regular in-put and participation by an equal number of people chosen by organized labor and organize business.

Once one steps back from the proposal and makes due allowance for the possibility of a planning system where almost all the information and activity is out in the open, neither the proposed structure nor the role to be given labor and business leaders seems shocking or impractical.

Indeed, the impractical aspects seem to come beforehand, that is, in obtaining agreement and a process from both organized labor and what we call business for the delegation of such power in their name to a few of their representatives. A Joe Morris, for example, couldn't sit at such a table unless he had the Grace Hartmans and Louis Laberges solidly for him all the time.

The CLC argued to the prime minister that Parliament has already delegated functions of direct, economic management to agencies such as agricultural product marketing boards and the National Energy Board. What is so revolutionary about putting a wider range of functions under a super-ministry which it calls a council?

The CLC seemed to make the case to the government that the proposed council would have several subsidiary agencies, including a "labor market board." It would oversee and administer the labor force on a national basis, forecast long and short term changes in the market, train and retrain workers, regulate immigration in direct relation to the state of the economy, supervise unemployment insurance, channel investment funds, regulate investment flows and time both private and public investment projects of large scale.

Nobody else in partisan politics or the national interest groups has developed proposals for the future of such a sweep, certainly not the New Democratic Party, certainly not the prime minister in any of his speculations about the Canadian system for the future.

Now that the CLC has done it should it not get the ideas out to its members and to everybody else?

Another Ho-Hum Murder

russell baker

The gangsters Sam Giancana and John Roselli, who were associated with the CIA in a scheme to dispatch Fidel Castro, have now both been murdered after discussing their CIA enterprise with the United States Senate, and the police have pronounced the incidents "gangland-style killings."

The phrase "gangland-style killing" has the cozy resonance of "homestyle cooking," perhaps because both suggest the intimacy of hearth and fire with nobody but us family gathered round and nobody else welcome, Jack. These family affairs are, of course, meddled into by the constabulary, but rarely with much enthusiasm.

This may be because police success at nabbing perpetrators of "gangland-style killings" has never been such as to get them into the world series of detection, with the result that incessant failure may have dulled their appetite for the hunt.

Or, it may be because policemen believe the subjects of "gangland-style killings" aren't worth working overtime for. I don't know, and I certainly don't mean to impute either languor, timidity or indifference to America's homicide squads. I simply point out that once a murder has been called ' gangland-style," apprehension of the perpetrators almost invariably fails to occur.

This raises the question whether "gangland-style" murders might possibly be catching among people who don't come from gangland. Consider the Roselli case. The body is found in the customary barrel, with the customary weights, in the customary water. It bears the customary bullet holes. Roselli's publicized standing in gangland seems to leave an open-and-shut case, which the police will quietly shut as soon as possible.

If you and I know this, reader, does it not follow that it is also known by, let us say, some hot-tempered waiter whom Roselli has been consistently undertipping for years?

If that waiter wanted to take his revenge and get away with it, is it not logical that he would do it "gangland-style," so the police could forget it, rather than by scalding Roselli to death in public with a tureen of lobster bisque?

This is not to suggest that the police ought to be giving Roselli's waiters the third degree, but merely to point out that gangland can have no monopoly on "gangland-style killing." Anybody with a barrel, some concrete and a capacious expanse of water can engage in it, just as readily as your corner greasy spoon can engage in "home-style cooking."

The one special requirement is a victim who is a bona fide citizen of gangland. Obviously, a philandering husband cannot do in a loyal wife of 40 years "gangland-style' and expect the police not to lift an eyebrow. Unless the subject is the real gangland thing, it won't work.

The corollary of this fact is that gangland people are peculiarly vulnerable to "gangland-style" murder by devious non-ganglanders, who have no right to get away with it.

This must be infuriating to them. Imagine that you are an eminent statesman of gangland, and the vexation becomes manifest. You are entirely prepared to be sent off "gangland style" by your colleagues. Those are the rules of the land.

Moreover, if they complete the job, you wouldn't dream of telling the police who did it, even if you could. That would violate the rules of the sportsmanship governing gangland. In gangland, good sports don't tell.

But to have some alien from the outer world — some straight-Jake cousin who wants his share of your will prematurely, some barber who hates your sideburns — to have somebody like this do the job on you and get away with it because it's done "gangland style" — ah, my friend, that must seem cruel injustice.

Such a bad egg as that you would surely betray to the cops. How infuriating it would be if they looked at the barrel, the concrete, the water, the bullet holes and closed the case with a quietly-murmured, "just another gangland-style killing."

You will have been the victim, not only of murder, but also of discrimination, for it is only your membership gangland that prevents the police from extending themselves to bring your persecutor to justice.

I do not know how policemen feel about non-members of gangland killing gangland members "gangland style," but my hunch is that they take a sterner view of it than they do of gangland men bumping off each other. The average cop probably thinks it is not the kind of thing decent people ought to be doing.

I know very well that gangland folks don't approve of it, and to make sure that there is no misunderstanding, I want to assure them that I haven't the heart to swat a fly, myself, and, what's more, I've never been any good with concrete.

Second Quarter Growth Slows

OTTAWA (CP) — Real growth in Canada's economy slowed in the second quarter of the year but the slowdown was the result of a swing to inventory liquidation.

Statistics Canada says the gross national product — total spending on goods and services — rose at a seasonally-adjusted rate of 3.3 per cent from April 1 to July 1, but after adjustment for price increases the real growth was unchanged.

The second quarter GNP value was $182.9 billion, following a "very large" 2.7-per-cent real increase in the first three months of 1976, the agency said.

"The slowdown in real growth should not be interpreted as a signal that the recovery is about to abort however, because it is entirely the result of a substantial swing to inventory liquitation from last quarter's massive accumulation," Statistics Canada said.

The agency added it was apparent in the first quarter that the inventory accumulation could not be maintained and the slowdown in the second quarter was not unexpected.

"The average rate of real growth for the first half, with the distorting effects of the inventory movements very nearly cancelling themselves out, was a respectable 1.3 per cent."

The agency said the slowdown in import growth brought about an improvement in the balance of trade and personal expenditure returned to healthy growth after a relatively weak first quarter.

Personal spending on goods and services rose by 3.3 per cent to $106.3 billion in the three-month period, while in real terms, consumption grew by 1.7 per cent. The consumption growth in the first quarter was six-tenths of one per cent.

Spending on durable goods rose 5.4 per cent in the second quarter, compared with a decline of 7.5 per cent in the first three months of 1976.

Sales of new passenger vehicles were 15.1 per cent above those in the first quarter.

Residential construction remained the strongest component of investment with a real growth rate of 2.6 per cent. On the other hand, investment by business in non-residential construction fell by nine-tenths of one per cent.

After falling for two quarters, real business investment in machinery and equipment rose 1.6 per cent.

Exports of goods and services climbed 3.7 per cent in the second quarter largely due to increased sales to the U.S. Largest export increases came in iron ore, automobiles and newsprint.

Imports grew relatively slowly at a rate of 1.5 per cent, following a 6.2-per-cent rise in the first quarter.

Combining the import and export movements, the trade balance improved by about $800 million.

Wages, salaries and other labor income rose by 4.7 per cent in the second quarter, with almost half the growth coming from retroactive settlements in the public sector. Corporate profits before taxes were almost unchanged from the first quarter, when there was a 3.9 per cent drop.

Personal income grew by 2.7 per cent compared with 4.6 per cent in the first three months, largely because of lower net income earned by farmers and drops in interest, dividends and other income paid to individuals.

Petrosar Backs Export Of Fuel Oil to U.S.

SARNIA, Ont. — Petrosar Ltd. has submitted a brief to the National Energy Board in support of an export licence being sought by Union Carbide Canada Ltd. to ship up to 26,000 barrels of residual fuel oil daily to a United States customer.

Petrosar said in a statement that Union Carbide is committed to the purchase of the residual fuel — a by-product of Petrosar's petrochemical operations — under a contract signed with Petrosar in 1974.

At that time Union Carbide planned to use the oil as feedstock for a new petroleum coke plant.

However, Union Carbide announced that construction of the plant has been postponed because of changes in market conditions.

Petrosar is constructing a one-billion-pound-per-year ethylene plant in the Sarnia area, a 170,000-barrel-a-day crude oil refining unit and other facilities with a total capital investment of about $400 million.

Petrosar's shareholders and one other company are also building petrochemical derivative plants at Sarnia to use the feedstocks from Petrosar's operation.

Capital investments in these plants represent another $500 million

The brief said it is essential to the commercial success of Petrosar that it operate at high capacity and this means the fuel products produced in the process must be sold.

Plans to export excess fuel products to the U.S. were altered with changes in Canadian government policy on the export of hydrocarbons in 1973-74.

Arrangements were then made to dispose of large quantities of the fuel oil as a feedstock for the proposed Union Carbide plant and as fuel for generating plant extensions being planned by Ontario Hydro

These two outlets were to purchase 50,000 barrels a day of Petrosar's residual fuel oil output of 70,000 to 80,000 barrels a day.

"Due to circumstances of world economics — outside the control of Petrosar — both of these major prospective users of residual oil have postponed their projects for periods up to five years or more," the brief said.

OTTAWA CUTS EXPORT PETROLEUM PRICES

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will reduce export charges on petroleum products by as much as $1.25 a barrel following the latest increase in domestic oil prices.

The reductions, effective today, mean the government will receive less in export revenue for petroleum products shipped out of the country. The over-all price to foreign purchasers will remain the same because of the increase in the domestic price.

Prices rose this week by the equivalent of about five cents a gallon for gasoline with the end of a two-month freeze on domestic prices.

The export charges effectively increase the cost to foreign buyers of Canadian oil to near world price levels.

The new export charges are $3.25 a barrel for gasoline, down from $4.50 and $3.00 for heavy fuel oil and middle distillates, down from $3.25 and $3.75 respectively. The export charge remains at $3.65 a barrel for partially-processed oil

Ottawa's Juvenile Proposals Run Into Tough Opposition

WINNIPEG (CP) — Federal government proposals to introduce new legislation replacing the Juvenile Delinquency Act ran into some tough criticism Tuesday at the annual convention of the Canadian Bar Association.

Members of a discussion panel welcomed the idea of replacing the usually informal atmosphere of a juvenile court with a system using procedures similar to adult court, and with more protection for accused youngsters.

But the panel members expressed concern about the role of a proposed screening agency that would look at juvenile cases before they get to court, and about whether the suggested set of changes would meet social needs.

The question was one of a number of topics, ranging from native rights to reforming the law on evidence, put forward for discussion by about 500 lawyers attending the four-day meeting which ends Thursday.

The draft legislation was drawn up after a two-year attempt, which collapsed in 1972, to get through Parliament the Young Offenders Bill, which was criticized for over-stressing the application of courtroom procedure to youngsters.

Daniel Prefontaine, director of policy planning for the federal solicitor-general's department, said the proposed new changes generally would hold youngsters responsible for their actions, but not to the same degree as adults.

He said if youngsters are to be held fully responsible, they must be given the same court services as an adult, including a defence lawyer. Instead of being asked whether they have committed a delinquency, the youngsters would enter formal pleas of guilty or not guilty to specific charges.

Insp. Fern Alexander of youth staff services, Metropolitan Toronto Police Department, complained that the screening agency, which would determine whether a case goes to court would act in secret and would be accountable to no one.

It would be better to mend faults in the current system rather than patch on another bureaucratic agency. The proposals would not meet the problem of crimes that are being committed by younger and younger children, she said.

The proposed law would double the age of criminal responsibility to 14 and would apply to youths over 13 and under 18. Unlike the current law, which can include municipal and other minor offences, it would deal only with criminal matters.

Insp. Alexander said half the known juvenile offenders in Toronto are under the age of 14, and the offences in which they are involved range from breaking and entering to assault to the possession of drugs or offensive weapons.

"Some of the characteristics of the 14- to 18-year-olds that were seen in the late 1960s now are evident among 12- to 14-year-olds," she said. Also, more girls are involved in crimes that once were committed only by boys.

Wayne Myshkowsky, senior crown attorney for Winnipeg Family Court, said he welcomed the proposal to establish a Canada-wide uniform maximum age for juvenile offences, in place of the varying provincial definitions of juvenile age.

Myshkowsky said, however, that on balance the proposed new law is unnecessary. He agreed with the majority panel view that it would be better simply to concentrate on mending faults in the present law.

The federal proposals were defended by panelist Robert Sacchitelle, a Montreal lawyer and former director of the youth section, Legal Aid Quebec. He praised the move to make charges specific and to tighten up procedures.

Sacchitelle cited a case where a juvenile court judge in Montreal, instead of asking a youngster whether he was guilty or not, asked whether the allegation was true. This type of question cuts off several avenues of defence.

He also referred to a 1962 case where a judge refused to recognize a lawyer as representing a child. The judge's reasoning was that engaging a lawyer was a contract and child could not enter into a contract.

Family Court Judge Mary Carter of Saskatoon said 75 per cent of those who appear in juvenile court don't come back to court. The repeaters generally come from homes where nobody cares about them, she said.

She said she did not object to guaranteeing that a youngster may have a lawyer and is treated with due process of the law. But some family court judges felt the proposed new law was a sort of criticism of them.

Judge Carter said the federal proposals would set up an elaborate system which would not get at the objective of helping the youngster who has come into conflict with the law, to become a useful member of society.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

When someone who has been sentenced to an intermittent jail term wants to clean up the last part of it through straight time, it may be impossible to make the change because Parliament hasn't given anyone the legal power to do so.

That's what came out of the case Tuesday in Victoria provincial court of Randall Peter Ginger, 26, of 589 Walter, Saanich, who appeared before Judge William Ostler in the main criminal-court section to ask for such a change.

Statements by Ginger and prosecutor Robert Mulligan showed Ginger was sentenced late in April by Judge Harold Alder to 88 days for trafficking in marijuana. Ginger didn't ask for an intermittent term but Alder ordered one to preserve Ginger's job.

Since then, Ginger had left the job and had served more than 40 days. He had about 20 days to go after the deduction of "good time" and wants to serve them in a row and get the sentence over with.

Ostler said he could not make the change because another judge set the sentence. He added he believed the other judge couldn't, either, because sentences in such cases cannot be altered once committal papers are signed.

He said he thought the jail officials were the only ones who might be able to make the change but "all I can do" is suggest Ginger make a formal request to Alder, who returns from holiday next week.

"Police officers in the proper execution of their duty are not to be demeaned or treated in this manner," Ostler told Koksilah resident Alfred Modeste, 48, who was fined $500 after pleading guilty to a Sidney charge of assaulting a peace officer.

Prosecutor Armand Petronio said Modeste was a passenger in a van whose driver was hurt when it braked July 6 for a spot check by police on the Patricia Bay Highway. Modeste, who thought mistakenly that police had not called an ambulance, punched one constable and wrestled him into a ditch.

Ostler said higher courts have declared such offences should usually earn a jail term but Modeste had been drinking and was confused and anxious because of his friend's injury.

Ostler said only the fact that Suzanne Mae Harvey, 22, of 626 Gorge, had a six-month old child prevented him from sending her to jail.

She pleaded guilty Aug. 11 to a two-count Victoria charge of false pretences laid after two worthless cheques were written in July to obtain items worth about $130. At the time, she was on probation for a similar offence.

The judge extended her probation by one year starting Tuesday, ordered repayment of the $130 and told Ms. Harvey she must do 150 hours of community work.

A fine of $250 was imposed by Ostler against Herbert Friesen, 41, of 2622 Prior, who pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of theft involving less than $200.

William Robert Smith, 26, of 1275 Centre, pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of possession of marijuana Aug. 15 at his residence and was fined $250 by Ostler. Prosecutor Sheryl Dunn said police found 54 marijuana plants ranging from three inches to three feet high.

Clive Edward Haas, 21, and Gregory Allen Searle, 19, both of 232 Burnside West, waived preliminary hearing on a joint charge of possession of marijuana Aug. 21 in Saanich for the purpose of trafficking. Ostler then ordered a higher-court trial of the charge. Each man is free until trial on $500 surety bail.

Ostler set Dec. 22 as preliminary hearing date for Manuel Braga, 36, of 1328 Vining, on a two-count Victoria charge dated July 23 of intent to wound through causing bodily harm to a Victoria woman "by cutting her with a knife" and of unlawfully setting fire to a chesterfield on his property in a manner likely to cause a building to catch fire. Braga chose trial by judge and jury and is free on bail until Dec. 22.

David Edmund Fredette, 17, no fixed address, chose trial in provincial court on two Saanich charges — one of an Aug. 20 break-in and theft and one of possession Aug. 22 of a known stolen car. Fredette, who was earlier refused bail on the possession charge, pleaded not guilty and had his trials set for Sept. 9.

In traffic court, Scott Walter Fellner, 23, of 2542 Bowker, pleaded guilty to an Oak Bay charge of impaired driving May 18 and was sentenced by Judge Blake Allan to a 14-day intermittent jail term plus a $200 fine or another 14 days if the fine is not paid.

In the court section of Judge F. S. Green, a higher-court trial was ordered for Robert George Gibb and Lawrence Kenneth Prokopovich, both 37 and of 1331 Pandora, after preliminary hearing of a Victoria charge of a break-in with intent and dangerous use of a firearm May 1 at a home at 2514 Graham. Both men are free on bail pending outcome of the trial.

Also in traffic court, William James Boughen, 25, of 413 Langford, pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of driving Aug. 24 with a blood-alcohol reading above .08 per cent and was fined $500.

Docker Charged

VANCOUVER (CP) — A longshoremen's union local claimed in a British Columbia Supreme Court action started Tuesday that a former officer of the union converted $16,000 in local funds to his own use.

The writ was filed by David Simpson, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, Local 502, and Norman MacDonald, another union officer, on their own behalf and all other members of the local.

Defendant in the action is Robert Bruce Ferguson of Surrey, who is alleged to have taken the money between Jan. 1, 1974, and July 31 this year and invested it in the property where he resides.

The union asks for a court declaration that the land is held in trust for the local, an order for possession and judgment against Ferguson for $16,000.

Plutonium Approval A Step Closer

WASHINGTON (WP) — The Ford administration Tuesday came a step closer to approving the use of plutonium as a nuclear fuel by saying that plutonium posed no environmental hazards serious enough to ban its use.

In a carefully worded summary report, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said it will make no recommendations on whether the United States should begin using plutonium in atomic power plants until it considers the "safeguards" aspects of the plutonium iss

These involve possible diversions or thefts of power plant plutonium by other countries or terrorists interested in making nuclear weapons.

The NRC has been studying the safeguard aspects of plutonium use for almost two years and is expected to complete its report in the next two months.

The NRC took almost three years to complete the report released Tuesday which concerned the "health, safety and environmental aspects" of plutonium use.

The central question addressed by the report is whether there are any serious health and environmental hazards posed by the recycling of plutonium from spent uranium fuel.

Plutonium is not now used as a fuel for atomic power plants, which burn uranium to generate electricity.

While the uranium burns, some of it is converted to plutonium through radioactive decay.

The plutonium then burns along with the uranium, producing about one-third of the power plant's electricty through the useful life of the fuel.

With the price of uranium skyrocketing and a possible shortage in sight, many energy experts have urged the Ford administration to approve the use of plutonium as a starting fuel for atomic power plants.

Proponents of plutonium recycle claim it will cost the country as much as $18 billion in the next 20 years if a decision is made not to recycle plutonium.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission said that the use of plutonium would extend uranium resources and reduce the need for new plants to enrich uranium.

The NRC conceded that a switch to plutonium would result in the widespread construtions of plants to reclaim plutonium from spent uranium

WINDJAMMER SAILS IN

The thunder of a nine-gun salute greeted the 238-foot windjammer Christian Radich in Toronto Tuesday. The Norwegian vessel, a three-masted squarerigger which was featured in the movie The Windjammer will stay in the Ontario capital for four days.

Boilermaker Pay Cut

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Anti-Inflation Board has cut almost six per cent from a proposed two-year settlement negotiated on behalf of workers at Pacific Truck and Trailer in North Vancouver.

The board recommended the first-year increase of 15.7 per cent be reduced to 12 per cent, and the second-year boost drop to eight per cent from 10 per cent.

Jeff Power, president of the Marine Workers and Boilermakers Union which represents the 160 employees, said Tuesday the company and the union plan a joint appeal of the rollback.

He said the negotiated increases were clearly designed to maintain the workers' wage parity with such local firms as Freightliner of Canada Ltd.

No, said Power, they will fall even further behind.

Major Funds for Cleaner Cars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted Tuesday to spend hundreds of millions of U.S. government dollars for gas-efficient and clean autos for the future.

The house gave final Congressional passage to a bill authorizing $160 million through fiscal year 1981 for research and demonstration of electric and "hybrid" cars using new fuels or using fuels in a new way.

The Senate had already approved the same bill, and House action sends it to the White House.

The House also approved a House-Senate conference version of a bill to authorize $100 million through fiscal 1978 for advanced ways to make cars go, in a fuel-stingy, non-polluting and safe way.

The Senate has yet to act on that conference report.

There had been some opposition to the auto propulsion research idea, on grounds it would just make the federal government do what auto manufacturers should do anyway. Language was added in the bill that makes clear the money is intended to supplement, not replace, the private companies' spending for research.

The bill would authorize $25 million in fiscal 1977, starting in October, and $75 million in fiscal 1978 for the start of what is intended as a five-year program. The work will develop new propulsion for the auto and will produce test vehicles.

Ford Rushes Parkland Purchase

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN

WASHINGTON (WP) — The Ford administration Tuesday asked Congress to appropriate $141 million for the purchase of national parks and wildlife refuges, part of the parks expansion program that the president announced Sunday.

Administration officials insisted they think Congress could act on at least part of the parks and wildlife expansion this year.

All of the money for the acquisitions had been previously authorized by Congress but had not been requested in appropriations by the administration until Tuesday.

Busing Protests Start

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The second year of court-ordered school busing began here today after police used tear gas to break up a rock-and-bottle-throwing protest by more than 1,000 busing opponents.

Six persons were arrested in the disturbance Tuesday night, authorities said. No injuries were reported.

Both sides in the busing controversy, which began last year after a federal judge ordered city-county busing to achieve racial balance, had forecast calm for the new school year.

But a march and rally of about 300 to 500 busing foes grew into an unruly crowd of more than 1,000 protesters who blocked a highway, tossed rocks and bottles at police and chanted defiance of school desegregation, police said.

School leaders predicted that attendance today would be down, partly because many pupils aren't expected to attend classes until after the Labor Day weekend. This year's projected enrolment is 116,800 down from 122,000 last year.

Carter Takes Bid To Capitol

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter brought his presidential campaign to Washington Tuesday, leaving the capital in the afternoon with ringing endorsements from organized labor and Sen. Edward Kennedy.

But the Democratic nominee for president made less headway with a group of Catholic bishops, with whom he met privately Tuesday and discussed the sensitive abortion issue.

Carter called the meeting "very productive," but Archbishop Joseph Bernardin, an outspoken advocate of government prohibition of abortion, said he was "disappointed" that Carter still refused to endorse his position.

Meanwhile, President Ford and Carter are sending their rival negotiators back to work to draft ground rules for the presidential campaign debates both candidates seek.

The major issue to be settled as negotiators return to work today apparently is the question of what the candidates will debate.

Ford and Carter both have proposed that their personal campaign specialties be staked out as topics for the first debate, likely to be conducted during the third week of September.

Those proposals, like the issues of the number, duration and timing of the debates, may yield to compromise in order to get the show on before a television audience.

Carter already hassaid that the initial negotiating session last Thursday produced a tentative plan for a series of three debates, each 75 minutes long, beginning the third week in this month.

Another Two Dyes Facing Cut-Off by Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. food and drug administration, which recently outlawed the most widely-used U.S. food dye, is considering a ban on two other food colorings — the red used to color maraschino cherries and the black used licorice and jelly beans.

The action is contemplated as a result of a major review of scores of food colorings and dyes that have never won final safety approval from the FDA.

The two food colors the agency may decide to forbid are Red. No. 4 and "Carbon Black."

The red coloring is used only in maraschino cherries, while the black is used for various food products including candy.

The FDA said studies on dogs "raised some safety questions" as to whether there is a link between Red No. 4 and urinary-bladder polyps in dogs and "atrophy of adrenals in dogs."

In the case of the black coloring the FDA said it is possible that its manufacture produces a byproduct called "extractable polynuclear aromatics;" which is a known cancer-causer.

The proposed ban on the red color has disturbed the cherry industry which says no other color works as well as Red No. 4.

The FDA also is considering banning 12 colors that aren't used in foods. It has been reviewing 84 colors and dyes which have been on the market pending further tests.

Toxicity Hushed' Company Admits

WASHINGTON (WP) — The former manager of an Allied Chemical Corp. plant in Virginia that produced the highly toxic pesticide Kepone testified Tuesday that he and other Allied employees deliberately concealed information about Kepone from two government agencies out of fear the government would close their plant.

In dramatic testimony on the opening day of a conspiracy trial before a federal judge in Alexandria, Va., Virgil Hundtofte calmly and repeatedly agreed with a federal prosecutor that the employees' action was deliberate and concerted.

"No, there is no doubt in my mind" about the scheme, the chemist told assistant U.S. attorney Stephen Pickard. The Allied workers, Hundtofte said, wanted to "buy time" to cut down on what all realized were pprobably unacceptabl amounts of pesticide and chemical wastes coming from a small Allied plant in Hopewell, Va., in the early 1970s.

Clamor Against FBI Boss Grows

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — U.S. Attorney-General Edward H. Levi has received sparate recommendations from two high-level justice department officials — one, that FBI director Clarence Kelley be fired; the other, that he be publicly reprimanded for receiving gifts from subordinates.

Levi, recently back from vacation, has not acted on the recommendations, which were made three weeks ago.

Justice department and FBI spokesmen had no comment Tuesday night.

John Dowd, who has headed the department's investigation into allegations that certain FBI officials have abused their power, recommended in writing that Kelley be fired, according to government sources.

Dowd's immediate superior, Michael Shaheen, head of the office of professional responsibility, disagreed and recommended instead that Kelley be publicly reprimanded, the sources said.

Their recommendations were made after Kelley admitted to a task force headed by Dowd that he he had accepted from other FBI officials some expensive gifts including a $200 walnut table, a $250 clock, a $250 easy chair, and a handmade teak and mahogany jewelry box.

Kelley issued an extraordinary statement Tuesday, admitting that two sets of plywood valances and a portable cabinet were constructed by the bureau's special exhibits section and installed in his apartment shortly after he took office in mid-1973.

Kelley said the valances were made "without my knowledge" and that the cabinet is FBI property which he plans to return when he leaves office.

He also disclosed that on "a few occasions" his private automobile was driven to a garage by FBI personnel for repairs.

He said he paid for the repairs.

In admitting he has received some gifts from FBI subordinates, Kelley said he is "prepared to make restitution for any such gifts which are not clearly permitted" by federal regulations.

One justice department source said Kelley's repayment could total more than $1,000.

Dowd reportedly is not planning to prosecute Kelley in the matter but is said to have concluded that the FBI director displayed poor judgment and would have great difficulty controlling subordinates who gave him expensive presents.

$1B TO AID U.S. MAIL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A house-senate compromise seeks to freeze postal rate increases and cutbacks in services while providing the U.S. postal service with a needed $1 billion.

The conference version would "solve the short-term financial problems" of the U.S. postal service and block rate increases and service losses, according to Sen. Gale McGee, chairman of the Senate post-office committee.

The administration backs the measure, which must now clear the individual houses of Congress before it reaches President Ford's desk.

Compromise on Super-Bomber

WASHINGTON (WP) — A congressional compromise on the defence money bill agreed Tuesday to block a full-scale production go-ahead on the controversial B-1 bomber until Feb. 1, when the next president is in office, but to allow some production work to start in October as long as the government doesn't obligate more than $86 million a month.

Senate critics of the B-1, like William Proxmire (Dem.—Wis.), John Culver (Dem. — Iowa) and Henry Jackson (Dem. — Wash.), said the compromise — allowing some work but delaying the final decision until next year — was a victory for the Senate and for those who want to preserve the right of the next president to cancel the controversial strategic bomber.

Proxmire said President Ford had planned to obligate most of the $1 billion carried in the big defence money bill for the B-1 in November, thereby moving the nation almost irrevocably into full-scale production.

Now, Proxmire and others said, the President would be able to obligate only $86 million a month starting in October, "making it that much easier for the next president to stop it." Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter has been critical of the plane.

At $86 million a month, only $350 million would be obligated by February, allowing Rockwell International to keep its B-1 "team" of engineers and executives together without going into a large-scale production commitment.

Culver said, "the action by the Senate and House conferees is a qualified but very significant victory for those who believe we should fly before we buy — especially before we buy airplanes at $90 million a copy."

SOVIETS PURCHASE MORE U.S. GRAIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has bought an additional 275,000 metric tons of U.S. wheat worth an estimated $34.6 million for delivery under a long-term agreement which takes effect this fall.

Agriculture Department officials did not disclose the seller of the grain or other details. Grain sales to foreign countries, including Russia, are handled by private firms. No government credit has been involved in recent sales to the Soviets.

Department officials say that grain sales to Russia and other countries will not cause American food prices to jump and that prospective 1976 harvests will be large enough to take care of all domestic and foreign needs.

New Nerve Gas Called Dazzling

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Scientists say the United States defence department is seeking funds to develop a new nerve-gas weapon that they fear might usher in an era of "dazzling, unbelievable" chemical weaponry.

The device, known as a "binary weapon," would contain relatively harmless chemicals which form a highly toxic nerve gas when the weapon is fired, said Dr. R.j. Rutman, a University of Pennsylvania biochemist. He was here for a symposium on binary warfare at the American Chemical Society meeting Tuesday.

"The binary weapon has been called the 'escalatory weapon par excellence.' " he told a news conference.

"The only effective response to it is a nuclear weapon or something more exotic."

Rutman said replacing existing stocks of nerve-gas canisters with binary weapons might make nerve gas politically acceptable by removing the danger of storing and moving an already poisonous gas.

G. R. Berdes, a staff member of the House of Representatives committee on international relations, said middle-level bureaucrats in the Pentagon are eager to get money for a program, twice voted down by Congress, to develop binary nerve-gas weapons.

Berdes said a U.S. decision to start producing the weapons would increase proliferation of chemical weaponry and "pull the cork completely" on negotiations under way in Geneva toward complete chemical disarmament.

Two Medicaid Cheaters Put Blame on System

WASHINGTON (WP) — Two chiropractors, who admitted cheating the U.S. government out of $600,000 in their chain of New York City Medicaid clinics, told Senate investigators Tuesday the permissive nature of the program is an open invitation to fraud.

"Everybody's cheating and everybody's bragging about it, too," Joseph Ingber, 39, told a subcommittee of the Senate Special Committee on Aging that ended two days of sensational testimony that detailed fraud by health professionals in the $15 billion Medicaid program.

As a result of the Seante hearings, Ingber said, "everyone will be careful for a month or two."

After the heat eases up, though, cheating will start up again and no reforms suggested by either the Senate committee or the U.S. attorney for New York will stop the fraud he said.

"This system stinks. You're trying to fix up a lousy system," said Ingber, who ran eight clinics catering to Medicaid patients with his partner, Sheldon Styles, 38, another chiropractor.

He said computerizing practice patterns of doctors who specialize in the care of Medicaid patients, as suggested by U.S. Attorney Robert B. Fiske Jr. and his assistant, George Wilson, is "a farce."

"They'll stay up night and day and not fix up the system."

Ingber and Styles were sentenced last week to five years in jail each and told to pay back the government a total of $138,000 for their part in the Medicaid fraud.

It was the stiffest prison sentence handed down among the 23 defendents in a series of Medicaid fraud cases brought by the U.S. attorney's office in New York City.

Ingber and Styles co-operated in the investigation and their attorney, Sidney Sparrow, said they will appeal to Federal Judge Henry F. Werker for a lessening of the sentences.

They said the system encouraged them to cheat by paying them for Medicaid patients less than half of what they got from their private patients.

In addition, payments were so slow that doctors sold their bills to agencies at 88 cents on the dollar to get quick cash.

"It was natural to feel very cheated by the government," said Ingber.

Spectators sit—and lie—in studied silence as cricket action unfolds on St. Michael's University School pitch.

Charm of Cricket? Golden Silence

max low

Silence broken by the thud of a wooden bat clouting a hard cork-and-leather ball; silence broken by the gentlemanly handclapping of the fans; silence broken by the occasional voice asking the umpire, "How's that?"

But mostly, if you're lucky enough to sit there in the warm sun, it's a kind of timeless silence. The bowlers bowl, the batsmen bat and the fielders scamper after the ball in a quiet, refined way. But no one is really in a hurry and it seems to go on forever.

In the hustle and bustle of life today in North America, nothing seems more out of place than this outdated, outmoded game that is believed to have first been played in England in the 14th century.

Yet, perhaps it is this very contradiction of what we expect to see that is the charm of cricket. And though many of us struggle to understand why, some do find it charming.

Every weekend in the summer you'll see them, maybe a handful, maybe a hundred, at Beacon Hill or Windsor Park or at the picturesque grounds at St. Michael's University School.

"Oh, no!" says George Crookston in a horrified tone. "I don't find it slow. I could sit here all day." And he does, too.

George is typical of many fans here. He was born in England where he "had to" play cricket at school, lives near St. Michael's and has no favorite team. But he religiously turns out to experience the great feeling that is a part of the game he loves.

"To a cricketer, the sound of bat on ball is very pleasing," George explains, taking his eye from the field for a moment. "I suppose it's because I was brought up with it, but it's my favorite game to watch. I enjoy the whole spectacle of the game, the peace and quiet of it. And, of course, it can be pretty exciting, too."

If you want to take a look at this quaint game that still captivates millions in many countries, this is a good week to do it.

On Saturday and Sunday, for the first time ever, the Canadian cricket club championship for the John Ross Robertson Trophy is being played in Western Canada. Reigning B.C. champion Alcos of Victoria takes on Toronto Cricket Club in the two-day match at Beacon Hill Park.

Starting times are 11:30 a.m. Saturday, 12:30 p.m. Sunday and if you can't make it on either of those days, you can get a look at the Toronto side in action Friday in a warmup match against Victoria and District Cricket Association President Dr. Dave Philip's XI. That one's also at Beacon Hill and it starts at 1:30 p.m.

But don't try too hard to understand it.

In the World Book encyclopedia, Australia's most famous batsman, Sir Donald Bradman, takes almost five pages to explain the game of cricket. And really, all he touches on are the rules and the history and the strange terms that have long intrigued non-cricketers — terms like bowling a maiden over, and strange-sounding fielding positions like fine leg, long-on, long-off, gully, square leg and backward short-leg, slips, and, of course, the all-time favorites silly mid-on and silly mid-off.

But to cricketers, this is all very basic and doesn't come near the real meaning of the game they love so dearly. Indeed, I wouldn't dream of trying to explain it.

A wise old gentleman of 85, who confesses he's been watching cricket at St. Michael's since 1939, told me it's a game you can't explain.

"I've tried to explain it to Americans," said the oldtimer, who preferred to remain anonymous. "But unless you've been brought up with it, then it means nothing but a boring pastime. The Americans come along and they try to superimpose baseball on it. Well, that's a big insult to an old cricketer. The finer points of this game are kind of like the Welsh language — it's the little things that matter."

The only cricket-watcher I found with a Canadian accent was Cy Gibson and he was born in Yorkshire and brought to Canada as a small boy. He has never played the game himself but says his dad was a village cricketer and told him about the game. Though Cy has been following cricket for some years, he admits there are still a few things he doesn't understand.

"Sometimes it can be blessed boring, but I like it if you get a couple of good batters in there and they bash the ball about." I say, old chap, that should be batsmen, you know. Can't have those foreign words creeping in, can we?

Cy admits with a grin that he isn't the most ardent of fans.

"I never can stick through a whole game," he says. "I usually come and see one side bat and then I go home and I read in the paper what happened."

But no matter how long it lasts, the really faithful stay on.

"There are 101 little things to look for," my oldtimer explains, "little things that don't mean anything to anybody who hasn't been soaked in cricket. One thing that you admire is to see somebody do something better than you might have done it. And that's what glues the old cricketer to the modern game."

And the old gentleman goes on watching and he smiles, knowing that I don't really understand.

"You know, in Britain in the old days, cricket was regarded at school as part of your training in fair play," he says politely. "It is still the cleanest game in the world.

"There is one thing that is particularly applicable to cricket and that is nobody ever argues with the umpire.

"In every other game they argue with the referee and they hurl insults at him. But never in this game. It's an absolute gentleman's agreement. No one would argue with an umpire. I mean, it's just not cricket."

University students in B.C. are probably facing a tuition fee hike next year.

A letter from University of Victoria president Dr. Howard Petch to students council and the graduate student society says "budget restrictions will likely be so drastic" next year as to impair the academic program unless the university finds more money from students.

"In this context, it will be necessary for us to examine the feasibility of increased tuition fees effective July 1, 1977, to offset loss of provincial funds."

The basic tuition fee at UVic is $428. The last increase was in 1965 when fees went up $56. The real cost of a two-semester academic year per student is about $3,800.

UVic's fees are in line with those at the province's other two campuses, UBC and Simon Fraser, and Petch said Tuesday he would like to see an identical fee structure maintained.

Petch said representatives from the three universities met with Education Minister Pat McGeer July 30 to discuss mutual financial problems.

UVic, he said, was given a special operating grant of $1,113,450 over regular provincial funds to offset this year's salary commitments, and Petch asked McGeer if it would be repeated next year. The answer was no.

"As things stand now, we'll be entering the 1977-78 academic year with a deficit of that amount," said Petch.

Petch said UVic officials will start discussions in mid-September on a fee increase.

He said he wrote the letter to the two student societies to warn them and give them time to provide input.

His letter apologizes for the upcoming fee hike "at a time when other costs are rising rapidly" and opportunities for summer employment are bleak.

'Trolley' Is Back On Track

Former NDP MLA Jim Gorst will soon be able to invite tourists to climb aboard his not-quite-authentic "trolley" for a tour of the city's sights and attractions.

Victoria city council agreed Tuesday to issue a trades licence to Marguerite Tours, Ltd., the firm established by Gorst and his partner Gordon Dowding, who was the Speaker of the legislature during the NDP's administration.

Marguerite Tours will have to share curbside space on the Causeway with the present operators (bus firms owned by the provincial government) — and on an amicable basis.

Aldermen warned several months ago that if there is any outbreak of "warfare" between the companies they could all be faced with banishment from the area.

On Mayor Mike Young's suggestion, council also decreed Tuesday that motorized tour vehicles will be banned from Belleville between Government and Menzies.

Young said he didn't want to see a potentially hazardous intermingling of buses and the horse-drawn Tally-Ho wagons.

New Mail Rates Draw No Beefs

It was business as usual, with no complaints at the main post office on Government today in spite of the new 10-cent rate for stamps for all Canadian mail.

"There's nothing out of the normal," said acting postmaster Marvin Glover, "People appear to be aware that the rates have been low for a long time."

There was no rush to buy two-cent stamps to make up the difference between the old and new rates.

Employer Blameless In Death

A coroner's jury Tuesday ruled the owner of a tree service firm was not to blame in the Aug. 12 death of a 17-year-old employee killed by a falling alder.

The jury of six men said William Eugene Morgan was at fault for straying into the area where his employer, Donald Cowie, 49, of Sidney was felling the tree.

Morgan was killed instantly. Death was attributed to shock and hemorrhaging from multiple fractures and internal injuries.

The jury was told by Michael Severn, an inspector supervisor with the Workers' Compensation Board, that Cowie had failed to provide proper instructions on falling regulations, had failed to provide a hard hat, and had not made proper side-cuts and under-cuts in the alder.

Heating Oil Hike Hits Home Owners Hardest

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The gasoline prices catch the headlines but it will be the heating oil bill that will hit many Victorians hardest in the wallet, according to a survey by the Times today.

Companies raised the price of furnace oil Tuesday and the result will be an extra $50 a year in heating costs based on an average annual consumption of just over 800 gallons of furnace oil per year.

Meanwhile, the typical Victoria car will use about $27 more gasoline per year as a result of the new round of increases.

This estimate is based on the typical Victoria car being the largest of the smaller vehicles, the Dart, Toyota Corona or Maverick.

"People are really going to notice the increase in furnace oil on the next delivery," says Bill Smith, a Victoria retailer for Imperial Oil, which increased its furnace oil rate 6.3 cents Tuesday.

Smith said an average delivery is in the range of 180 to 200 gallons and this will produce a bill of $96, up $12 from the previous bill.

"That's a lot of money to have to pay at one time. The customers have our sympathy but there is nothing anyone can do, except keep the thermostat a bit lower and try to conserve fuel."

By contrast, the motorist will find he is paying about six cents per gallon more when he fills up with gasoline. It is a smaller jolt at each stop and over a full year should come to less than $30 for those driving smaller cars.

"People driving sub-compacts and getting 35 or 40 miles to the gallon will hardly notice the gasoline price increase at all," he said.

Meanwhile, oil companies raised their furnace fuel by varying amounts in Victoria but the increases will range from $45 to $50 more per year. Most Victoria homes rely on oil for heating.

R. W. Elston, general manager for the district office of the B.C. Automobile Association, said Victoria drivers should fare better than others in B.C. from the gas price increases.

"Cars tend to be smaller here and mileage is lower than on the lower mainland or in the interior. I think this increase will encourage even more Victorians to buy smaller cars."

Elston said that while Victorians will escape the brunt of the gas increases because few of them drive Buicks or Cadillacs, motorists as a group continue to be the highest taxed group in the nation. Taxes make up a large portion of the price of gasoline and, while oil prices will continue to rise, drivers should not be expected to carry such a heavy tax burden in future years.

Gasoline prices rose in an inconsistent pattern across the Victoria area today as companies implemented their allowed increases of 5.7 cents per gallon.

Imperial Oil increased its price 5.6 cents but in addition removed a subsidy of 1.7 cents per gallon, effectively pushing the price up 7.3 cents for regular gas and up 7.4 cents for premium gas.

Some gasoline retailers complained to the regional Anti-Inflation Board office that the increases in some cases exceeded the AIB guidlines and a clarification was awaited from Ottawa.

The price increases authorized by Ottawa includes the 3.5 cents to reflect the increase in crude oil plus about 2.2 cents previously authorized but blocked by a provincial freeze, which has expired.

ESCAPER NABBED AT HOTEL

A 38-year-old man who went missing from Snowden corrections camp near Campbell River June 9 was arrested at 4 a.m. today in a room in the Douglas Hotel.

Victoria police spokesman said William Kenneth Astrope will be returned to Campbell River, where he faces a charge of being unlawfully at large.

PARTY CRASH ENDS IN JAIL

Two adults and a juvenile were expected to appear in court today facing charges in connection with a disturbance at a Saanich home Tuesday night where 40 to 50 youths attmepted to crash a party.

Police said a juvenile boy was holding a party at his parents' home at 4513 Tanglewood and had invited five guests. At about 11:45 p.m. a crowd of youths began to gather on the front lawn.

Several neighbors called police reporting an unruly mob of youths were shouting, swearing and breaking bottles on the road.

Twelve officers from Victoria and Saanich police departments rushed to the scene. As they were trying to disperse the gathering a fight broke out between two youths.

Police interceded and when other youths tried to rescue their friends, a melee erupted. It ended abruptly when police started making arrests.

ROSLYN ASKS MORE

Victoria city council was asked Tuesday to authorize a further payment of $2,600 to complete the restoration of a city-owned heritage building on which actual costs incurred to date are already double the original estimate.

The recommendation came with some reluctance from council's central area development committee, whose members appeared sceptical that this really would be the final payment on the rehabilitation of Roslyn House in Victoria West.

It was ex-alderman Sam Bawlf who first persuaded council to tackle the job at an estimated cost of $13,000.

Victoria has already shelled out $26,000, the most recent payment of $2,500 being for roof repairs.

Paul Condon, the resident caretaker supervising the work with student help, now estimates that another $2,600 is needed to complete a number of decoration, plumbing and repair jobs.

Bates Two for Two

NIAGARA FALLS — Powered by hard-hitting centrefielder Reg Underwood, Victoria Bate blanked Lethbridge Miners 8-0 in their second game of the Canadian men's fastball championship tournament here Tuesday.

The defending champions had opened the tourney earlier in the day with a 5-2 triumph over Uranium City, N.W.T. and now leads the Red Division. Underwood cracked out a pair of triples and a single to score three runs. He scored on each of the triples as the Alberta club committed errors.

Leftfielder Norm McLeod, added to Bate for the week-long tourney, belted a lead-off home run in the fourth inning to cap scoring.

Andy Konopacki, a right-hander, struck out nine batters and allowed only two hits while collecting the win.

The Victoria club, which went on to claim a share of the world title with the United States and New Zealand after the national final in 1975, was scheduled to face Dartmouth Dairy Queen of Nova Scotia this afternoon.

Laval Renaud of Gatineau, Que., provided the individual highlight of the opening round by hurling a no-hitter as Gatineau blanked Charlottetown, 10-0.

Saskatoon blanked New Brunswick All-Stars 2-0 and crushed the Manitoba All-Stars 11-2 to take over the lead in the Blue Division.

Renaud faced just two extra batters in pitching a no-hit, no-run game, issuing two walks.

Third baseman Leo Poirier supplied Gatineau with most of the power with a two-run homer and a three-run homer. Charlottetown committed six errors to help in the Quebec romp.

In the day's only extra-inning game, Toronto Globals, the Ontario champions, went nine innings before defeating Manitoba 4-2. Pete Landers picked up the win, relieving starter Reg Martin in the sixth inning.

Dennis Gleed gave Globals the win when he singled home two runs in the top of the ninth inning. The only two Manitoba runs came on a pinch-hit two-run homer by Frank Enns in the fifth inning off Martin.

In other games Tuesday, Niagara Falls Dugouts blanked Argentia, Nfld., Seals, 6-0. Dennis Amell struck out 10 batters while giving up three hits.

Steve Atkinson, a member of Birmingham Bulls of the World Hockey Association, had a homer and a triple for the Dugouts, the host team in the tournament. Bob Campbell drove in three runs with a double and a single.

Round-robin play in the two division continues until Saturday afternoon when the top teams from each section advance to the double-loss elimination championship round.

The championship concludes with three, (four, if necessary) games on Sunday.

Cutler's Boot Best As Esks Nip Ti-Cats

EDMONTON (CP) — The kickers provided the scoring, and penalties and close calls took care of the apparent touchdowns in Tuesday night's Canadian Football League contest which Edmonton Eskimos won 5-1 over Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Dave Cutler gave Edmonton a field goal from 37 yards out as the second quarter drew to a close. He missed on 16-and 31-yard field goal attempts for singles in the last half.

Ken Clark of Hamilton missed a field goal try and had to settle for a 25-yard single midway through the second quarter as 25,461 fans looked on.

Excitement came for the Edmonton crowd moments after the game started when defensive back Joe Holliman picked up Clark's punt on the Edmonton 16 and ran 94 yards into Hamilton's end zone. But a holding penalty brought the ball back to the other end of the field.

Using short passes to Calvin Harrell and Don Warrington, quarterback Tom Wilkinson put Edmonton on Hamilton's 32-yard line midway through the third quarter. He passed long to George McGowan in the end zone who pulled in the ball as he fell. The pass was ruled incomplete as McGowan was judged to have made the catch as he stepped out of bounds.

In all, Edmonton was assessed 50 yards for nine penalties and Hamilton suffered a loss of 65 yards on eight.

Hamilton's Rick Cassata, who took over from Jimmy Jones at quarterback after the first half, worked his way into scoring position in the closing seconds of the game. But Edmonton linebacker Dale Potter ended the Hamilton drive, when a touchdown would have made the difference, with a pass interception deep in his own territory.

Wilkinson, who gave way to Bruce Lemmerman late in the third quarter, was dropped several times for losses by the charging Hamilton line. Wilkinson got as far as Hamilton's nine-yard line as the first half was ending but a blitz put him back to the 31 to set up Cutler's field goal.

The win gave Edmonton a tie for first place in the Western Conference with Saskatchewan Roughriders while Hamilton remained last in the East.

The low score in the game wasn't a record. That was set by a Montreal Alouette 1-0 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders Oct. 30, 1966. Edmonton won 5-1 once before, over Ottawa in a pre-season game in 1970.

"When you hold the Grey Cup champions to five points, you have to be pleased," said Bob Shaw, Hamilton's coach and general manager.

"Our defensive team played well, our offence just seemed to have trouble finishing off."

U.S. Team Ragged Despite Close Loss

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States team entered in this month's Canada Cup hockey tournament is considered to be perhaps the weakest in the six-country, round-robin event.

The 12,699 fans at the Forum on Tuesday night were given an indication why the U.S. is picked to battle it out with Finland for last spot in the tournament, which also has entries from Canada, the Soviet Union, Sweden and Czechoslovakia.

The young, inexperienced Americans played well for about five minutes against the Soviets and lost 5-4, getting three goals in the last 3:10 of the third period.

The loss was the third for the Americans in as many pre-tournament games. Last week in Quebec, they were beaten 7-3 and 10-3 by Canada.

Aside from the late-game rally, the U.S. club was sloppy and ineffective offensively against a Soviet team which had a 34-21 edge in shots on goal.

Aleksandr Golikov's power-play goal at 1:37 of the third period, which gave the Soviets a 5-1 lead, turned out to be the winner. Vladimir Repnev with two, Vladimir Vikulov and Vladimir Kovin scored the other Soviet goals.

Alan Hangsleben with two, Curt Bennett and Gary Sargent scored for the United States.

Bennett, from the National Hockey League's Atlanta Flames and Sargent from the NHL's Los Angeles Kings, scored 23 seconds apart to cut the Soviets lead to 5-3 late in the final period and Hangsleben, of New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association, scored with 15 seconds remaining for the final goal of the night.

"That comeback is going to help us a lot," said forward Steve Jensen, who was a standout for the U.S. Olympic team earlier this year.

"This type of thing will give us a lot of confidence in that we can come back. We need that confidence, I think that's probably the biggest part of the game.

"We have a lot of young guys, many guys who haven't played against the Russians or the Czechs before."

The Americans lack of competition against international teams showed often during the game as goaltender Mike Curran was forced to make several spectacular stops to keep the Soviets from going into double figures by the end of the second period.

Veteran Vikto Zinger, in the Soviet net, had little to do, except in the final few minutes.

Robert Cherenov, one of the Soviet coaches, said the Russians had learned something from the Americans' late comback and promised their tournament game against the U.S. in Philadelphia on Sept. 9 would be more physical.

Sixty-six minues in penalties were called Tuesday night by referee Ove Dahlberg of Sweden, who missed several other infractions during a chippy, dirty first period.

The Canada Cup begins Thursday in Ottawa as Canada meets Finland.

Six Must Go

MONTREAL (CP) — Six of the 31 players attending the Canadian training camp for the Canada Cup hockey tournament are going to be disappointed today.

The six will be told they have been dropped from the Canadian team in order to trim it to 25 men, the maximum allowed for the tournament, which includes teams from the United States, the Soviet Union, Czechslovakia, Finland and Sweden. As it stands, each team will be allowed to dress only 20 players, including two goaltenders, for each game.

However, three of the players in camp appeared assured — barring injury — of a spot on the Canadian team.

Sam Pollock, general manager of Montreal Canadiens and managing director of the Canadian entry in the tournament, said Tuesday that centre Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia Flyers has been appointed captain, a post similar to the one he holds with his National Hockey League club, while defenceman Denis Potvin of New York Islanders and left winger Bobby Hull of the World Hockey Association Winnipeg Jets have been appointed assistants.

Pollock said today's busy schedule likely will mean that the announcement of who will be dropped won't be made until the club arrives tonight in Ottawa for Thursday's opening game against Finland.

A BREAK FOR FINLAND

TORONTO (CP) — The way Veli-Pekka Ketola sees it, Finland's national hockey team got a break from a Canada Cup schedule that sends it against Canada in the opening game of the hockey tournament.

"It's best to be first against them because I know they will be better after every game," said Ketola, a Finn who plays with Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association.

"It will be great to be on the ice against 20 superstars," said Ketola. "Our team is young, but we'll give it our best shot.

"If there's anything where we are better than the rest, it's spirit. They know they have to give 150 per cent."

Average age of the Finns, most of whom are amateurs, is 22. Several veterans of international hockey didn't make the trip because they couldn't leave their jobs.

The team went through a one-hour practice Tuesday morning which coach Carl Brewer said was designed to give the players a light skate before they left this morning for Thursday's tournament opener at Ottawa.

Brewer concedes his charges are underdogs.

"In comparison to the other teams, we don't have the depth of talent. We'll have to concentrate on doing things right for 60 minutes. Mistakes can be more costly to us."

Ullman Returns

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oilers have announced that veteran Norm Ullman will return to the World Hockey Association team this season.

Ullman was the team's scoring leader last season with 87 points to give him a 21-year career total of 1,316 points, third highest in major league hockey.

N.Z. Stand Worries MacEachen

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen said today his country is worried that the success of the 1978 Commonwealth Games in Edmonton may be jeopardized by New Zealand's sports policies toward South Africa.

Several African countries have indicated they will boycott the Games unless New Zealand severs its sports links with the apartheid government of South Africa. The African countries adopted an identical position when they withdrew from the recent Montreal Olympics.

MacEachen told a luncheon at the national Press Club that he relayed Canada's concern to New Zealand Prime Minister Robert D. Muldoon, Foreign Affairs Minister Brian Talboys and other cabinet ministers.

He said, however, he did not ask New Zealand to change its foreign policy and there are no plans to expel New Zealand from the Edmonton Games.

Tampa's Firmani 'Coach of Year'

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Firmani of Tampa Bay Rowdies has been named coach of the year by coaches and general managers of the North American Soccer League.

Firmani's team won the 1975 NASL title and 1976 indoor championship.

Track Probe At Regina

REGINA (CP) — Officials have confirmed that three jockeys and a number of other track personnel have been "released" from the thoroughbred racing meet under way in Regina.

The officials said that an investigation is under way, but they declined to give details.

Track steward Tom Sumner, representing the Saskatchewan Jockey Club, said various individuals were released because they "weren't conducting their business in a proper way."

"We let these people go for the sake of racing."

The general manager of the Saskatchewan Jockey Club, Tom McLeod, said he does not think the situation is serious.

"What the stewards did was say 'we don't like the way you're behaving, so go somewhere else.'"

"Nobody was fined as such and no rulings have been made."

PLAYOFF CHANGE

New Format For WCHL

CALGARY (CP) — The Western Canada Hockey League will operate in a three-division set-up this season instead of the previous two divisions.

The league announced Tuesday that Kamloops, New Westminster, Victoria and Portland will play in the Western Division, while Saskatoon, Brandon, Regina and Flin Flon will be in the Eastern Division.

Calgary, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge and Winnipeg will be in the Central Division.

President Ed Chynoweth said the decision to place Winnipeg in the central division was made at the annual meeting, but at that time it wasn't known if the franchise would operate out of Winnipeg or Spokane.

"Winnipeg has since reconfirmed its entry and there has been quite a bit of discussion on the divisional makeup," he said. "We ultimately decided to stay with Winnipeg in the central division."

A new playoff structure will also be introduced with the top three clubs in each division qualifying.

The top three teams in each division will play a double round-robin to eliminate one team and then a best-of-seven final to declare division champions. The three divisional champs will play another double round-robin to eliminate one team and the remaining two clubs will play in a best-of-seven final.

The league will also decrease the number of over-age players to one per team from last year's maximum of four.

Foreman Wants More

NEW YORK (AP) — George Foreman wants Muhammad Ali as soon as he can get him but he wants more than $1 million, which is what Ken Norton is getting for fighting Ali on Sept. 28 in Yankee Stadium.

"That would be an insult to my intelligence," Foreman said by telephone from his home in Marshall, Tex.

Foreman and Ali each got $5 million when Ali took the heavyweight boxing championship from Foreman in Zaire, Oct. 30, 1974. For the rematch, Foreman said he wouldn't expect a 50-50 split, "but I want something that's fair."

Foreman also denied a report that he has received a $2 million offer to flight Ali, who is guaranteed $6 million for Norton and is talking about $10 million for a rematch with Foreman.

"I haven't talked to the Ali people," he said. "There haven't been any negotiations. A friend of mine said that Herbert Muhammad, Ali's manager, wanted to talk to me in Las Vegas when Ali fought Ron Lyle May 16, 1975. But when I got there he wouldn't talk to me."

A Foreman-Ali fight would involve Don King, once the promoter behind Ali before losing that position after the Ali-Jimmy Young fight in Landover, Md., last April 31.

"I've got George," King said Wednesday from Marshall. King is the man who put together the Zaire extravaganza.

Strikeout Milestone New to Nolan Too

By The Associated Press

Nolan Ryan is not a man to worry about strikeout statistics. The California Angels' righthander passed a milestone Tuesday night, and it almost slipped right past him.

Detroit leadoff man Ron LeFlore had just struck out swinging to open the American League baseball game, and Ryan was getting set to pitch to the Tigers' No. 2 man, Dan Meyer.

Suddenly, some fans in the crowd of 8,542 at Anaheim Stadium began to applaud. The cheers continued to build, finally turning into a standing ovation.

"I didn't know what it was," said Ryan. "Then I turned around and saw it on message board."

The board told the fans and the pitcher that LeFlore was the 2,000th strikeout of Ryan's career. He is only the 29th major league pitcher ever to reach that plateau.

Ryan went on to strike out 11 Tigers as he pitched the Angels to a 6-3 victory, scattering eight hits.

In Tuesday's other American League games, Baltimore Orioles beat Kansas City Royals 4-3, New York Yankees edged Oakland A's 2-1, Texas Rangers beat Boston Red Sox 8-3, Cleveland Indians topped Chicago White Sox 4-2 in 10 innings and Minnesota Twins and Milwaukee Brewers split a doubleheader, the Twins winning the opener 4-0 and the Brewers taking the nightcap 6-3.

In National League games, New York Mets defeated San Francisco giants 6-2, Cincinnati Reds edged St. Louis Cardinals 6-5, Atlanta Braves stopped Chicago Cubs 5-3, Pittsburgh Pirates blanked San Diego Padres 3-0, Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Montreal Expos 5-1 and Houston Astros edged Philadelphia Phillies 3-2.

The victory was only the 11th for Ryan against 17 losses in what has been a puzzling, frustrating season. He has been brilliant at times — a two-hitter, two three-hitters, 17 strikeouts in one game, 15 in another.

But he has also been racked up on other occasions, as his rather lofty 3.91 earned run average will attest.

His team-mates supported him with 12 hits. Dave Collins contributed a double and two singles, Tony Solaita homered and singled and Terry Humphrey and Rusty Torres each drove in a pair of runs in the sixth inning when the Angels erased a 3-2 deficit.

Jim Palmer, the league's winningest pitcher, improved his record to 19-11 with relief help from Dyar Miller. Two months ago Palmer had a 6-7 record, but since then he's won 13 of 17 decisions and lowered his earned run average to an impressive 2.59.

Ken Singleton drove in two runs for the Orioles, and Al Bumbry scored three times.

Graig Nettles' two-run homer in the seventh inning backed the three-hit pitching of Doyle Alexander and kept the first-place Yankees 11½ games ahead of Baltimore in the East. Oakland, by losing, missed an opportunity to gain ground on Kansas City in the West and remained eight games back.

Duane Kuiper's fourth consecutive single highlighted a three-run rally in the 10th inning that lifted the Indians over the Whitte Sox.

Roy Howell drove in three runs and Tom Grieve hit a two-run homer to power Texas past Boston.

Dave Goltz pitched no-hit ball for 6 1-3 innings and finished with a two-hitter and Steve Brye hit a three-run homer for Minnesota in its opening win.

Von Joshua's two-run single in the seventh inning snapped a 3-3 tie in the nightcap for Milwaukee.

Standards Badly Needed For Outdoor Education

OUTDOORS
stewart lang

Brian Johnson, president of the Island Mountain Ramblers, sharply criticized a Victoria-based co-ed athletic club for practices which serve to underscore the need for a system of standards to ensure better outdoor education within British Columbia.

I sincerely hope the interdepartmental committee currently setting up a set of such standards for the government doesn't deliberate overly-long on the task.

Brian writes:

"On August 24, I encountered nine of your hikers huddled around a fire (they all had bare feet) at their campsite near Circlet Lake on Forbidden Plateau. They all had wet sleeping bags and most were soaked to the skin.

"None of the boys appeared to be adequately equipped for such weather conditions. They all wore jeans, which are considered to be the poorest form of clothing for maintenance of body heat under such conditions. None of the boys had adequate rainwear.

"How would they have managed if the weather on their hike over the Albert Edward Ridge from Mt. Augerpoint had worsened and turned to snow. Wet, windy conditions with temperatures ranging from 0 to 10 degrees are ideal for hypothermia.

"Plastic tarps are not satisfactory for protection from weather in alpine and higher areas. They may prove to be satisfactory to keep the dew off on a clear night."

The only way to really ensure a dry sleeping bag in squally weather is to use a properly-erected tent covered with a rain fly.

Baring the feet around a campfire is also a dangerous practice. On a hiking trip, your feet are probably the most important part of the body. A bad burn on the foot from a flying spark could be disasterous miles from a road.

Johnson notes, too, several other areas where the camping technique of the group he encountered could be improved.

"For ecological reasons the use of plastic tarps should be stopped. They tear easily and are then discarded and added to the already-large quantity of garbage in our parks."

In addition, he says the use of campfires in alpine areas "can only be justified in case of an emergency."

"Alpine areas cannot withstand the ever-increasing pressure on the timber of the area. Dead snags are being depleted in number at a great rate, resulting in many people chopping live trees."

This practice mars the aesthetics of the area and the relatively short growing season in alpine country cannot repair the damage in a short time.

"A stove and a one-week gas supply weighs less than an axe and does no ecological damage," Johnson points out.

"In conclusion, I feel that you are not doing the job that you set out to do," he told the group.

"You are entertaining the boys and giving them a good holiday but what about the correct learning experience? Are you teaching them to have a respect for the environment? Our wilderness areas do not have to be conquered and destroyed. Save them for future generations."

"In alpine areas you must always be prepared for winter conditions. For the safety of the boys and for your own protection, I would suggest that you spend some time improving all-weather camping techniques to use on your trips."

The group Johnson refers to isn't alone in having inadequately-trained leaders. I've seen the scars left on the wilderness by other well-known youth organizations, so to name one in this piece wouldn't be entirely fair or really relevant to the topic at hand.

Let's get on with the job of teaching the leaders and ensuring, by legislation, that the training grounds for those leaders are also adequate.

Perhaps then, when a better wilderness ethic is instilled, the garbage Johnson found to be "worse than ever" on Forbidden Plateau will cease to accumulate.

In the long run, we will all win.

'Bellies Lead

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — New Westminster Salmonbellies defeated Vancouver Burrards, 13-9, to take a 3-2 lead in the Western Lacrosse Association final series in a game played before 3050 fans Tuesday night.

Salmonbellies led by 5-3 at the end of the first period and 9-6 after 40 minutes.

New Westminster led by five goals at one point in the third period and never let up.

Salmonbellies outshot Vancouver 52-34 as the Burrards were held in the game by the sharp netminding of Dave Evans, who stopped 39 shots.

Wayne Goss led New Westminster with three goals while Ray Bennie and Bob Tasker scored twice each.

Other Salmonbellie goals came from Daryl McColl, Brian Tasker, Jim Johnston, Chuck Medhurst, Keith Scott and Dave Wilfong.

Rico Bellusci scored three goals to lead Vancouver, while Doug Hayes scored twice and added three assists.

Bill Rawson, Dave Litzenberger, Bill Foote and Taki Vohalis scored the other Burrad goals.

Sixth game of the series will be played in Richmond on Thursday. The series winner advances to the best-of-seven Mann Cup final against the Ontario Lacrosse Association champion.

New Clubs Get Break

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Mariners and Toronto Blue Jays have received "a shot in the arm" through an agreement granting them permission to purchase players before the American League's league Nov. 5 expansion draft, a Mariners official says.

Lou Gorman, director of baseball operations for the Mariners, said the development will allow the Seattle club to enter the expansion draft with 10 to 12 players already in possession.

"For instance, if we can get a fair number of veterans on hand, we could go for more youth in the draft," Gorman said.

Under the agreement, the Mariners and Blue Jays can make tentative purchases but the deals will not become final until Sept. 15.

"We can make out deals right now," he said. It is just we can't take title to the players until that date."

Fitzsimons Takes Title

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — Pat Fitzsimmons of Salem, Ore, sank an 18-foot birdie putt on the final hole Tuesday to edge Bob Duden of Portland by one stroke for the Pacific Northwest Professional Golfers Association championship.

Fitzsimmons, 25, wound up with a three-under-par 69 on the 6,848-yard, par-72 Meadow Springs Country Club course. He had carded a 71 on Monday for a 36-hole total of 140.

England Beaten By West Indies

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP) — West Indies beat England by 50 runs Tuesday in the third and final match of a limited overs cricket series. The West Indies also won the first two matches.

Tuesday's scores were: West Indies 223 for 9, innings closed; England 173 all out.

TOM HAS PAID PRICE

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — No disciplinary action is contemplated against Tom Weiskopf for his disqualification in last week's American golf tournament, commissioner Deane Beman of the Professional Golfers' Association tour said Tuesday.

"The disqualification of a player for a violation of a rule of golf is a frequent occurrence on the tour," Beman said in a prepared statement.

"It is unfortunate that the media would seize on a common occurrence to imply that any player should be disciplined for a violation of a rule of golf beyond the penalties prescribed in the rules."

Weiskopf was disqualified for playing the 18th hole of the third round Saturday after the siren had blown calling the players off the course because of an approaching thunderstorm. His playing partners Danny Edwards and Jerry Pate, did not play the hole until the following day.

The Associated Press speculated that Weiskopf, who was on probation by the PGA at the time, might be subject to further disciplinary action.

TENNIS ON CLAY

A Tournament For Baselinérs

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Some competitors in the $416,600 U.S. Open tennis championships which got under way today will be helped, and others will be hurt, by the slow, claylike artificial surface of the West Side Tennis Club courts.

First-round men's singles action was scheduled for this afternoon and this evening in this richest of all tennis events, while women's play begins Thursday. Both are aiming for $30,000 first prizes.

The baseliners who lay back and return everything hit their way, should benefit the most from the Har-Tru surface, which allows them to reach more ssots than they would on a faster grass court. The hard servers who rely on a power game, however, will be at a disadvantage.

Among the men, Bjorn Borg of Sweden, defending champion Manuel Orantes of Spain, Adriano Panatta of Italy and the Americans Harold Solomon and Eddie Dibbs, all play well on clay, so their hopes must rise in this event.

Borg, who won Wimbledon earlier this year, captured the U.S. Pro title on clay Monday night and rates as co-favorite with top-seeded Jimmy Connors. Connors won the last U.S. Open played on grass, in 1974, and lost to Orantes in last year's finals.

Behind Connors and Borg, the men's seedings have Guillermo Vilas of Argentina rated No. 3 followed by Panatta, Ilie Nastase of Romania, Orantes, veteran Arthur Ashe of the United States and Raul Ramirez of Mexico.

Vilas, Nastase and Ashe figure to be among those hampered by the slow surface.

In the women's section, the surface should help defending champion Chris Evert. She has won her last 95 matches on clay, and breezed through the women's draw in last year's U.S. Open, the first played on the Har-Tru courts.

Evert is still suffering from inflamed tendons in the middle finger of er racket hand. But her first match is not until Saturday, when she faces Greer Stevens of South Africa, and she is expected to be recovered enough to begin defence of her crown.

Her likely finals opponent is Evonne Goolagong, the Australian who has won virtually every major crown except this one.

INVITATIONAL GOLF FIELD SPORTS 269 TOUR WINS

"Experienced" might be an apt word to describe the 16 players who make up the field for the Lady Scott Invitational golf tournament scheduled for Sept. 13-14 at Victoria Golf Club.

The participants have scored a combined total of 269 tour victories on professional circuits.

Leading with 84 wins is 64-year-old Sam Snead, who still appears regularly on the U.S. tour. He won his first pro tourney in 1936 and has won tournaments from coast-to-coast since, including the Canadian Open and Masters.

The Lady Scott pairs one man and one woman in a 36-hole medal competition with the scores of each partner added together for the team total.

DONNA CAPONI YOUNG

PAT BRADLEY

Mann is the leading winner among the women, all top competitors with the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, with 38 titles and lifetime earnings of over $400,000 in a career that started in 1961.

The tourney offers a total purse of $45,000 with the winning pair to split $10,000.

Tickets for the event are $6 daily or $10 for the two days and may be obtained at most Greater Victoria golf clubs.

Canadians Advance

LOS ANGELES — Two Canadians scored wins and a third drew a bye Tuesday as the United States Amateur golf championship got underway at the 6507-yard Bel-Air Country Club.

Gary Cowan, who won the U.S. Amateur title in 1966 and 1971 and who shared 14th place in this year's Canadian Amateur in Victoria, didn't lose a hole as he trounced David Richards of Chambersburg, Pa., 7 and 6.

And Jim Harrison of Toronto, the 1974 Canadian junior champion and runner-up in 1975, advanced to the second round with a 1-up victory over Michael Preston of Mataway, N.J. Harrison missed the cut in this year's Canadian Amateur.

Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver, who finished in a tie for fourth place in the Canadian Amateur last week, sees his first action here today after a first-round bye.

Cowan, of Kitchener, is playing in his first U.S Amateur since 1971 because he had wanted to spend more time with his family and life insurance business.

"This was my last year for an exemption," he said in explaining his return to the event.

Vinny Giles, the 1972 winner, became a first-round upset victim and British amateur champion Dick Siderowf narrowly escaped the same fate.

Wilson To Coach

DENVER (AP) — Johnny Wilson, a veteran of 11 seasons as a player in the National Hockey League and a coach in both the NHL and World Hockey Association, has been named coach of Colorado Rockies of the NHL.

Wilson, who coached Cleveland Crusaders of the WHA last season and Detroit Red Wings of the NHL before that, is 47 years old and a native of Kincardine, Ont.

He played in the NHL with Detroit, Chicago Black Hawks, Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers.

The Rockies recently moved to Denver from Kansas City, where they were known as the Scouts.

Two new teams add a truly Island flavor to the "Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League this season.

Nanaimo Rams and Comox Valley Builders of Courtenay will have the home-field advantage as the five-team loop opens its season Sunday.

Oak Bay Farmer Construction, the other team in the league, opens its season with a game against Saanich in Macdonald Park on Sept. 12.

Hornets, coached by Barry Taylor, have a strong nucleus of returning veterans and have added several top newcomers, including Mike Bennett, who played for the Oregon state high school champions last season, and 220-pound rookie tight-end Rob Smith.

Jockey's Condition Satisfactory

VANCOUVER (CP) — Apprentice jockey Lillian Airth was in satisfactory condition in hospital Tuesday after taking a spill Monday in the 10th race at Exhibition Park.

Ms. Airth, 21, was thrown under Lady Latimer while negotiating a first turn. Lady Latimer went down after clipping the heels of Regal Return.

On May 21, Ms. Airth became the first woman ever to ride a winner in British Columbia thoroughbred racing where parimutuel wagering is allowed.

She finished fifth in the featured ninth race Monday night on Ask The Fleet, the horse she rode to her first win. She came back in the 10th with 23-to-one shot Lady Latimer and was sitting in good position when the mishap occurred.

Ms. Airth regained consciousness before leaving the track by ambulance. A hospital spokesman said Tuesday that she did not appear to have any broken bones.

Stiff Battle By Wendy

TORONTO — Wendy Barlow of Victoria put up powerful struggle before being eliminated from the Canadian international junior tennis tournament here Tuesday.

Eva Pfaff, the world hard-court champion in the under-18 age bracket, ousted Miss Barlow, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Nicole Marois of Quebec City, the Canadian junior under-18 champion, advanced to the quarter-finals by defeating Japanese-champion Yoshie Watanabe, 6-0, 6-2.

In the boys' under-18 division, Martin Lachapelle of Montreal and Colin McAlpine of Deep River, Ont., were ousted in straight sets.

Ricardo Ycaza of Ecuador tripped Lachapelle 6-3, 6-1 and Jose Clerc of Argentina downed McAlpine, 6-1, 6-0.

NFL Rift Continues as Players Reject Offer

CHICAGO (AP) — National Football League player representatives have rejected the contract offer by team owners that started a fierce internal battle between their executive director and their union president.

The action Tuesday, after 11 hours of secret meetings, continues the rift between owners and players which in the last 2½ years has caused one preseason walk-out, one wildcat strike and harsh feeling on both sides.

"I honestly don't know where we go from here," said Dick Anderson, who as president of the NFL Players Association (NFLPA) had worked out the proposal with owners last week.

He and three other members of the seven-man NFLPA executive committee supported acceptance of the offer. They were opposed by Ed Garvey, executive director of the players' union who some members would like to see ousted.

"It was a plan I felt was good and tried to sell," said Anderson. "Yeah, I'm disappointed, I feel at this point it's the best offer we're going to get."

Garvey has witheld public comment regarding his personal feeling on the offer, but a source close to him said he feared acceptance would negate players' rights already won in the courts.

Nevertheless, at a brief news conference following the marathon session, Garvey said no single point of the 70-page offer was the decisive factor in rejection. Rather, he said, it was the package as a whole.

A spokesman for the NFL Management Council, bargaining arm of the NFL owners, said his group reserved comment on the development until further information could be obtained as to what transpired at the meeting.

SOCCER SWITCH

SAN JOSE, Calif (AP) — Julie Vee, a Hungarian-born midfielder for San Jose Earthquakes, has been acquired by a first division Belgium soccer team.

"This is the first time that I know of that a person from the North American Soccer League has been sold to a European first division team," said an Earthquake spokesman. "Its usually the other way around."

Vee, formerly Gyula Visnyei, was sold for an undisclosed sum to a team in Lierse, Belgium. Mertons said a clause in the sale provides that Vee will return to the Earthquakes for the NASL outdoor season next year.

The World Series of Golf

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The new-look World Series of Golf, designed as the tour's answer to the World Series, the Super Bowl and the Stanley Cup, makes its maiden appearance under an expanded and enriched format Thursday.

"Golf has long suffered from the lack of a climactic, season-ending event," said Deane Beman, commissioner of the Professional Golfers' Association.

"You have such events in other sports, baseball's World Series, football's Super Bowl. With the new World Series of Golf, we feel we now have a climax to the season, a real high point.

"We will be interested to see the reception it receives from the press, the public and the players."

He has a disciple in Tom Watson, who won the 1975 World Series when it was a four-man, 36-hole tournament.

"It's already a major tournament," Watson said. "You've got a great field, an international field, and the tournament is being played on a great golf course.

"I think it will become the No. 1 golf tournament in the world."

The field consists of 20 players, 16 from the American tour and the winners of four foreign orders of merit. The site for the 72-hole tournament is the South course at the Firestone Country Club.

The purse is $300,000, with $100,000 to the winner, matching the largest prize ever offered in the game.

Chasing that prize is perhaps the most elite, exclusive field ever assembled. In addition to Watson, the others from the American tour include Johnny Miller, Ben Crenshaw, Jack Nicklaus, Hale Irwin, J. C. Snead, Hubert Green, Ray Floyd, Don January, Lee Trevino, Jerry Pate, Al Geiberger, Dave Hill, Dave Stockton, David Graham and Buddy Allin.

As a group, they have won 35 of the 42 events on the American tour this year and have collected more than one-third of all the money offered on the tour. The purses for tour events have totalled $6.59 million so far this season. Those 16 have combined winnings of $2.27 million.

Also in the field are Allan Henning, winner of the South African Order of Merit; Billy Dunk winner of the Australian OM; Hsu Sheng-San, winner of the Asian OM; and Takashi Murakami, winner of the Japanese OM. Neil Coles was eligible after winning the British OM but declined to compete.

Five players in the field have won before on the long, tough, 7180-yard, par-70 South course. Watson took the World Series last year. Trevino won it in 1974. Geiberger won the 1965 American golf tournament and the 1966 PGA national championship. Floyd won the 1969 American title.

And Nicklaus has won six times. He won four previous World Series, one American title and last year's PGA. The long layout ranks as, perhaps, his most happy hunting ground. He has collected more than $390,000 in winnings from this course alone.

Some Familiar Names

MONTREAL (CP) — Some familiar names are listed on the roster of officials for the Canada Cup international hockey tournament which gets under way Thursday in Ottawa.

Yuri Karandin, one of two Soviet Union officials who worked an eight-game tour of two Soviet club teams last winter, is on the list of 23 officials who are trying for spots on the 18-man officiating roster

Gordon Lee of the United States and Ove Dahlberg of Sweden, who officiated during the 1972 eight-game series between Canada and the Soviet Union and Valentin Nikulsev, a linesman used during the 1974 Team Canada-Soviet series, are also at the training camp.

Bruce Hood, the senior referee in the National Hockey League and Bill Friday, the World Hockey Association's top referee, are also on hand for the camp.

Four NHL linesmen — John d-Amico and Matt Pavelich from Canada and Gord Broseker and Bob Luther from the United States — are also on hand.

WHA linesmen Ron Foyt and Ken Pierce are also trying out for a chance to work in the tournament as are Canadian amateur officials Daryl Havrelock, John Kelly, Luc Lachapelle and Andy Lagasse.

Ivo Filip and Vladimir Subrt are the two Czechoslovakian officials at the camp, Karl-Gustav Kaisla and Raimo Sepponen are representing Finland, Lars Tegner is the other Swede while Jim Neagles, an International Hockey League official and David Fisher complete the U.S. tryouts.

Resource Industry Seeks New Plums

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The resources industry called Tuesday for lower taxes, higher prices and an easing of government regulations affecting them to help attract new investment.

Associations representing oil and mining companies made the familiar pitch in briefs presented to the annual meeting of Canada's resources ministers.

Unless adequate measures are taken by all levels of government, the briefs said, investors will not put money into resource companies, threatening future supplies of oil, coal and other minerals.

The Independent Petroleum Association of Calgary said a national council should be set up with representatives of industry and government to continuously monitor energy demand and supply.

Assocaition president John Taylor said the group will take a detailed look at coal, hydro, nuclear and petroleum.

The oil representatives reiterated requests for a moderation of government tax and royalty policies as well as raising oil and natural gas prices to world levels.

The Coal Association of Canada called on the federal and provincial govenments to settle their differences on sharing revenues from the mining industry. Hundreds of millions of dollars are needed to increase coal production in Canada, but the money will be difficult to raise "until the tax laws indicate to the financial community that coal mining is something more than a high risk, minimum return investment venture."

Ken Anderson of Calgary, presenting the association brief, also called for a commitment by government to the use of coal in future.

At the current consumption rates, Anderson said, enough coal has been found to meet demands for 2,000 years. He said coal companies are concerned about the environment, but feel that worry over the damage mining might cause has gone too far.

"Governments appear to be overly impressed by the environmental zealots who preach that coal development and coal utilization cannot co-exist with adequate protection of the environment," the association said.

The Canadain Mining Association said a stable tax policy is needed to improve the investment climate in Canada.

Exploration has fallen off primarily because of "the continuous process of change in tax measures and the increased tax burden to which the association has been subjected in recent years."

The association asked government to develop new policies to encourage export sales of minerals, a measure that would help alleviate a growing balance-of-payments problem.

Without changes, the group said, balance of payments will get steadily worse, forcing the country to bring in more foreign investment.

And that, they said, "would in simple terms threaten Canada's independence."

CLARK DELAYS RIDING CHOICE DECISION

CALGARY (CP) — Joe Clark, federal Progressive Conservative leader, said Tuesday he won't announce whether he will seek nomination in Bow River or Yellowhead riding until all Alberta MPs meet in Ottawa in October to discuss the situation.

Earlier Tuesday, Stan Schumacher, the Conservative MP for Palliser, said Clark is backing off from a nominating confrontation with him over the Bow River constituency.

Clark's Rocky Mountain riding will disappear under a proposed redistribution of parliamentary seats.

Clark said Tuesday: "Of course there are natural attractions for me for the Bow River ridings — it's my hometown — but my choice will have to be made for the benefit of the party and of the other members.

"There are no other options for some of the Alberta candidates and of course the riding I choose should be one that I can serve comfortably."

Schumacher Tuesday got the impression Clark now was looking seriously at Yellowhead constituency.

"I think he's probably got information it would be a pretty tough battle in Bow River."

Schumacher said that if the 36-year-old Conservative leader did run against him, he had no doubt about the outcome.

"I don't think there is any question that I'd win," he said.

Elm Aid Chopped

OTTAWA (FP) — The federal environment department has turned down a request by Winnipeg for financial assistance to combat Dutch Elm disease in the city.

An aide to acting Environment Minister Romeo LeBlanc said that a senior departmental official replied to the request last month, from Mayor Stephen Juba informing him that the federal government has been heavily involved in its own program to combat the disease but has no funds to spare for control programs in individual provinces.

The aide said that this places the onus on the province of Manitoba to help finance Winnipeg's program.

The city has approved $802,000 for Dutch Elm disease control this year.

The federal government in refusing to help the city, ignored Mayor Juba's argument that by helping to finance the Winnipeg effort to combat the disease, it would be supporting a program which would be of benefit to all of Canada. Similar outbreaks of Dutch Elm disease have occurred in Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

However, a forestry official here acknowledged that Winnipeg might have received special treatment on the grounds that 60 per cent of the trees growing in Manitoba are elms and because the climate and soil conditions are not suitable for many other species.

Since 1959 the federal government, which previously took responsibility for combatting the disease because it was introduced from abroad, declared it a domestic problem, placing the onus for control on the provinces and municipalities.

Printed Matter Charged Only

OTTAWA (CP) — A new 15-cent charge by the post office for the return or forwarding of mail will be applied only to printed matter or catalogues, not regular mail, such as personal letters, the postmaster-general's office said Tuesday.

Foothills Makes NEB Bid for Yukon Pipeline Route

OTTAWA (FP) — Foothills Pipe Lines (Yukon) Ltd. has formally applied to build a 509-mile pipeline from Alaska through the Yukon and another 160-mile line through Saskatchewan to the U.S. border, as part of the "Alcan" project to carry Alaskan natural gas starting Jan. 1, 1981.

The filings made Tuesday, is expected to be followed shortly by companion applications to the National Energy Board and the federal department of Indian and Northern Affairs from Westcoast and Alberta Gas Trunk covering interconnecting new and expanded pipeline facilities through British Columbia and Alberta respectively.

The first filing for the Canadian portion of the Alcan project comes just at the time the Canadian government is preparing to try to decide whether it will be possible and if so how it will be possible, to ensure that a Canadian government decision on competing northern pipeline applications is made in time to coincide with a U.S. government timetable for a parallel decision in mid-1977.

The Alcan project, already recognized in the U.S. as one of three possible alternatives to move Alaskan gas, is now formally the third alternative facing Canadian regulatory agencies.

While no decision has yet been made, it is expected the Canadian government and the National Engergy Board will respectively treat the Alcan project separately from the two Mackenzie Valley pipeline proposals: the Canada-U.S. project by Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline Ltd. of Toronto; and the all-Canadian Foothills Pipe Lines Ltd. of Calgary project, which involves the same Canadian companies which are involved in the Alcan project.

At the same time, the government is reportedly already leaning towards holding back any decision on a Mackenzie Valley pipeline until the Alcan alternative can be fully reviewed as the U.S. will do with its projects.

This would result in a separate but parallel NEB public hearing and most likely a separate and scaled-down public inquiry into the northern impact but certainly not another Berger Inquiry, due to time constraints.

As one senior government official said this week, the difference between Alcan and the upcoming Polar Gas pipeline filing is that the Alcan project is "here and now" and must be dealt with, whereas the Polar Gas proposal for a High Arctic pipeline link isn't expected until early 1877, closer to the end of the NEB hearings.

The Alcan project is already being considered by government as a serious alternative to an Arctic Gas project; one of its possible advantages to Canada is that it provides the government with more time to assess gas reserves in the western Arctic compared to the High Arctic, while allowing quick gas deliveries to the U.S., which has a much more desperate need for its northern gas.

Big Gas Sale Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — TransCanada Pipelines Ltd. of Toronto has offered to sell to a California gas company substantial volumes of Alberta gas that TransCanada expects to have as a surplus to its needs during the "early years" of operation of the Canada-U.S. Mackenzie Valley pipeline project being proposed by Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline Ltd. of Toronto.

The California company, Pacific Interstate Transmission Co., would have to agree to return a comparable volume of Alaskan gas to TransCanada when Alaskan gas becomes available, supposedly in the second year of operation of the Arctic Gas pipeline.

According to a letter signed by TransCanada Vice President John Archambeault that was introduced in evidence at the National Energy Board northern pipeline hearings, the gas swap offer would have to be approved by Canadian regulatory authorities and meet "all TransCanada's obligations as they then exist."

A TransCanada official said Tuesday that the company doesn't have any specific volumes in mind to offer to sell, on a swap basis, to Pacific Interstate.

In fact, the offer is being extended only in the event TransCanada does have excess deliverability of Alberta gas during the initial years of operation of the Arctic Gas project.

In evidence to the NEB hearings, TransCanada technical witnesses confirmed that TransCanada doesn't plan to have interconnecting facilities, designed to handle the extra Mackenzie Delta gas, finished until late 1981.

As a result, TransCanada expects to have to cutback on deliveries of Alberta gas between the start-up of the Arctic Gas system now set at July 1, 1981, and the completion of the expansion of its own facilities from the Alberta-Saskatchewan border into central and eastern Canada.

The technical experts estimated TransCanada will take delivery of about 982 million cubic feet a day from Arctic Gas during the first year of operation.

Indian Care Hit

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's health-care approach to Indians has been "unsupportive and negative" a spokesman for the National Indian Brotherhood told an international health education conference Tuesday.

"The worst effects of such an existence under these conditions is apathy, alcohol and drug abuse and finally a high rate of suicide," Ruth Henry told more than 1,000 delegates from some 70 countries.

Ms. Henry said home economics training could also help improve the health of Indians.

Alaska Patrols Up

JUNEAU (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard in Alaska will receive three new C-130 aircraft and two additional cutters for its fisheries patrol under America's 200-mile limit law, Vice Adm. Austin Wagner, commander of the Pacific Area, says.

Production Suspended at U.S. Nuclear Plant

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — Production of a radioactive substance at a nuclear plant site here has been suspended as doctors try to determine whether two workers suffered harmful doses of radiation in a chemical explosion which contaminated them and eight others.

Six workers exposed to radioactive substances in Monday's blast at the Atlantic Richfield Handord Co. facility were decontaminated soon after the explosion, which did not involve a nuclear reactor or any serious radiation leak in the atmosphere.

All six were able to return to work immediately.

Two nurses at a Hanford medical facility where the workers were taken also were exposed to minor radiation but were quickly decontaminated and also back on their jobs right away.

Two other ARHCO workers absorbed more of the radioactive material, one of them peppered with radioactive slivers of Plexiglas when a sealed compartment exploded. They are undergoing testing Tuesday to gauge how serious their exposure was.

Production was halted immediately after the explosion at Building Z, an ARHCO facility where the radioactive substance americium is extracted from atomic wastes. Americium is used in petroleum exploration and in medicine.

ARHCO President George T. Stocking said Tuesday that he did not know when americium production may be resumed.

"We're pretty much in the dark right now," Stocking said. "We just need to find out what happened and clear up the condition."

The facility is in an isolated part of the government-regulated Hanford Nuclear Reservation near Richland in southeastern Washington.

Company investigators unsealed the building Tuesday morning to photograph the interior and to make sure no radiation had escaped.

Stocking said the investigation probably would take several days.

Although ARHCO refused to release the names of the contaminated workers, the wife of Harold McCluskey, 64, a chemical operator from Prosser, confirmed that her husband was showered with glass and is undergoing treatment.

McCluskey's daughter, Jo Schrader of Sumner, said officials have given the family no indication of how soon her father may be released.

"It's mostly a waiting game now," she said. "The doctors are doing everything they can, and they've been very co-operative with us."

Family members were reluctant to talk to reporters but insisted the incident has not changed how they feel about McCluskey's work or about nuclear power.

"I don't want this incident being used by the news media as pro or con, one way or the other," said Mrs. Schrader.

Asked about reports that the material being processed in Building Z was drawn from vast stores of old nuclear wastes on the reservation, Phil Craig, nuclear processing chief for the Energy Research and Development Administration here, said it had not.

ARHCO spokesman Hal Lindberg said he did not know the age of the material involved in the explosion.

The Z Building is 25 miles from the nearest home, five miles from the nearest nuclear reactor and three miles from the nearest nuclear storage facility.

Quebec Teachers Settle

MONTREAL (CP) — Union leaders for 61,000 French-speaking elementary and high school teachers expressed disappointment Tuesday after their members ignored a union directive and voted to accept final government contract terms.

The teachers, members of the Quebec Teachers Federation (QTF), voted more than 69 per cent to accept the offer, which the Quebec government described last Thursday as its last in the 15-month contract dispute.

Union officials estimated late Tuesday that at least 70 per cent of the QTF teachers had cast their votes.

"We thought that management offers could be improved, but our members, facing great economic pressure, thought that the result of 15 months of talks was nonetheless appreciable," said QTF president Yvon Charbonneau.

The result of Tuesday's voting means the 1976-77 school year will likely open next week as scheduled. The Federation of Catholic School Commissions of Quebec said recently it would lock out the teachers and postpone the opening of the school year until a new contract was signed.

Some 2,200 English-Catholic teachers in the Montreal area, about half the membership of the Provincial Association of Catholic Teachers (PACT), also accepted the terms Tuesday.

Complete results of the PACT vote across the province will be announced late today.

However, 2,500 Montreal-area Protestant teachers rejected their last contract offer while their colleagues across Quebec were expected to do the same in voting which concludes later today.

The QTF and its affiliated unions had urged members to reject the government offer last Thursday.

Pierre Lemaire, president of the Alliance des Professeurs, the largest QTF local, told reporters the teachers buckled to material pressures and accepted the offer, despite the fact it fell short on several major non-monetary issues.

Quebec teachers have been without a contract since June 30, 1975. The two-sides negotiated with little success for much of the last school year, prompting a series of teacher protests which included 24-hour and 48-hour walkouts.

MAIL COST HIKE TERMED MEMORABLE

OTTAWA (CP) — Post office officials attempted to justify a 25-per-cent increase to mail first-class letters today, saying the higher rates comply with the spirit of government efforts to restrain inflation.

Larry Sperling, assistant deputy postmaster general, said the increase is "obviously permissable" because it will be used to help pare down the annual $320-million post office deficit.

Economic controls were not intended to apply in situations where they would perpetuate a deficit.

Sperling was one of a number of senior post office officials who took over the office of Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey to answer questions on rate increases that today raised the cost of mailing a letter to 10 cents from eight cents.

John Mackay, deputy postmaster-general, described the occasion as memorable because the post office had finally managed to raise the cost of mailing a first-class letter to two figures.

Jailed Harrises Pour Scorn On Judge

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — William and Emily Harris, again reviling the judge and U.S. justice and scorning clemency as revolutionaries to the last, were sentenced to 11 years to life in prison for a Symbionese Liberation Army crime spree with Patricia Hearst.

They still face trial for kidnapping Miss Hearst, the newspaper heiress they helped convert to their cause.

"Bring on the jugglers and the dancing bears and get this charade over," Harris demanded in a last courtroom attack on Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler before sentence was passed Tuesday.

"I could not stoop so low as to ask Judge Brandler for mercy," Mrs. Harris declared in her final statement.

"I'm a revolutionary in a court where a judge in a few minutes is going to take great pleasure in locking me in prison."

Mrs. Harris called the judge a "vengeful maniac" and Harris called him "a vain, authoritarian, egotistical, vindictive, prejudiced and crotchety old man."

The Harrises turned the traditional opportunity for "last minute speeches, turning passed into an opening for 20-minute speeches, thurning their backs on the judge to address reporters and spectators.

"We are going to prison, not because we are a threat to people but because our ideas are a threat to the way society is organized," Harris said.

The Harrises were convicted on five counts of kidnapping, auto theft and armed robbery for stealing cars and money at gunpoint as they fled across the city with Miss Hearst after the heiress peppered a sporting goods store with bullets to free Harris from a shoplifting arrest.

Miss Hearst faces trial on the same charges in Los Angeles, beginning Jan. 10, and is also to be the star witness against the Harrises at their trial in Oakland for kidnapping her.

Although the Harrises disdained to ask for leniency, their attorneys did so, arguing they had no previous record and did not hurt anyone. Harris maintained their crimes were "totally nonviolent."

The judge rejected the argument, saying they were "prepared to shoot and kill if necessary," noting they were armed and the victims testified they were threatened with death.

Harris was to be transferred today or Thursday to the state prison at Chino, and his wife to the women's prison at Frontera, for short stays before Alameda County authorities move them to Oakland for trial on 19 felony counts in the kidnapping of Miss Hearst.

Kamloops Takeover Rapped

KAMLOOPS (CP) — This city has been criticized for its expropriation tactics in an arbitrator's report by lawyer Merv Chertkow which was filed before the B.C. Supreme Court.

The report said the city in its tactics and position "meets neither the test of fairness nor the test of furthering the interests of justice.'

The report formed part of a judgment in favor of Antonio Tremolada, who appealed the city's payments for parts of six lots expropriated for the widening of a city street.

The arbitrator's report said the city must pay Tremolada $15,500 for the expropriated property. The city had originally offered to pay $9,150, despite two appraisals conducted under the city's austially higher land value for the property.

Crab Catcher Strike Spreads

KODIAK, Alaska (AP) — Bering Sea crab fishermen who have been on strike for two weeks will be joined today by the Kodiak crab fleet.

Tom Casey of the United Fishermen's Marketing Association (UFMA) in Kodiak said the Bering Sea crab fleet received an offer of 45 cents per pound from canneries Friday, with a three-cent increase after Sept. 15. The fishermen have asked for 60 cents per pound.

AFTER 49 YEARS in the business, Jack Caddell retired as composing room superintendent of Victoria Press Ltd. on Tuesday. Kathey Paone, the production manager's secretary, looks on as Caddell cuts his farewell cake. An ardent gardener and fisherman, he received a greenhouse from the company, his fellow workers providing the accessories and a collection of fishing lures. Caddell also received the superintendent's chair as a memento. (John McKay photo)

Fewer TV Kids' Shows Forecast

QUEBEC (CP) — The abolition of all advertising aimed at children under 13 years of age might result in a reduction in children's television programming, a major toy manufacturer has told Quebec legislators.

Irwin Toy Ltd. of Toronto, one of Canada's largest toy makers, said in a brief to a committee of the national assembly Tuesday that a ban on advertising would only "please a vocal and noisy minority" of consumer advocates.

Furthermore, the company said, the ban would cut off commercial revenue for producers of children's television programs and force a reduction in the number of children's shows.

A reduction in programs also would reduce employment opportunities for actors, musicians and advertising employees, the company said.

In another submission, the Advertising Club of Montreal said there is no proof that advertising is injurious to children.

"On the contrary, it seems to us they are better informed and able to make clearer judgments thanks to the information furnished by modern communications."

The proposal to ban children's advertising is part of a larger consumer-protection bill being studied by the legislature committee.

"We do not believe that the behavior of young adults demonstrates that they have suffered from the effects of the advertising to which they were exposed as children.

U.S. Backs Potash Prosecution

WASHINGTON (CP) — A state department spokesman said today the current potash price-fixing prosecution in the United States is "not an extra-territorial application of U.S. law" against Canada.

He also denied charges by Premier Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan that the U.S., by linking Canadians to the prosecution as "unindicted co-conspirators," is engaging in "character assassination."

John Rouse of the state department's Canadian desk made the statement following a meeting Tuesday between Canadian ambassador J.H. Warren and acting State Secretary Charles Robinson.

Warren asked for the meeting to discuss the sensitive potash question and the U.S. uranium cartel investigation which is said to involve several countries including Canada.

The meeting came less than 24 hours after Blakeney asked the Canadian government "take appropriate action to protect Canadian interests."

Washington Ferry Workers Accept 12 Per Cent Hike

SEATTLE (AP) — Basic agreement on a new one-year contract resulted in cancellation of a strike threat by the Washington State ferry engineers.

The 103 engineers accepted a 12-per-cent pay increase, with cost-of-living adjustments Oct. 1 and April 1.

Meanwhile, ferry officials say they hope to have the ferry Klickitat running again on the Anacortes-San Juan Islands run in time for the Labor Day weekend traffic rush.

The ferry ran aground on Brown Island in fog Monday night and reportedly sustained minor rudder damage.

The Klickitat handles nearly 25 per cent of the San Juan Island run and four sailings out of Anacortes have been cancelled, including the 7:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 5:00 p.m. and 8 p.m. runs. Other sailings cancelled include the 8:45 a.m., 1:20 p.m., 6:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. runs from Orcas. The 1:00 p.m. Friday Harbor run has been re-scheduled one hour later.

BOMBERS WIND UP KOREAN FLIGHTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers have ended 10 days of practice radar bombing runs over South Korea amid tension over the slaying of two U.S. Army officers by North Korean guards in the demilitarized zone.

A Pentagon spokesman said Tuesday that the last B52 flight returned to Guam Monday.

Flights of three B52s began operating over South Korea from Guam on Aug. 20, about the same time a United Nations work party was entering the demilitarized zone to chop down a tree which had been the centre of a brawl that resulted in the deaths of the two U.S. officers.

Morris Stresses War on Curbs

TORONTO (UPI) — Canadian Labor Congress president Joe Morris today declared a confrontation with Prime Minister Trudeau's government in a determined effort to defeat the wage and price controls program.

In his annual Labor Day message, Morris said "the past 12 months have seen Canadian labor subjected to the largest politically-inspired attack in its history."

Morris called on Canadians to participate in its "national day of protest" against the anti-inflation program on Oct. 14, the one-year anniversary of the program.

"We do not treat this matter lightly," Morris said. "We are determined to get rid of wage controls.

"The defeat of the wage control program is not important just because of the inequity and injustice of the program. We also must demonstrate to the federal government that we will not put up with wage controls or any other economic policy which does not take adequate account of labor's interests."

Pause.

"Somebody who has a little bit of extra clever stuff about him, you know?"

Geniuses have always had their little ups and downs.

Down through the ages they have been known to flip out.

Brian Wilson is inevitably referred to as the "genius" behind The Beach Boys, those perpetual hedonist adolescents now enjoying a 15th-anniversary rejuvenation, but for years Wilson was left behind, literally, by the group while he languished in bed, literally, in his Bel Air mansion.

He ate himself into obesity (250 pounds) and, by his own accounts, drugged himself into delirium.

Now he has emerged Rip Van Winkle-like not only to compose and produce again but, for the first time in nearly a decade, to perform with the group in live concerts (among his replacements during the absence was the then-anonymous Glen Campbell).

The partially-deaf Wilson has scheduled to go onstage with his two bothers, Carl and Dennis, and fellow Beach Boys Alan Jardine and Mike Love at Capital Centre, and may perform with them again.

Of course, we can't be sure.

There is not much we can be sure of in this world, and less can be sure of with Brian Wilson.

In a limousine ride from Dulles Airport to the Watergate Hotel, Wilson, the composer of Good Vibrations, Wouldn't It Be Nice? and countless other rock classics, proved monosyllabic to the point of self-parody and sort of affably intransigent about now answering questions.

He was wearing lavender socks, moccasins, white pants and a purple and white shirt with big sweeping curlicues on it.

He was carrying a spiral notebook and a paperback of short stories by Ray Bradbury.

His shirt was unbottoned almost to the bottom and his big fat hairy torso was hanging out.

He never smiled once.

Also in the back seat was Dr. Eugne Landy, who has been identified in the past as Wilson's "therapist" or "psychologist" and whom Wilson credits with finally rousting him after his four years in the sack.

And now, the interview:

"Did you really spend four years in bed?"

"Yes, I did."

"What did you do?"

"I stayed in my bedroom and snorted cocaine."

"What else!"

"I dreamed up melodies in my head."

"Did you write them down?"

"No."

"So they're lost?"

"Yeah, they're lost."

"What do you think about drugs now?"

"I'm against 'em. They ain't worth the comedown."

"Are you still taking any drugs?"

Pause.

Wilson stops chewing his gum and turns to Landy.

"Is marijuana a drug?"

"Yes," he is told.

"Oh," he says.

Wilson's and the group's songs aren't just about waves and cars and "gurrls" any more.

Their latest album — a hit called 15 Big Ones — includes The I'M Song by Brian.

He learned about Transcendental Meditation from Beach Boy Love, who is a fanatic apostle on the subject.

"Do you meditate every day?"

"Yes."

"For an hour?"

"Half an hour."

"Do you ever miss a day?"

"I miss lots of days."

"What happens?"

"I get grosser."

Landy breaks in at this point and at several others.

"He's less energized when he doesn't meditate," Landy says.

"For him it's basically an energizing process, wouldn't you say, Brian?"

Wilson says nothing.

"Does meditation help you?" Wilson is asked.

"Yes, I think so."

"More than anything else?"

"More than anything I've found."

"Were your parents religious."

"Yes, they were very religious."

"Which religion?"

"Protestant."

"Did you get anything out that?"

"Yeah. It taught me choir singin' and got me in tune with organ."

Landy suggests to Wilson that the interview isn't going very well.

He suggests that Wilson talk about whatever he wants.

Wilson says nothing.

Later Landy asks that his own role in this encounter be played down.

"I'm a low-key figure, please," he says, in a high-key way.

Maybe Wilson would like to talk about politics.

"Would the Beach Boys play for a Carter rally?"

"No."

"A Ford Rally?"

"No."

"Do you have any political opinions."

"I have no opinions."

"Have you been reading about yourself in all the magazines and newspapers?"

"Yes."

"Do you like what they say about you?"

"Yes. It's very good material. Pretty provocative."

"What about the article that said you were a paranoid schizophrenic?"

"I can't imagine why they'd say that."

"One fan magazine quoted you as saying you get 'too much sex . . .' Is that true?"

"I used to, yeah."

"And now?"

"Just enough."

Pause all around.

"How much longer will The Beach Boys go on?"

"Another five years, I think."

"Why five?"

"It's just a round figure."

"What will happen to you then?"

"Probably get a job at a publishing house."

"Doing what?"

"Peddling tunes and things."

"Do you mind, at 34, being called a 'boy'?"

"Nope."

The limousine pulls up to the hotel apparently to the relief of Wilson, who has repeatedly been asking, "How much longer?"

His wife, Marilyn, and his two young daughters, Carnie and Wendy, are waiting for him in the lobby, and Dennis Wilson is pulling up in his own limo right behind Brian's.

Wilson lumbers out of the car and the children come forward smiling and jumping and open-armed.

For the first time in an hour, the threat of an expression surfaces on Brian Wilson's bearded face, and it seems to convey pleasure.

Esrever Ni Drocer S'einnelp

ON HIGHWAY ONE, Calif. — At 81, Plennie Wingo is once again on the march. In reverse.

Wingo, the unchallenged world's backward-walking champion, is striding south while facing north on this scenic coastal highway.

"I've got my fast walking shoes on, and I'm feeling just great," said Wingo in a telephone interview from a roadside booth.

He's bound for Santa Monica, about 400 miles from San Francisco. He started July 1 and expects to finish sometime in October.

Wingo, dapper in his suit, grey fedora and glasses equipped with rear-view mirrors, came out of retirement at the behest of Ripley's Believe It or Not, whose San Francisco museum has immortalized him in wax.

He strode backward into history in 1931-32, when he walked 8,000 miles to Istanbul from Santa Monica.

In addition, he also claims the world record for speed backward-walking, having covered the 45 miles between the Boston and Providence, R.I., city halls in 12½ hours back in 1931.

Wingo is up at 5 a.m each day and usually walks for eight hours. He stays in a hotel when he can't secure overnight lodging from a friendly native, and his wife meets him each weekend with a change of clothes.

Meter Beater Jailed

MONTREAL (CP) — A 24-hour visit to jail was the penalty handed out Tuesday to a modern-day Robin Hood who reinstalled electricity to welfare recipients whose power had been cut off because they failed to pay their bills.

Jean Pilon, of the Aid to Fire and Flood Victims organization, was sentenced by Judge Claude Joncas after pleading guilty last May to stealing from Hydro-Quebec meters and diverting $131.52 worth of electricity.

Pilon explained that he had planned to return the meters to Hydro-Quebec, his aim being to help the company understand that some people on welfare do not have enough money to pay their bills.

He used knife blades to resume the current after the four meters had been sealed by Hydro-Quebec, between Oct. 19 and Dec. 4, 1975.

TORONTO — Anne Murray gave birth to a baby boy Tuesday. Her manager said both mother and her seven-pound baby were doing well. Miss Murray is married to performer Bill Langstroth. It is their first child.

NEW YORK — There is no Mafia, says an Italian-American sociologist who once believed in it and says he has been called "every name in the book" for debunking it. At least, says Joseph Albini of Wayne State University, there is no secret Sicilian society that has dominated organized crime in the United States. "Italians, like other groups, have participated in organized crime, but Mafia as a secret society does not exist, and never did," he added.

SAN DIEGO — August has been a frustrating month for Darrow Roundy, whose Fun Bike Centre was robbed four times. The latest loss was a $3,000 motor bike taken from his showroom this week. "They even had the nerve to burn rubber across the showroom floor before riding the motorcycle right through the showroom window," said Roundy.

WALLA WALLA, Wash. — The bride and groom wore white — he a cast extending from his hips to his neck, she a knit tank top over her neck brace.

That wasn't exactly how Ralph Davidian and Karen Bray of Pendleton, Ore., had planned it, but then they didn't expect to be married in Walla Walla General Hospital. The wedding date was set for Aug. 14 in Idaho, but on Aug. 13 they were in a car which crashed near Heppner, Ore. The crash broke Davidian's neck and back. His bride-to-be had a broken neck vertebra. The couple was hospitalized shortly after the accident.

The hospital dietetic staff provided a wedding cake with traditional bell decorations. Davidian's bed was decorated with balloons. Other hospital employees brought the couple a getaway vehicle, a wheelchair bound with toilet tissue, decorated with balloons and sporting a "Just Married" sign on the back of the seat. There will be no immediate honeymoon.

HAYS TO QUIT SEPTEMBER 8?

WASHINGTON — Rep. Wayne Hays, whose "personal relationship" with Elizabeth Ray sparked a Capitol Hill sex scandal, is resigning from Congress effective Sept 8, reliable sources said Tuesday.

The House Ethics Committee went into closed session late in the day and there was some speculation that it would vote to terminate its payroll-sex investigation of the Ohio Democrat if he is no longer a congressman.

Elizabeth Didn't Mean It...

NEW YORK — Elizabeth Ray, former Washington secretary, is a household name. Her book has sold 1½ million copies. She has "some prospects" in movies.

That's a long way for a little blonde girl from North Carolina.

She wishes it had never happened.

The Elizabeth Ray of today is a product of the destruction of a political career — that of Wayne Hays, once-powerful Democratic congressman from Ohio.

That, says Miss Ray, is not at all what she intended last spring when she told the world that Hays had hired her as a $14,000-a-year secretary solely to serve as his mistress.

Asked Tuesday if, given another chance, she would do it again, she replied, "No, I would not." Firmly, in a voice that otherwise tended to quiver.

"I didn't realize at that time this would be the outcome," she went on. "I didn't realize what I was doing.

Miss Ray was at lunch when she heard the report of Hays' impending resignation. "I was hoping he could stay in office until the end of the year," the end of his current term, she said.

Now the thin, little voice was tremulous.

"He's suffered enough. He's gone through enough torture.

"His health is being jeopardized," she said. "So is his wife's. So is mine."

She has not seen or talked to Wayne Hays since the disclosures. She does not intend to do so.

But she does not see herself as the agent of his political demise, and she believes Hays understands that.

"I think Congressman Hays knows at this time it wasn't me trying to hurt him," she said. "It wasn't anything I could control. It was more the investigators and all . . ."

One senses the mantle of fame rides heavily on Elizabeth Ray's shoulders.

"Enough has been done," she said softly, eyes downcast. "I don't see what else can come of this. It's all out."

A sigh.

"It's time to call a halt to all this."

Then, something of a far-away look in her eyes.

"I would like to go home and rest . . . like I know Mr. Hays would like to do . . ."

A DOG'S LIFE FOR BURT

ATLANTA — Burt Reynolds sent out a call for dogs and 432 showed up — as well as 500 women in swim suits, hot pants and hiphuggers.

Reynolds was looking for a dog for his latest movie, Smokey and the Bandit. He found what he wanted in Mappy, a two-year-old basset with bloodshot eyes, a homely face and a lazy disposition.

The women seemed more interested in Reynolds than in dogs.

Oriental Barbecued Salmon

- 5 tbsp. oil
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice
- 2 tsp. soya sauce
- ½ tsp. dry mustard
- ¼ tsp. ginger or to taste
- 6 thick salmon steaks
- 6 slices sweet onion
- 6 large mushrooms, sliced
- salt & pepper to taste

In bowl, combine thoroughly oil, lemon juice, soya sauce, dry mustard and ginger. Marinate salmon steaks for 30 minutes, turning several times. Remove steaks from marinade. Reserve marinade. Place steaks on 6 squares of heavy duty aluminum foil. Top each with 1 onion slice and 1 sliced mushroom. Season with salt & pepper to taste. Sprinkle with 1 to 2 tsp. reserved marinade. Seal foil. Place packages on rack over hot coals. Cook for 10 to 12 minutes. Turn packages and combine cooking 8 to 10 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily. Makes 6 servings.

Stuffed Frankfurters

- 1 tin (7½-oz.) tomato sauce
- 2 tsp. powdered instant coffee
- 2 tsp. sugar
- 1 small clove garlic, crushed
- 8 frankfurters
- 8 green onions, trimmed
- 8 slices bacon
- 8 hot dog buns, split & toasted

In bowl, combine tomato sauce, coffee, sugar and garlic. Split each frankfurter lengthwise, cutting almost to the bottom; brush inside with part of the sauce mixture; place a green onion in each. Wrap each with 1 bacon slice; secure with toothpicks (soak toothpicks in water first to help keep them from charring). Place on grill approximately 6 inches above hot coals. Grill, turning frequently and brushing with sauce for about 15 to 20 minutes or until bacon is crisp. Serve piping hot with barbecue sauce in toasted hot dog buns. Makes 8 stuffed frankfurters.

Barbecued Chive Bread

- 1 unsliced loaf French Bread
- ½ cup softened butter or margarine
- ⅓ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- ¼ cup finely chopped chives

Slash loaf in 1-inch slices, cutting to, but not through the bottom crust. In bowl, cream together butter, Parmesan cheese & chives. Spread mixture on one side of each slice of bread. Wrap loaf in foil. Meat on edge of grill, turning frequently, for 20 to 30 minutes or until piping hot. Makes 6 servings.

Barbecued Turkey Fruit Kabobs

- ¾ lb. cooked boneless turkey, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 1 orange, cut into wedges
- 1 green pepper, cut into squares
- 4 small spiced crab apples
- ¼ cup light corn syrup
- ½ cup apricot preserves
- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine
- ¼ tsp. cinnamon or to taste
- dash ground cloves

Onto four 8 to 10-inch skewers, thread pieces of turkey, pear, orange, green pepper & a spiced crabapple. In saucepan, combine apricot preserves, corn syrup, butter, cinnamon and cloves. Bring mixture to boiling, stirring occasionally. Brush apricot mixture over prepared turkey & fruit. Place on grill and cook about 4 inches from coals, turning and brushing frequently with sauce until turkey and fruit are heated through and well glazed. Serve kabobs over hot cooked rice. Pass remaining sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Individual Grilled Suppers

- 1 lb. beef top round steak, cut into 1-inch cubes
- ¾ cup bottled barbecue sauce
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 2 tsp. chopped parsley
- 4 medium carrots peeled and sliced
- 4 medium potatoes, peeled and cubed
- 1 cup sliced celery cut on bias
- salt and pepper to taste

In shallow baking dish, arrange meat. In small bowl, combine barbecue sauce, garlic, onion and parsley. Pour over meat. Cover and refrigerate several hours, turning frequently. Have ready 4 pieces of heavy duty aluminum foil approx. 18 in.x12 in. Divide meat, barbecue sauce, carrots, potatoes and celery among pieces of foil. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Fold foil over and seal ends. Place directly on hot coals & cook 35 to 45 minutes, turing occasionally or until meat and vegetables are tender. Makes 4 servings.

FLUORIDATION POLL SOUGHT

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council voted Tuesday to ask the Greater Vancouver Regional District to hold an immediate plebiscite on fluoridation of water supplies in the Vancouver atea.

Council was told the plebiscite probably would be held next year in conjunction with municipal elections, held annually for all municipalities in the regional district except Vancouver, which has elections every two years.

Council members agreed that any decision on fluoridation would have to be made on a regional basis because water is supplied regionally.

The regional district last week delayed any vote on fluoridation until its staff gathers information to present to the board.

Liquor Ad Ban Feared

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gerald Kidd, president of the British Columbia Magazine Publishers Association, says he believes that within five years there will be no liquor advertising in magazines in Canada.

Kidd said in an interview Monday that what the publishers are most upset about is that United States publications may remain free from limitations while Canadian-produced periodicals are restricted from carrying the ads.

"If they restrict us they are going to have to keep American magazines off the new stands," said Kidd.

Health Minister Marc Lalonde is expected to introduce legislation this fall placing wide restrictiosn on liquor advertising in television, radio, newspapers and magazines

Kidd, who also is president of Interpress Publications Ltd. which puts out Pacific Yachting, said the loss in liquor advertising revenue could put several publications in B.C. and across Canada out of business.

"From September to December, Western Living and Vancouver Magazine collect as much as 50 per cent of their ad revenues from liquor advertising," said Kidd "If it was banned completely those magazines would be out of business. Saturday night would be out too, and Maclean's would be sorely pressed."

He said the issue was not promoting liquor advertising but how to keep it out of U.S. magazines in the interest of fairness.

He added thst he plans to take his case to Attorney-General Garde Gardom, the man responsible for the province's liquor laws, in mid-September.

Meanwhile, Ken Stewart, Liquor Administration Board director of advertising, said he expects the federal legislation to be "in the framework of a national advertising code" which will give Canada's provinces some guidelines in dealing with the issue.

Court Waits Make Son 'Almost an Orphan'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The mother of a boy found begging for money to buy food in the city's Kitsilano district in September, 1975, said Tuesday she is experiencing lengthy delays in a family court custody hearing.

Kathy Williams, 27, said delays in getting court dates for a custody hearing have ignored the needs and rights of her son, Mark, now nine.

Mrs. Williams said in an interview that she was prepared to present her arguments for the boy's custody in a family court hearing and that she is represented by Vancouver lawyer Robert Gardner.

"Originally I was told it would be settled by last December. The latest date is the end of October."

"It's almost as if Mark is an orphan."

The boy was found by two persons in September, 1975, walking barefoot along a street in Kitsilano.

Vancouver resources board officials said the boy was suffering from malnutrition, was incoherent and apparently delirious when found. He was sent to a Vancouver group home.

At the time the boy was found, it was learned that his mother had given him to his aunt, who lived in Kitsilano and had five children.

John Lynn, a resources board official who was involved in the case at the outset, said Tuesday night he was not fully informed of the custody action and believed the case was before the court.

He said he had sympathy for Mrs. Williams because the case was "dragging along."

Mrs. Williams also said that her visits with the boy in the group home have been severely limited and that a 10-minute, once-a-week telephone call to him are monitored on an extension.

"Every time he sees me he asks: 'When is court going to be over,'" she said, adding: "I don't think this is something a little boy should be worried about, especially for so long."

Gardner said delays in family court are sad.

"You are given a day or two days, spread out over six months. Everyone has to review and then re-review: It's not fair to the judge, not fair to defence counsel, not fair to the mother and certainly not fair to the child. This would never happen in supreme court."

Death Probed

BURNABY (CP) — RCMP are investigating the death of Ronald Dominic Colangelo, a 41-year-old steelworker who was found crushed to death Tuesday under the wheels of his station wagon. Police said the dead man was killed when his station wagon apparently rolled down a steep hill dragging him under it.

Charges Faced

POWELL, RIVER (CP) — Three Surrey youths were to appear in provincial court here Sept. 20 on charges relating to a recent break-in at a department of higheays ferry terminal. William James Walsh, 17, and Gary Dale Kyryluk, 18, have been charged with breaking and entering and theft. Rocky Brissette, 18, has been charged with possession of stolen money. About $8,000 in cash and cheques was stolen in the break-in.

Make this chicken mould on the weekend and avoid cooking Monday

Labor Day Chicken Mould

Mary Moore

Anybody want a moulded main dish to serve cold on Labor Day and to make the day before?

Anybody like flavor to rave about?

Yes?

I'm your woman.

Our Crunchy Chicken Salad Mould serves eight people generously and has four protein ingredients so will satisfy even your big he-man guests.

CRUNCHY CHICKEN SALAD MOULD
(serves 8)

(NOTE: I boiled a 3¼-pound chicken in 4 cups water with 1 bay leaf, 1 sliced onion and 1 teaspoon salt about 1½ hours until meat would fall from bones. When cool enough I tipped it onto a utility tray and picked out meat and discarded skin and bones and strained and chilled broth. For this recipe I needed 2 cups coarsely chopped chicken (see below). With the remaining meat I made lunch sandwiches and skimmed the fat from the broth and made soup.)

2 tbsp. plus one tsp. plain gelatine
1 chicken boullon cube (OR sachet instant soup mix)
½ tsp. salt
1½ cups cold water
½ cup skim milk powder
2 cups SIEVED cottage cheese
1 cup real mayonnaise
½ cup French or Italian Dressing
2 cups coarsely chopped chicken
¼ cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
¼ cup finely chopped green onion
2 tbsp. finely chopped parsley
2 tbsp. finely chopped pimiento

Soak gelatine, chicken cube or sachet and salt in cold water in pot 10 minutes, then stir over low heat until dissolved. Turn into large bowl to cool to room temperature. Meanwhile sieve the cottage cheese. (This is a nuisance — it took me 6 minutes.)

Stir together skim milk powder, sieved cottage cheese, mayonnaise and French or Italian dressing. Add to cooled down gelatine liquid and using your wire whip fold in until SMOOTH. Chill until mixture mounds on a spoon. At once fold in chicken, celery, pepper, onion, parsley and pimiento.

Turn into 9x5x3" mould (which it fills to the brim) OR into a 5-cup mould of your choice or eight or ten individual moulds. Chill until firm. To unmould dip in hot water and count 1-2-3-4-5 then invert fancy plate over top and turn over and out. It does not slice neatly. Use a large spoon as your server.

Garnish lavishly with colorful tomato wedges, green pepper rings and parsley. Serve with a salad of cauliflowerets, spinach and cucumber and hot crescent rolls.

COCONUT BALLS

As rich as shortbread but more fragile.

½ cup butter or margarine
2 tblsp. confectioners' sugar
½ tsp. vanilla
1 cup flour, stir to aerate before measuring
⅔ cup flaked coconut, chopped fine

Cream butter, sugar and vanilla. Gradually work in flour until blended. Stir in coconut. Chill if necessary to have firm enough to handle. Using 1 level tablespoon for each, shape into balls. Place about 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven until bottoms of cookies are golden brown — 15 to 18 minutes. Makes about 1½ dozen.

COTTAGE CHEESE ROLLS

There are few no-knead rolls better than these:

2 pkgs. active dry yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
2 cups cream-style cottage cheese
¼ cup sugar
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. baking soda
2 eggs
4½ cups (about) flour

Sprinkle yeast on lukewarm water; stir to dissolve. Heat cottage cheese until lukewarm. Combine cottage cheese, sugar, salt, baking soda, eggs, yeast and 1 cup flour in bowl. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed until smooth (about 2 minutes), scraping bowl occasionally. Or beat with spoon until batter is smooth.

Gradually add enough flour to make a soft dough that leaves the sides of the bowl. Place dough in greased bowl; turn over to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1½ hours).

Turn dough onto lightly floured surface. Divide dough into 24 equal pieces. Shape each piece into a ball. Place 24 balls in 2 greased 9-inch round baking pans. Let rise until doubled (about 45 minutes).

Bake in 350-degree oven 20 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from pans; cool on racks. Makes 24 rolls.

Egg Mask Idea

Beat two yolks with a tablespoon or two of water. Spread evenly over face and neck and let dry. Rinse off with lukewarm water and pat face dry.

A Perfect Party Couple: French Wine and Cheese

By TOM HOGE
(AP)

The French have been making wine and cheese since the days when their country was known as Gaul. And they have been making the range of wines known as Bordeaux for just about as long. Which explains in part why wine and cheese make such a perfect marriage.

More and more hosts have found that a pleasant and relatively inexpensive way of entertaining is a wine and cheese tasting. But keep in mind that, whereas the two have a natural affinity, the various cheeses should be matched with compatible wines to get the full benefit. One should not overshadow the other.

Little preparation is needed for a tasting. For a party of a dozen, select about the same number of cheeses, alloting a total of about four ounces to each guest. Four wines should do it, two whites and two reds; light or full bodies, depending upon the cheese that is accompanying the wine.

There are more than a hundred varieties of cheese from France alone available in this country, made from the milk of cows, goats and ewes.

Naturally you should serve good wines with your cheese, but that does not mean you have to go in for highly expensive vintages. Ask a friend who knows his way around in the wine field.

For a start here are a few suggestions, including some cheeses that are not French.

With a soft cheese like Brie or Camenbert serve a Graves, the pale, yellow Bordeaux with a faintly metallic character. With blue cheese like Roquefort or Gorgonzola try a rich, red St. Emilion.

For pungent cheese like Limberger or Liederkranz, try a Margaux, rated by some experts as the most exquisite claret on the Bordeaux roster.

For a salty cheese like Feta try a Pauillac, one of the most striking and brilliant wines of the Medoc region. A fresh, creamy ricotta should be accompanied by a flinty Sauvignon Blanc. Buttery Bel Paese or Edam go well with St. Estephe, one of the more sturdy clarets.

If you want to dress up your party serve Camenbert Aux Noix, which is both decorative and tasty.

¼ cup butter softened
¼ cup ground pecans
Several drops Tabasco
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 8-ounce wheel Camenbert, chilled
Toasted points

Cream softened butter till light and fluffy. Blend in nuts, Tabasco and lemon juice. Cut Camenbert in half while still chilled. Spread with butter mix. Chill till filling is firm. Slice in thin wedges half hour before serving. Serve on toast points. Makes about 16 wedges.

Laundry Tip

Fabric softeners should only be used every third or fourth wash, says the Consumers Association of Canada. Otherwise, the water absorption of fabrics is decreased and clothes become grey.

Beet Leaves Are Way Above the Root

hilda beastall

When beet leaves are discarded in favor of the roots we throw away an enormous quantity of nutrients that are very low in the more commonly eaten root portion. Even the protein rating is higher in the leaves.

We seldom find the leaves of beets in good condition when buying, so must rely on those grown at home or on the allotment. If we even find the root crop poor and the leaves luxuriant we are still lucky.

A dark green leafy vegetable is recommended in almost every list of desirable North American foods, but it has been found that spinach contains an oxalic acid which locks up the needed calcium, making it unavailable. Since calcium is needed by everyone in the daily diet, this should be replaced when using spinach by seasoning with calcium-rich fresh lemon juice.

There is no similar problem with beet greens. Cooked with the tiny beet roots, the two together make a wonderful vegetable dish.

To prepare leaves and small roots: wash quickly to remove soil particles. Do not scrape or cut roots in any way for the red juice runs out freely.

Cut larger leaves into two-inch pieces; small ones can remain whole. Beet roots less than a half-inch diameter cook at same time as leaves. Larger beets should be cut off an inch above the roots and cooked in boiling water for 8 minutes. Add the beet tops, stir and cover, simmering for another 8 minutes.

Larger beets must be cooked separately from the leaves. Twist off the leaves 2 inches from the roots. Wash the roots, leave whole and do not peel. Cook in boiling slightly salted water for 25 to 45 minutes according to size. Beets are difficult to test for doneness, other than by pricking the largest with a two-pronged fork. Cool slightly by running cold water over the beets, then slip the skins off with the fingers.

Reheat if necessary for a few minutes; or reheat after slicing or dicing large beets.

Shredded or grated beet roots and the leaves cut small can be cooked gently for about five minutes in either 1 tablespoon of soft margarine or in ½ cup of milk. Cover the pan and use gentle heat. In place of milk use 1 tablespoon of lemon juice; it keeps the beet color brighter.

The distinctive flavor of beets goes well in salads with the delicately flavored young zucchini or patty-pan squash, both now coming into production.

Beet Salad with Zucchini

2 cups shredded (raw) beet
2 tblsp. chopped parsley
1½ cups diced (raw) unpeeled zucchini
1 tsp. chopped chives
2 hard boiled eggs home-made yogurt paprika
bronze leaved lettuce
cottage cheese or grated Cheddar cheese

Shred beet, cover with parsley. Dice zucchini and mix with chives.

Make separate mounds of each vegetable on four places or on a meat platter if not sure of everyone's preference.

Make a central mound of hard boiled eggs, chopped. Top with plenty of home-made yogurt sprinkled lightly with paprika.

Circle with bronze (or dark green) lettuce leaves, with small mounds of cottage cheese or grated Cheddar at intervals.

This is a lunch or light supper dish with home-made warmed wholewheat buns.

Another beet side dish uses apples as the first earlies come into the markets.

Beet and Apple Salad

2 cups finely shredded raw beets
1 tblsp. chopped green chives
¼ tsp. salt
2 cups diced unpeeled apple
1 tblsp. orange juice
½ cup home-made yogurt few grains brown sugar

Use small to medium beets; wash well and shred into bowl. Add chives and salt.

Wash apples. Slice ¼-inch thick from around the core. Dice the pieces into orange juice to coat immediately thus preventing discoloration and loss of vitamins. Add to salad at once.

Spoon yogurt over top; lightly mix. Sprinkle with few grains of sugar.

This salad goes with a bowl of green saladings, or may be mounded on halved home-made buns. Serves four.

If you like the idea of orange with beets, there is a recipe for Beets in Orange Sauce which appears in several cookbooks.

You make the sauce by cooking a little cornstarch in water to thicken a half cup of orange juice with a good dash of lemon juice added. Margarine makes the sauce smooth, and ginger grains add zest.

Sliced cooked beets are added to the cooked orange sauce, and then well heated again before serving. This dish might be very good with pork in some form. I have not tried this one.

Remember with beets several points: use the leaves either raw or lightly cooked; small to medium-sized beet roots can be shredded raw for salads or cooked 25 to 45 minutes; large beets must be cooked longer, up to 1¼ hours for old ones from storage. Skins slip off easily either hot or cold, when cooked. Small beets used raw need not have skins removed.

One other use for beets is their juice, pressed from the pulp, cooked or raw, for coloring icing, coconut, cream cheese or yogurt. This is harmless and can be used for party food decorations.

indoor gardens

By Lynn and Joel Rapp

DEAR LYNN AND JOEL:

Several friends and I have "sick" False Aralias. I was told this was an easy plant to grow, but within days after buying it, it had begun to lose its lower leaves, and the ends of the other leaves were curling up and turning brown. I have this plant on a covered patio where it gets good light and plenty of humidity, but I'm at the point of giving up. I hope you might have some tips to save the day. — J.S.

DEAR J.S.:

Although we get literally hundreds of letters a month about False Aralias that react the way yours is doing indoors, we rarely hear of one that isn't doing well ontside. In fact, when discussing this plant we always tell people that it is what we call a "glamor plant" — one which is so beautiful as to be irresistible, but which really won't do very well unless in a greenhouse or outside. We HAVE seen instances of these plants flourishing indoors, but they've been rare indeed.

The most common plaint is the same as yours — the lower leaves fall off and the rest don't look too terrific, either. In that case, we always recommend that the owner put his plant outside, preferably in a sun-shade situation, water every other day, feed once a month, and inevitably it will come back good as new.

If we were you, we'd not give up. Just wait as long as you possibly can and see if this very difficult-to-grow-indoor plant won't make a comeback outside.

Does Vitamin E Help Sex Life?

By RUTH FREMES and ZAK SABRY

If our mail is any indication of the mental health of Canadians, we would say that ours is a nation paralytically preoccupied with the fear of sexual impotence. It is a rare day when the mailman drops a bag of letters without one asking "Will vitamin E help my sex life?"

A simple answer always requires a quick check-up of the person's diet. Do you eat green salads with oil dressing, whole grain bread or wheat germ every day? If yes, the body's needs for vitamin E are well satisfied. If no, we suggest the addition of two tablespoons of wheat germ to cereal in the morning and more salads at lunch and dinner.

This will not extend or enhance your sex life or produce any other unusual results. It will simply balance your diet with the right amount of vitamin E.

Then, how did the vitamin E-and-sex theory originate? We don't know. But, vitamin E is a fat-soluble substance. It is found in oils and certain oil-containing foods. Once these foods are eaten, the body uses all the vitamin E it needs and stores the rest in fatty tissues. Some of it is stored in the sex organs, such as the testes and the ovaries. This could be the reason that some people think that it has something to do with sexual performance. To our knowledge, there has never been any scientific evidence that you will increase your "happiness-from-sex" quotient if you guzzle vitamin E.

What good is it then? Its function in the body isn't clear. But, it seems to serve as a protective agent. It protects important substances that can be easily changed before the body gets a chance to use them properly. It acts like an invisible shield, keeping easily oxidized nutrients 'under the dome' and protecting them from premature destruction. It is naturally needed by the body for natural processes and it is needed constantly; in the right amount, not more and not less.

We need 10 units or milligrams (they are the same) of vitamin E each day. Most of us get that much from our diets. The only exceptions will be people who depend on highly processed foods, refined bread and cereal and restaurants fried foods for most of their nourishment, without including green salads with oil dressings. Also, if you have a high intake of polyunsaturated oils in order to control your cholesterol, your needs for vitamin E will be slightly higher. These oils are easily oxidized and the body needs more protection for them. Vitamin E provides that protection. Until recently, we could have said that wouldn't matter, because these same oils are usually rich sources of vitamin E. Now, we are not so sure. At a recent nutrition conference, an industry researcher admitted that current oil refining practices destroy quite a bit of vitamin E.

It is wise to ensure that your diet has enough vitamin E in it. But, it could be dangerous to take pills with dosage in excess of your daily needs, that is 10 units. Even more dangerous is to believe that vitamin E would cure heart disease or arthritis. If you have reason to suspect any disease, don't listen to any one but your doctor. The health you preserve could be your own.

Of course, if you find that eating right helps your sex life, don't be surprised. Nutrition does wonders.

Here's a Corn Dish with a French Accent

Here is a recipe for a Franco-American dish — a lovely fresh corn souffle. Americans usually like the center of a souffle to be firm; the French usually prefer the center a little "runny" so it can serve as a sauce. Fortunately you can test for this crucial point. When you are ready to take the souffle out of the oven, insert a table knife in the crack into the top. If the knife does not come out clean, the center will be soft. Should you want it firmer, bake the souffle a little longer.

FRESH CORN SOUFFLE

3 ears corn, husked
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup milk, scalded
Salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
5 large eggs, separated

With a sharp knife cut off only the tips from the corn kernels; with the back of the knife scrape off the remaining pulp and juice; measure 1 cup of this "creamstyle" corn.

In a 2½-quart saucepan over low heat, melt the butter; stir in the cornstarch until smooth; remove from heat. Gradually stir in the milk 1 tablespoon at a time at first, keeping smooth. Stir in 1 teaspoon salt and the pepper. Over low heat, stirring constantly, cook until thickened and boiling. Off heat whisk the egg yolks, one at a time, into the hot sauce. Stir in the 1 cup corn.

Beat egg whites and ¼ teaspoon salt until stiff peaks form. Stir a large spoonful of the beaten egg whites into the corn mixture to lighten it; gently fold in the remaining egg whites. Turn into an unbuttered 2-quart souffle dish.

Place in a preheated 400-degree oven; at once reduce heat to 350 degrees. Bake until greatly puffed and top is brown — 40 to 45 minutes. Serve at once.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

RICE
To the Rescue

It wasn't that long ago that one would think nothing of getting two pounds of ground beef to serve four or six for dinner.

Or a steak for each member of the family.

But now one gets one pound of ground beef and tries to figure out a way to make it serve six without resorting to making it into a spaghetti sauce yet again.

And the equivalent weight of one sirloin steak — but this time it's round steak — has to feed the family.

Even the nutritionists say the smaller portions of meat provide all the protein required in the diet, they look very meagre as lone meat patties or as slivers of steak lying in lonely splendor on the plate.

The solution is to use more economical ingredients and stretch the meat in a tasty mixture.

Rice can come to the rescue, as cooks in Asian countries have known for many years, turning small quantities of meat into hearty, elegant dishes.

The two recipes below fall into this category, and while they may take more time to prepare, the results are filling, superb, and well worth the effort.

STIR-FRY CABBAGE AND FRANKS

The beach-party flavor of mustard coated hotdogs combines with the economic classic taste of corned beef and cabbage to make this dish, cooked in a stir-fry style to preserve the nutritional values of the cabbage and lifted out of the ordinary by the caraway seeds and rich sauce.

STIR-FRY FRANKS AND CABBAGE

1 package (12 to 16 oz.) frankfurters, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 medium head cabbage, shredded (about 8 cups)
1 cup sliced green onions with tops
2 teaspoons caraway seed
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 cups cooked rice
¼ cup mayonnaise
⅓ cup sour cream
1½ teaspoons lemon juice
1½ tablespoons prepared mustard

Saute frankfurters in a lightly greased skillet about 5 minutes. Add cabbage, green onions, and seasonings. Cook until cabbage is tender. Stir in rice; heat thoroughly. Combine remaining ingredients and spoon over frankfurter mixture. Stir to blend; then serve. Makes 6 servings.

Something different in the way of meatballs, these show East can meet West, at least on the table. The sauce and rice has a touch of China, while the flavor is more reminiscent of southern Europe.

MYSTERY MEATBALLS SUPREME

1 pound lean ground beef
1 cup cottage cheese
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 cup finely chopped onions
1 egg
1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon each pepper and garlic powder
2 cups beef broth
¼ cup each catsup and dry red wine
2 tablespoons cornstarch
3 cups hot cooked rice

Combine meat, cheeses, onions, egg, spinach, and seasonings. Mix well. Form into 18 meat balls about 1½ inches in diameter. Place in a lightly greased shallow baking pan. Bake at 450 degrees for 20 minutes. Blend broth, catsup, wine and cornstarch. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Pour over meat balls; stir into pan juices. Reduce the heat to 350 degrees and continue baking 30 minutes longer. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Makes 6 servings.

BOTTOMS UP APPLE CAKE

⅔ cup sliced apples
⅔ cup sugar
¼ tsp. cinnamon
⅛ tsp. clove
⅛ tsp. allspice
grated rind and juice of 1 orange
1 tblsp. flour
⅔ tblsp. melted butter

Cake Batter

1 cup all purpose flour
½ cup sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
pinch salt
2 egg yolks
1 tblsp. melted butter
¼ cup milk

Layer the apples on the bottom of a buttered 8x8x2-inch cake pan. Mix sugar, cinnamon, lemon and flour and sprinkle over apples. Dribble melted butter over all. Prepare cake batter. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together. Beat egg yolks, butter and milk together. Blend into flour mixture. Cover apples with cake batter. Bake in a 425 F oven for about 30 minutes. Turn cake out onto a platter. Cool slightly. Serve with sortly whipped cream. 4-6 servings.

Bourbon Apples

A quick and easy dish from Kentucky.

1 can (2½ oz.) apple-pie filling
¼ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
¼ tsp. cinnamon
⅓ cup bourbon (or rye)

In a 1-quart casserole stir together all the ingredients — they will not fill the baking dish. Bake, covered, in a preheated 350-degree oven for 45 to 60 minutes. Makes 6 or more quite sweet servings.

Don't Abuse That Sausage

dear abby

Party Politician, Party Pooper

DEAR ABBY: I'm married to a very intelligent, informed and well-read man. The problem is that whenever we are out socially, he gets on politics and always manages to get into a shouting match with somebody.

We are practically without friends at this point because most of the people we know don't share our political views.

I have asked my husband to please stay off politics when we're socializing, but it's in one ear and out the other. He has very strong feelings about the way our country is being run, and he's very outspoken.

How can I get him to keep his mouth shut when he knows he's confronting someone who is just as loyal to his political party as he is? — HELP

DEAR HELP: You probably can't. A lively political debate can be stimulating, informative and fun, but when it becomes a shouting match, it's a waste of energy for the combatants and an embarrassment for the witnesses.

DEAR ABBY: My son-in-law thinks it's great fun to trip his little three-year-old son when the child walks past him. Then he laughs loudly when the boy falls flat on his face.

Meanwhile, the child ends up crying, not so much from the physical hurt as from humiliation and the feeling of betrayal.

When they were visiting us last Christmas, my husband asked our son-in-law to please desist from this practice as long as they were in our home. Angry words followed and they left immediately, not even bothering to stay for the Christmas Eve festivities.

We haven't heard from them since, and they haven't answered our letters. They feel that we were trying to tell them how to raise their child, but we felt it was our right to reject unacceptable conduct within the confines of our home.

In other words, isn't a man's home still his "castle," or has that, too, been scrapped? — CHILDLESS GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: You haven't asked for any advice, so I won't offer any. But if you want to know whose side I'm on, it's yours.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are going to celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary soon, and we're planning a dinner dance for about 200 guests.

Would it be proper for me to wear my original wedding gown and veil for the first dance, and then change into something else?

We've been to other silver wedding parties, but the bride wasn't able to get into her wedding gown, so someone else modelled it for her. Some have said it wouldn't be proper for me to wear my own wedding gown. What do you say? — READER

DEAR READER: Wear the gown and veil for the first dance, then remove the veil and wear the gown for the rest of the evening. Why change?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MAD AT YOU": I am not obligated to send personal replies to letters that are not accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Did you send one?

Continental Touch

Rye bread spread with butter and mustard and topped with pepperoni slices, sauerkraut and dill pickle slices adds a European dimension to sandwiches.

Sausages go back almost 5,000 years while North Americans tend to think of them as snack foods, in fact they make remarkable good and very often inexpensive main-course meals.

A well-prepared hot dog in a nicely crisped bun, with pickle and other relishes is a treat, but are usually so poorly done that I've all but given up buying them from concession stands.

But wieners and baked beans prepared at home is something else. If rushed, I use canned beans and simply cut in the wieners, heat and serve.

For a planned dish of wieners and beans, I make up a big pot of my own beans with molasses and maple syrup the day before, empty the beans into a large casserole dish and then cut in several different kinds of smoked sausages from wieners to kielbasy and summer sausage to salami. Gently mixed and heated to bubbling in the oven.

Naturally to save time it can be done with a premium brand of fine baked beans.

Many stores either make or retail plump German sausages such as Bratwurst that need pre-cooking but can be incorporated into numerous delightful entrees. The following is a real treat:

Gently roll Bratwurst or similarly rich plump specialty sausages in a little flour and broil slowly, constantly shaking the pan until they are an even brown all over.

Saute three onions thinly sliced, in two tablespoon butter, until they are transparent and then add a can of sauerkraut that has been rinsed and allowed to drain. Stir gently and cook covered on low heat for five minutes. Now add three chopped, peeled, cored apples, two cups cider and cook covered for one hour. Place the broiled sausages on top and poach gently for a further 30 minutes. Serve with poached potatoes and hot mustard.

One of the great English dishes using sausages is Bangers and Mash. This main course dish can be prepared with any to-be-cooked sausage such as Bratwurst but I use inexpensive link sausages fresh from the butcher.

Beware of buying link or farmer's sausage that is too pale in color. This usually indicates an excessive amount of fat and minimum of meat in the mix. Such sausages are often tasteless and shrivel to nothing as the fat runs out.

Many butchers make really fine sausages in the old way and all too often their good work is undone because remarkably few people are aware of the best way of preparing them.

Most people simply dump them in a skillet and fry until brown all over but in my opinion this is a very poor cooking method. I either bake or poach and fry. Here's how I go about it.

BAKED SAUSAGES

Pre-set the oven to 300 and set an oven rack in a middle level. Separate links and prick with a fork, cut lengths of farmer's sausage into five-inch lengths and set in a greased oven pan. Put the pan into the heated oven and every 10 minutes, give the pan a good shake to turn over the sausages. If they stick, detach them with your skillet flipper and keep them rotating so that they evenly brown. When a very good color, pour away the excess fat.

POACHED-FRIED SAUSAGES

Many cooks will prefer this method, because not only is it quicker, but the food is on view and easier to control.

Prepare the sausages as before, put them into a skillet, cover with cold water, bring to the simmer and let them cook gently for four to five minutes. Drain off all the water, add a knob of butter or margarine to the pan and brown them over a low heat shaking the pan to keep them turning for even cooking. Don't worry about the time, just go by their color. If your heat is low and you keep them on the move, they will finish up nice and crisp outside and lusciously rich inside.

BANGER AND MASH

For this dish make up a nice big pot of potatoes, mash until smooth and creamy with butter and milk, set out in a big dish and stick the hot browned bangers into the mash, ends up.

Why "bangers?"

It's a jingle that goes, "two little sausages frying in the pan, one went pop and the other went BANG." The first part is sung in a whisper with the "bang" at full lung capacity right in your ear.

Yo Ho Ho! And a Cake Full of Rum

Pudding mix keeps the cake moist

If you're looking for a dessert that combines all of the best: new ideas in cake baking and easy preparation, with fool-proof results, try a Bacardi Rum Cake. This exceptional cake is a pudding cake baked in a ring pan and flavored with light rum. You can get a really elegant cake with the addition of a little whipped cream topping and the artful placement of pecan halves.

The recipe is easy. Just sprinkle chopped pecans or walnuts in the bottom of a well-greased pan, and, after mixing all the remaining cake ingredients, pour over the sprinkled nuts. Then bake one hour. Adding pudding mix to a cake recipe assures that your cake will be moist for days so you can confidently bake one well in advance of a party and cut down on last minute preparations. The real star of the recipe is the rum. A half-cup goes into the cake mix, and, although the alcohol in the rum evaporates during the baking, the delicious mellow flavor of the rum remains.

BACARDI RUM CAKE

1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts
1 18½ oz. package yellow cake mix
⅓ ¾ oz. package instant vanilla pudding
4 eggs
½ cup vegetable oil
½ cup cold water
½ cup Bacardi rum

GLAZE

¼ lb. butter
¼ cup water
1 cup granualated sugar
½ cup Bacardi light-amber rum

Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. Grease and flour a 10-inch tube pan. Chop the nuts and sprinkle them evenly over the bottom of the pan.

Mix the cake mix, pudding, eggs, vegetable oil and water together in a mixing bowl. Stir in the ½ cup of light rum.

Pour the batter over the chopped nuts and bake on the middle rack of the 325 degree oven for one hour.

While the cake is baking, take ¼ lb. of butter and melt in a sauce pan. Add ¼ cup of water and 1 cup of granulated sugar. Boil for five minutes, stirring constantly. Allow to cool and stir in ½ cup rum.

Remove the cake from the oven and set on a rack to cool. When cool, invert onto a serving plate. Prick the top of the cake (where the chopped nut layer is) with a fork and drizzle the glaze evenly over the top, allowing it to soak into the cake.

The cake is now ready to eat and enjoy, and with its moist texture and delicious taste, any additions you choose should be primarily for decoration. For instance, you may add whipped cream and halved pecans, or dust lightly with confectioner's sugar and garnish with powdered fruit such as grapes or cherries (paint fruit with egg white and roll in confectioner's sugar).

Can you explain the differences between the many psychological drugs that are on the market? — Miss D.L.

Dear Miss L.:

These are not "psychological" drugs, although they do alter some psychological moods. They are known as "psycho-tropic" drugs and are of enormous value when carefully chosen by physicians for very specific purposes.

Under the heading of psycho-tropic drugs are those that are known as "mood elevators." These are chosen for those people who are in periods of mild or serious depression.

Other such drugs are used to relieve bouts of anxiety. These could be classed as "tranquilizing" drugs.

Dozens of manufacturers have their own brand names of a drug, even though the chemical composition may be almost identical.

Many people are under the impression that there are milder or stronger forms of these drugs. In most instances, it is the amount or the number of grains in a drug, rather than its chemical composition, that determines its strength.

Under psycho-tropic drugs must be included the amphetanines which act as a stimulant to the nervous system. These are now carefully controlled in manufacture and distribution by Federal health authorities.

Barbiturates, codeine morphine and heroin derivatives are all mind-altering, or psycho-tropic, drugs.

All of these drugs have very specific purposes. They must not be traded from person to person by those whose enthusiasm is in no way related to their knowledge of the drug's potential hazards.

China's Social 'Lords' Labor

By DAVID ROGERS

NANIWAN, North China (Reuter) — Fu Heiang-Tang is a doctor who has been laboring in a brick kiln.

Shi Heia-Nei, a 22-year-old teacher in politics, works as a carpenter.

Chang Ching-Po, a 44-year-old accountant and senior factory administrator, cleans out pigsties.

Fu, Shih and Chang are all "remolding their world outlook." They are students at Naniwan Cadre School, which runs a six-month crash course to re-educate China's officials and change them from social "lords" to social servants.

Through political study and physical labor, cadre schools aim to recharge officials with revolutionary zeal, give them a real taste of rural life and narrow the remaining class gaps in Chinese society.

Li Po-Lung, administrator of the Naniwan school in Shensi province said there was a long waiting list of applications from cadres.

The present class has 742 students.

The students continue to draw their normal salaries but are otherwise treated equally.

They start the course by walking the 28 miles from the nearest city of Yenan. "It was a long march in miniature to toughen their revolutionary will," Mr. Li said.

Half the course is devoted to political education, re-reading the works of Chairman Mao Tse - tung, conducting mass meetings, studying proletarian dictatorship and learning to cure bourgeois tendencies.

The last class held 700 criticism meetings and wrote 5,000 articles on political theory.

Each day the students do physical labor. "At a cadre school everybody becomes an ordinary laborer. It helps them get rid of the idea they are privileged and is important in combatting revisionism," Mr. Li said.

Naniwan has its own farm, brick kiln and a simple factory that produces hand carts. Students do all the menial jobs.

Peru Takes a Conservative Turn

By JOANNE OMANG
Washington Post

LIMA — Hard times have hit the Peruvian experiment, the effort to be a leftist anomaly on a continent full of right-wing dictatorships. Although still a model to dissidents biding their time elsewhere in silence in South America, Peru has bowed to looming economic disaster and shifted towards a more conservative line.

The word "socialism," a part of the government's self-description since the 1968 military takeover, was for the first time completely absent from a major address, President Francisco Morales Bermudez's independence day speech July 28. That, said former government information chief Augusto Zimmerman meant "the revolution has been buried." He took asylum a few days later in the Panamanian embassy.

Peru's change in the year since Morales Bermudez took over illustrates the problems of imposing strongly nationalistic social reform policies of workers participation in a context of underdevelopment. Traditional behavior patterns, capricious foreign markets and acts of God, plus some plain bad luck, were among the factors sabotaging Peru's attempts at long-range planning.

The new line is expected to strengthen Peru's relations with the United States at the expense of its avowed policy of non-alignment. Morales took power during the non-aligned movement's annual congress here a year ago and Foreign Minister Jose de la Puente said in an interview that the country remains committed to that position. However, other sources close to the government said the country had no choice. "Non-alignment is dead," said an economist adviser to the administration.

Several sources revealed that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger during his February visit here had expressed sympathy with Peru's financial straits but indicated that aid would hinge on friendlier relations. "He said the time had come to stand up and be counted on one side or the other of the two-power world," according to an influential former official.

There is universal agreement that President Morales, 54, made changes in policy and personnel reluctantly, so much so that he is now viewed as further left than most of the rest of his government. He is under considerable pressure as a result, from the left to be firmer and from the right for further changes.

Popular opposition party leader Raul Haya de la Torre of the centrist American Popular Revolutionary Alliance (APRA) calls at every chance for free elections, while former President Fernando Belaunde Terry, back from exile, said in an interview that "there are bound to be serious consequences" in terms of popular reaction if elections are not held soon. It is the first time since Belaunde was overthrown in 1968 that the demands have been so persistent.

Not much is being said publicly at the moment, however, because of a state of emergency and press clamp down in effect since July 2. A curfew and suspension of individual rights followed riots and street fighting that greeted harsh economic measures aimed at solving what the government called a major crisis.

There is a foreign debt of $3.7 billion, a balance of trade deficit of $1.2 billion, an inflation rate of about 48 per cent, a budget that is 27 per cent backed with paper. An all-out effort to get foreign loans for the annual debt service payment garnered $360 million from two consortiums of U.S., Japanese and European banks this month, according to de la Puente, but that is still short of the $400 million the government earlier said it had to have to stay afloat.

In his July 28 speech, Morales said the crisis arose from the inability of Peru's domestic economic policies to deal with the international economic slide of 1974.

That was during what is now called the first stage of the revolution, the 1968-75 years under President Juan Velasco Alvarado. Velasco set out to transfer the means of production from the old "40 families" who dominated Peru to the hands of the poor workers and peasants. It was to be a revolution "neither capitalist nor Communist, but Christian, socialist and humanist."

Land reform he began transferred 29.3 million acres to benefit 260,400 families in three kinds of co-operatives by last April, according to official figures. One of these, the "social property" sector was to be the keystone.

It was a complex plan giving all workers in the sector theoretical joint ownership of all the businesses in it, but organizational problems bogged the plans down. Improvising as they went along, the soldier leaders passed laws requiring private and foreign businesses to move toward 50-50 worker ownership and participation in decision making. They nationalized mines, fisheries and communications, often without regard for losses in production and efficiency in the changeovers.

Even th e press, as the voice of the old land-owning aristocracy, was finally seized with the promise that each newspaper would become the spokesman for a different sector of the population. The press is still government-controlled.

To finance national growth, there would be Peru's traditional tin and copper, the vast schools of anchovies offshore waiting to be made into fishmeal for a hungry world, and finally oil, great lakes of it thought to be hidden under the eastern jungle.

One by one the promises turned sour. The oil failed to materialize in sufficient quantity to support massive development loans floated on its promise. U.S. companies spent $500 million in a four-year hunt before pulling out en masse at the end of last year, discouraged not only by poor finds but by stiff contract rules that required 51 per cent Peruvian ownership of all production.

As part of the recent shift, Morales has announced that new oil exploration contracts will be let under terms to be negotiated — that is, with fewer prior restrictions, a reversal of Valasco's nationalistic stance. The country still hopes to be self-sufficient in oil by the end of 1977, which would save it $200 million in foreign exchange each year.

Similarly, Peru had depended on the annual anchovy run in the Pacific to provide the fishmeal that brought in 25 per cent of its foreign exchange. But the fish seemed to disappear in 1972, riding their mysterious currents out to sea and causing a disastrous drop in Peru's income.

The fishing fleet was nationalized in 1973 in an effort to cut costs, but its 15,000 fishermen and workers ran up costs of $215.5 million in three years of scanty catches. On July 21, Fisheries Minister Francisco Mariategui announced the flet would be returned to private hands, although the catch must still be sold to the government.

Further reducing export income was the drop in world prices for copper, zinc and tin after 1973, while prices for imported parts and manufactured goods continued to rise.

As part of the governmental change, strikes have been banned indefinitely and the laws requiring worker participation in decision making have been modified to apply only to large firms.

Further changes are being drawn up, according to government sources, among them a virtual abandonment of the social property scheme.

The new view is evident in the expectation of a settlement next month of a particularly sticky problem, the terms of payment to the U.S. owners of the nationalized Marcona iron mines. The shutdown cost Peru millions of dollars in lost foreign earnings.

The stringent economic measures announced last month, billed as long overdue, doubled gasoline prices and devalued the Peruvian currency by 44 per cent. There was an immediate jump in consumer prices and a bus strike, leading to the July 1 demonstrations.

Argentine Group Calls War on Jews

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A group calling itself the Argentine National Socialist Front declared total war Tuesday against Jews and claimed responsibility for recent bombings of synagogues and Jewish-owned shops.

A communique mailed to news media claimed responsibility for bomb explosions last Thursday that heavily damaged two synagogues in Buenos Aires and a drug store in the predominantly Jewish neighborhood of Barrio Once.

The flare-up of anti-Semitic violence began in July when unidentified gunmen in a speeding car fired into at least eight Jewish-owned shops. Bombings followed.

Anti-Semitic pamphlets at newspaper stands throughout the capital blames the Jews for Argentina's economic and political problems.

Some 600,000 Jews live in Argentina, comprising the biggest Jewish community in the Western Hemisphere after the United States.

'Drop Controls Quickly'—CMA

HALIFAX (CP) — Rod Bilodeau, president of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, said Tuesday the federal government's anti-inflation program is having some beneficial impact in lowering expectations and providing realistic guidelines on what the economy can deliver.

But the association feels that some provisions of the controls program are adversely affecting manufacturing. Canada must get the maximum mileage out of the program and "then get clear of it very quickly," he told the annual convention of the Canadian Gas Association.

A year has gone by since the controls were imposed, he said, and business still is not clear on regulations regarding prices and profits. He attributed this largely to tinkering by bureaucrats who are not familiar with the way business operates and how profits are generated

Bilodeau, chairman of the board of Honeywell Ltd., in Scarborough, Ont., said the government no longer can solve economic problems with "a bit of tinkering here and there with a tax, or a tariff or with other bits and pieces."

"If we are to restore a sound, non-inflationary economic performance, there must be a fundamental change to a much more receptive business environment."

He said the competitive position of Canada's industry has been eroded by labor costs that now are higher than those in the United States, declining productivity, higher tax levels than the U.S., and deteriorating industrial relations.

International Labor Organization statistics show that Canada led the list of monitored countries in man-days lost in 1975 because of labor disputes.

In terms of time lost as a percentage of working time, last year's performance was the worst in three decades, Bilodeau said. Levels of time lost so far this year were running ahead of last year.

"This is a clear indication that our system of collective bargaining needs urgent attention," Bilodeau said

Canada's competitive position must be restored, Bilodeau said, and business can not afford to leave all the initiatives to government or it will lose its voice in a crucial debate.

U.K. CONVICTS PROTEST ON ROOF

HULL, England (UPI) — Some of Britain's toughest criminals sat on the roof of their maximum security jail in Hull today demanding a public inquiry into alleged prison brutality.

Originally, 40 men clambered onto the roof after four fires broke out in different parts of the jail Tuesday. The men hurled pieces of slate at firemen and guards but this morning, 20 men returned to their cells.

The others produced banners proclaiming "four warders beat up one prisoner, We demand a full public inquiry." and "stop screws brutality." An Irish tricolor also fluttered from the roof top.

The jail housed 230 prisoners — some of them members of the Irish Republican Army.

"There are some pretty hard men up there," a police spokesman said.

A home office spokesman said no attempt would be made to force the men off the roof and "if they have any complaints, they can make them through normal channels."

Robbers Disguised As Police

DETROIT (UPI) — Young thugs prowling city freeways for disabled motorists have adapted quickly to the arrival of a state police contingent to patrol the freeways.

Victor Jones, 25, reported Tuesday he was driving on Interstate 94 when a car behind him flashed its bright lights and shined a spotlight on his rear view mirror.

Aware that 72 state police troopers arrived this week to take over freeway patrols for the shorthanded police department Jones assumed it was a trooper. Both cars pulled over to the shoulder, and two men approached Jones's car.

"I had my registration and licence out and handed it out the window," Jones said, "when I turned to look, there was a .38 right against my face."

The gunmen took a wallet from Jones, and also grabbed a watch, a bracelet and $5 from passenger Perry Mills, 25. The robbers then fled in his car, which police eventually found not far away. Two suspects were later arrested.

Jones said he never saw one real trooper during the ordeal and he had to wait 45 minutes for police to show up after calling from a service station.

Troopers were brought to the city to reinstate patrols that were canceled earlier this year by the financially troubled police department. The state police contingent was intended to curb freeway robberies and assaults and to speed city police responses to emergency calls.

Fluoride Gives Rats Defects

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rats given fluoride in their drinking water at levels as low as in some cities' water systems developed abnormalities that led to miscarriages, stillbirths and birth defects, a scientist said today.

But Dr. Aly Mohamed of the University of Missouri said his results cannot be applied to humans because even if it could be shown that humans were subject the similar chromosomal damage, the damage would be less likely to be translated into birth defects.

The new study was discussed at a symposium at the American Chemical Society meeting here.

Dr. Mohamed said fluoride levels in the drinking water given test rats varied from one to 200 parts per million.

The rats show damage to their chromosomes, part of the mechanism of heredity, regardless of the concentration of the chemical.

A control group of rats with no fluoride in their drinking water developed none of the abnormalities, he said.

Eight Win In Early Draw

NANAIMO — Eight Victorians were among the winners in the second early-bird draw of the Lucky Leo lottery held here Tuesday.

Bertram Williams of 2480 Mowat picked up $1,000, Jean Alder of 350 Douglas, $100, Marjorie Lindsay-Dixon of 2135 McLaren and E. L. Halliday of 1530 Church $50 each and Betty Whittcher of 4112 Tuxedo, Fenton Oldham of 361 Irving, William Henly of 1143 Chapman and Bud Curry of 2500 Florence Lake $25 each.

Nanaimo Mayor Frank Ney drew the winning tickets.

All eight will have their tickets returned to the barrel for the Oct. 31 draw of $100,000.

The lottery is sponsored by the B.C. Lions Society for Crippled Children.

It was also announced Tuesday that a group of 15 Victoria police and court workers won $500 in Sunday's Olympic lottery draw. The 15 had pooled their money to purchase 15 of the $10 tickets.

It was the fifth time this year a group of Victoria policemen or court workers has won money in lottery draws.

RCMP BOAT PULLOUT QUERIED

NANAIMO — The RCMP will be asked to explain to city council why the police boat Athabasca is being pulled out of Nanaimo.

Ald. Jim Moffat told council he has learned the 33-foot vessel will be moved to the Sechelt and Powell River areas of the mainland and will not likely be replaced here.

Insp. George Strathdee, commanding officer of the Nanaimo RCMP detachment, has been asked for an explanation.

In addition, Moffat said he has learned that next summer the Canadian Coast Guard's Zodiac will not be posted in Nanaimo but will be moved to Northwest Bay near Parksville.

Moffat said 70 marine rescues were reported by the coast guard and the volunteer Nanaimo Emergency Program (NEP) so far this year. Another 23 rescue incidents were reported by radio station CHUB, he added.

Withdrawal of the coast guard and RCMP vessels will leave only the NEP and radio station to oversee rescue operations for an unofficial count of 25,000 boats of all types operating out of Nanaimo.

CMHC Funds Given Aged

Funds totalling $2,501,331 have been approved by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for a Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society apartment building for the elderly.

CMHC office also announced Tuesday that the federal government would grant $273,296 to the project, reducing the amount outstanding to $2,228,035.

In addition, a federal interest-reduction grant of $4,290 a month will reduce the effective interest rate on the mortgage from 10½ to eight per cent.

The seven-storey apartment building will contain 71 bachelor units, 27 one-bedroom suites and a caretaker suite. It will be built on a Collinson Street site leased from the province.

Rents will range from $225 to $330 a month. This includes refrigerator, store, utilities, laundry equipment and cablevision.

Trident Protest Trial Date Set

SEATTLE (AP) — Trial has been set for Nov. 4 for eight persons charged with trespassing and destruction of government property in connection with a demonstration Aug. 8 at the Trident nuclear submarine base.

The cases stem from a demonstration Aug. 8 by the Pacific Life— Community, based in Vancouver. The protest began with a parade across the border at the International Peace Arch and proceeded without incident to the Trident base under construction on the Hood Canal near Bangor.

COOK STREET CLOSURE

The intersection of Cook and Finlayson Streets will be closed to traffic Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week for construction and repaving.

The closure is effective 24 hours a day. Traffic will be rerouted via Lang, Highview and Merritt.

Community Plan Ignores Details

Before a public hearing is held in late October on Victoria's Official Community Plan, city council will have to explain to various neighborhoods why their areas are not covered in any detail by the document.

That suggestion came from Ald. Murray Glazier Tuesday, as council in caucus agreed to delete from the draft plan a supplement dealing with the city's residential areas on a basis.

The neighborhoods section will remain an adjunct to the community plan but it will not be forwarded with the latter for formal registration or filing with the provincial government later this year.

Mayor Mike Young said this way of handling the matter was recommended by the Advisory Planning Commission, because the neighborhood plans are expected to be modified and amended "and do not lend themselves to filing with the Official Community Plan."

((Essentially, council wants to retain both jurisdiction and flexibility in regard to neighborhood planning. Under the required procedure for filing the plans, it fears that if detailed neighborhood proposals are included they could be in a sense "locked in" and control would have passed to a higher levbel of government)).

However, explanations are needed, Glazier noted, because the neighborhoods are expecting "lot and block" treatment in the community plan — which council merely regards as a broad statement of long-term planning objectives and policies.

In other discussion on the draft plan, aldermen agreed to incorporate a section of the supplement dealing with the Inner Harbor into the main document.

The commission had been pointed out by Glazier, who said: "We can't possibly have an Official Community Plan for the city of Victoria without a statement on the Inner Harbor."

Proposals for the printing and general release of the plan will be presented to council next week by Ald. Alf Hood, chairman of the zoning and land-use planning committee.

SPORT FISHING CLOSURE SET

All sports fishing will be prohibited in the tidal waters of the Koksilah and Cowichan rivers starting midnight Monday, a federal fisheries official announced Tuesday.

The closure will extend straight across from a boundary sign on Skinner point in the north to a sign on the south shore of Cowichan Bay.

The closure goes into effect each year to allow spawning salmon to return to the rivers.

Additional information on gear and size restrictions may be obtained through the federal fisheries service and the fish and wildlife branch in Duncan.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

When today's deal was played in a recent team-of-four match, both South declarers arrived at a notrump game contract via the identical sequence of bidding. One of the declarers went down a trick; the other fulfilled his contract.

NORTH
♠ A 4
♡ A Q J 7 4
◇ 7 6 3
♣ 6 5 2

WEST
♠ J 9 7
◇ Q 10 8 2
♣ Q 9 7 3

EAST
♠ Q 8 6 3
♡ K 10 9 6
◇ J 9 4

SOUTH
♠ K 10 5 2
◇ A K 5
♣ A K 8 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of ◇.

Over South's rebid of one spade, North had no perfect bid to make, for his hand called for about a two-and-one-half heart rebid. Both North players chose to make the slight overbid of three hearts.

When the deal was played the first time, East put up the diamond jack on the opening lead, which South won with the king. The deuce of hearts was then led, with dummy's queen being finessed. East made a good play when he allowed the queen to win.

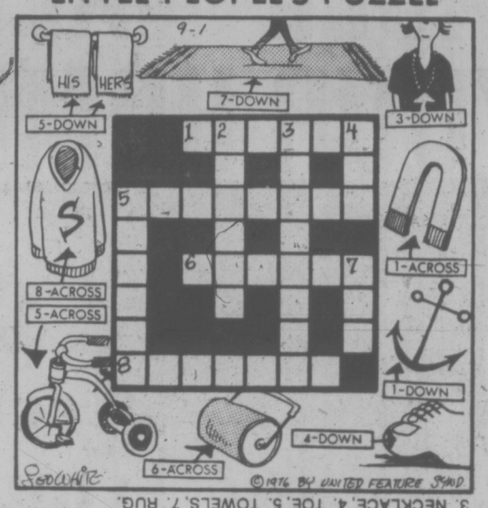

Returning to the South hand via a top club, declarer next led his remaining heart and finessed dummy's jack. East won with his king and played back the diamond nine, which was permitted to win. East then led his remaining diamond, South's ace taking the trick.

Next came a spade to dummy's ace, after which the ace of hearts was cashed, with the fond hope that the six outstanding hearts had been divided 3-3 originally. When this hope failed to materialize, all South could make were eight tricks, two in each suit.

When the deal was replayed, the second West defender also opened a diamond, which was taken by South's king. But, unlike his counterpart, he did not finesse dummy's queen of hearts at trick two, for he perceived that he would have "communication problems" with dummy. Instead he inserted the board's seven-spot, which East won with the nine.

East's return of the diamond nine was permitted to hold the trick, after which another diamond lead was captured by South's ace. Now came South's remaining heart, with dummy's queen being inserted. It made no difference whether East took his king or not, for with the ace of spades still being in dummy, declarer couldn't be prevented from making three heart tricks.

SOLUTION THURSDAY

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

"Bill was right. I did buy too many apples for the kids' party," declared Susan. "I got two for each child invited."

Lucy smiled. "Was that too many? Sounds reasonable to me."

"Sure, but a quarter of the kids didn't come," replied Susan. "Sixteen boys turned up, and the surplus apples provided exactly one extra for each girl."

How many did she buy?

Thanks for idea to W. L. Gentry, Swaffham, England.

Just Too Late Blooming

The hardy outdoor shrubby Hibiscus syriacus is not the easiest to bring to flowering stage in the Victoria area, yet occasionally we see a plant blooming in late September. This late season blooming is the cause of the gardener's difficulty.

In parts of Canada where summer temperatures are higher and nights are warmer, no doubt the shrub flowers before frost.

It is sometimes known as Althaea, or Shrub-althaea, since herbaceous annual and perennial althaeas are also known. Readers from southern Ontario may know and remember the plant under this name.

In a good soil and sunny situation, H. syriacus grows to about six feet.

Pruning in early April is beneficial in producing a more open habit which in turn may help the earlier ripening of the wood.

Thus, slightly earlier flowering may be obtained.

If these shrubs could be persuaded to begin opening their buds before the end of August, there would be a chance of continuing until mid-September, and their popularity would be greatly increased.

The flowers are like those of the tropical hibiscus, though smaller, usually between three to four inches across. They may be either single or double, pure white, or more commonly shades of purple, red, or violet.

Mottling and striping is found in some varieties. The clearer colors are more popular.

The chief need of these althaeas in our coastal gardens is a sunny open spot, yet well protected on the north and east from winter wind, and an elevation which discourages frost in early fall or late spring.

A situation where an early blooming camellia is able to open flowers without being regularly damaged in bud stage, will suit this hibiscus which blooms at the opposite end of the growing season.

I have seen these two shrubs each blooming in side-by-side gardens, and not connected the cause until this moment of writing.

When the shrubs fail to flower as so often happens here it is usually a matter of early frost in September spoiling the buds just when the gardener can see the first sign of color.

Perhaps a light wool cover (an old car rug or afghan) arranged on three stakes over the top, and part way down, would be satisfactory on nights when frost is indicated as being possible before dawn.

But more desirable is to find just the right spot in the garden where the plant may prove its worth without further protection. Any good soil is suitable but as for most shrubs, it needs to be well drained in winter.

Hibiscus produces flowers on new shoots made in spring and grown throughout summer; watering is required as for other shrubs. The lobed, dark green leaves are deciduous, dropping in late fall, after flowering.

Our normal winters are no threat to this hibiscus (or Shrub-althaea) for frost-killed tops are pruned away in spring, encouraging the new growths which bloom in fall.

Winnipeg Beach On the Rebound

WINNIPEG BEACH, Man. (CP) — Fifty years ago this lakeside community was a bustling summer resort town.

Its chief natural assets were the sand along the shore of Lake Winnipeg and its proximity to boomtown Winnipeg 40 miles to the south.

The attractions that brought throngs from the city during the 1920s were the dance-halls, the mile-long roller coaster ride, the boardwalk and pier promenades, and the CPR-owned Empress Hotel, where one dressed for dinner.

The CPR, whose turn-of-the-century president, Sir William Whyte, established the resort in 1901, provided frequent 70-minute train service.

The line was renowned for its "Daddy" specials, the commuter runs, and the "Moonlight" runs bringing city dwellers out for the evening.

The price was 50 cents return but, says today's Winnipeg Beach Mayor A.W.P. Harrison, "It was the highest revenue piece of trackage of the entire CPR line in the 1920s."

With the advent of better highways and more reliable autos after the Second World War, other resort areas began to compete successfully with Winnipeg Beach.

As far back as the Depression a gradual but unmistakable decline set in.

Astutely but, for the resort, ominously, the CPR began moving out.

First it sold its town property, then its boardwalk pier. The Empress Hotel burned down, and was not rebuilt.

The roller coaster ride was allowed to deteriorate.

Finally, on Labor Day, 1960, the CPR ended the train runs.

Today, with an increasing demand for pleasure homes, the town has rebounded, with about 1,700 persons now on the tax roll and, as Mayor Harrison puts it, "a population of between 6,000 and 10,000 on a hot weekend in August."

The Manitoba government shares the mayor's optimism about the tourist potential, and has spent more than $1 million under a federal-provincial Interlake program to develop park facilities on and near the beach.

Ultimately, Mayor Harrison envisages a rebuilt entertainment centre complete with midway and amusement arcades, ferris wheel and merry-go-round.

The initial project, however, revolves around live summer theatre and a variety of other cultural attractions.

National television star Diane Stapley has been performing in the cabaret and in the Summer Arthur Long play It's Never Too Late.

The 300-seat theatre, like the cabaret and the art gallery, are part of a transformed community curling rink constructed largely with volunteer community labor.

The 10-year goal is to establish a cultural centre here that will be on a par with those of Stratford, Niagara-on-the-Lake, and Charlottetown.

There have been mistakes, ranging from lighting arrangements to the choice of a historical drama, Walsh, by Sharon Pollock, as the first dramatic performance instead of something lighter.

But, Mayor Harrison is convinced that he has the right idea in developing special attractions to woo tourists back to his town.

"It's growing like Topsy and we weren't doing anything about it."

Beatlemania Pay Off For Toronto Group

REW—EXSTAR

TORONTO (CP) — Beatlemania. Liverpool, 1963. The Fab Four.

"Haw, it's more like the Flab Four," groaned guitarist Gary O'Connor, pinching a couple of inches of his waistline between thumb and forefinger. He was struggling into his satin Sergeant Pepper costume.

At a recent high school concert the students were whistling, stamping their feet and screaming. They'd paid $3.50 each to hear Liverpool, the Toronto band that makes its living playing Beatle songs.

I Wanna Hold Your Hand, She Loves You, Hard Day's Night, Ticket to Ride, and Hey Jude are among the band's Beatle repertoire. They play 36 Beatle songs in two hours. Nothing but the Beatles.

They dress like the Beatles, they play exactly like the Beatles and they sound like the Beatles. Exactly.

And they owe it all to the continuing popularity of the Beatles, the British band that was discovered in 1963, took over the pop music charts in North America in 1964 and held top spot until they finally broke up in 1969.

Like the band they imitate, Liverpool has four members: O'Connor, 26, Laurie Currie, 28, Brian Meissner, 25, and Malcolm Buchanan, 24.

The group was formed three years ago by Vic Wilson of SRO Productions in Toronto, the same outfit that manages the heavy metal rock band, Rush.

Drummer Currie and bass player Meissner were the first members.

"Vic's partner, Ray Daniels, was the salesman," said Meissner. He already had six weeks' worth of jobs lined up for us while we were still auditioning guys to fill out the band."

There have been changes since then. A year ago, Buchanan and his electronic music-machines were added to fill out the band's sound and give it an authentic Beatles flavor.

Early this month, two of the original members, Rick Pearson and Daniel Moyles, left the group and O'Connor was hired.

"We had five days to practise after Gary (O'Connor) joined us before we played a gig in Orlando, Fla. It worked out it was a little tense in some places," Meissner said.

The real hassle was in rearranging the vocal harmonies. O'Connor's voice is higher than Currie's, so all the harmonies had to be switched around. After three years Currie had more than a little trouble remembering which part he was supposed to be singing.

Liverpool works hard for the $6,000 to $10,000 a week it now can command. They play 49 weeks a year, four to six nights a week.

"Our overhead is so high, we have to keep playing," said Currie. "We own the public address system, the lights, mixer, instruments, truck, everything."

"But we're not in debt," he added. "It's all paid for. This band is run as a business. We pay our bills."

Expenses are heavy for a touring rock 'n' roll band. Three members of the road crew are paid $150 to $160 a week, plus $50 a week for meals, plus hotel-motel accommodation. The equipment truck, management fees, instruments and amplifiers take another big chunk.

Last year Currie, Buchanan and Meissner took home about $13,000 each from their Liverpool earnings.

The group's problems now are to find rehearsal time between one-night stands and to put some original music together for an album.

"There are a lot of musicians around who resent that we do so well with this material, playing the Beatles' songs," said Currie.

"But it's a means to an end," he added. "The kids know us. Maybe they'll buy the record. Maybe with some new, original material we can change direction."

Crammer Classes A Must in Japan

By KOICHI ISHIYAMA

TOKYO (AP) — Half of Japan's junior high school pupils spend their after-school hours going to another school, to learn to pass the tests to advance to the "right" higher schools and eventually to the right job.

Education ministry officials say they don't know how many after-hour schools (juku) there are in Japan because they are "not legally recognized institutions."

A recent poll in a city near here showed 52 per cent of Grade 6, 61 per cent of Grade 7, 53 per cent of Grade 8 and 57 per cent of Grade 9 attend such schools. Two out of 10 junior high school pupils take additional lessons at home from private teachers the survey showed.

Those who rise to the highest positions in Japan's government and business generally come from a small group of elite universities and entering those universities is considered easier for students from prestigious high schools. This makes the "shiken jigoku"—examination hell—a way of life in this nation of 110 million people.

The ordeal is primarily for boys since Japanese business and government still are mainly a man's world.

Harue Yajima, 35, mother of a Grade 5 boy who attends a juku, said: "Though I oppose the competitive examination system, it is how the social framework is set up and I feel pity for my child if he lags behind on the social ladder of success.

Her son, Goro, who has a home tutor besides attending the juku, said, "Since I started going to the juku, my grades improved quite a bit." But, "I just don't have time to play."

Juku sessions are usually two hours, twice a week, with tuition averaging 5,000 yen ($17.50) a month.

"I think the recent prosperity of juku is an inevitable consequence of the Japanese educational system," said Shin Iriye, 53-year-old headmaster of Shingakusha, a well-known juku in Osaka, Japan.

Requirements for entering Iriye's juku include close-cropped hair, a pledge, "I want to get into high school," an initiation fee of 30,000 yen ($100) and 10,000 yen ($33) monthly tuition.

Its program is spartan and thorough. Just before entrance exams, the students are housed in a hotel for last-minute cramming. Iriye takes personal responsibility for training them day and night. Then he charters a plane to take them to the high school they seek to enter.

So far this year, 30 per cent of his students have gained entrance to high schools famous for their high rate of admissions to prestigious universities.

"Some people criticize me, but it is a good investment if you want your children to go to a private university," Iriye said.

CAIMAW Vote Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — Members of the Canadian Association of Industrial, Mechanical and Allied Workers Union will vote Sunday on terms proposed in a new two-year contract with Freightliner of Canada Ltd., in Burnaby. A union spokesman said the tentative agreement provides across-the-board wage increase of $1 an hour, with 55 cents in the first year and 45 cents in the second year. Average rate earned by the 200 workers is currently $7.06 an hour.

HIGH KICK, northern style, is demonstrated by Tom Chicksi, of Inuvik, N.W.T., at the Ontario Science Centre in Toronto during a western Arctic traditional games show. Object of this game is to kick as high as possible with one foot while holding on to the other.

Red Cemetery Too Popular

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Grand tombs and elaborate commemoration of the dead have always been particularly important to Russians but the authorities are concerned that Moscow's most famous cemetery is becoming too great an attraction.

Every day of the week crowds swarm to Novodevichy, outside the walls of the fortress monastery which once guarded the western approaches to the city.

They come to visit the graves of the country's illustrious public figures, generals, party functionaries and "outstanding workers" in the arts and sciences.

As a last resting place for heroes, the tree-lined cemetery beneath the golden-domed monastery ranks second only to a niche in the Kremlin wall, and a pilgrimage there is high on the itinerary of visitors to the capital.

Although the tombs of some of Russia's great literary figures, such as Nikolai Gogol and Anton Chekhov, lie in the old part of the cemetery, the grave which draws the biggest crowd is an austere sculpture with black and white columns surmounted by a bronze head.

It carries the inscription — simple compared with grandiose titles on other stones — "Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev 1894-1971".

The Soviet leader, who was ousted from power in 1964, died in disfavor and although buried in Novodevichy, he is not mentioned in the official guidebooks and the cemetery tours pause there only briefly.

The stark modern monument over the grave was the work of Ernst Neizvestny, a prominent Soviet sculptor and one-time friend of Khrushchev who earlier this year left to live in Switzerland.

The cemetery now is closed every Saturday and Sunday, officially for cleaning, and police guards stand at the gates turning back hopeful sightseers.

Only relatives of people buried there are allowed through after showing special passes.

"It's not our choice, we were told to close it," one official told a Western reporter. "It was the relatives who said they needed some room to visit the graves because the crowds were getting bad."

The official denied rumors that the Khrushchev grave was the real reason for the weekend closure and said the crowds had simply become too large to handle.

The cemetery is the burial-place of an officially atheist nation and the near absence of religious symbols — the occasional cross still is to be found in the new part — gives a strange appearance to the visitor from a non-Communist country.

"The motherland welcomes back her son" expresses the official philosophy of the Soviet burial and the tombstones bear witness to it.

Tourists Find Money's Silent

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Money may talk, but Hertz won't listen. Neither will L'Enfant Plaza Hotel, nor many other places where the traveller who carries only U.S currency will discover that, except with great difficulty, he can't spend his cash unless he has a credit card to back it up.

"We have no problem renting on cash," said a Hertz spokesman. "After all, it's as good as anything else."

But, depending on the city, to rent a Hertz, a cardless customer must have money in the bank, a telephone listed in his name, and a job he has held for several months If he tries to rent the vehicle outside business hours, when his bank and employer cannot be reached, he must leave the driving to someone else.

If Hertz, which is like many other rent-a-car firms, can be convinced that the customer is credit-worthy, cash is fine. However, a cash deposit equal to the estimated amount of the rental — which averages $50 a day — must be made.

Avis has a similar policy, as do many smaller rental firms. "In effect, we're lending out $4,500," said a Hertz spokesman, referring to the cost of the car "We must rent to people who are qualified," he argued.

Like many other hotels, L'Enfant Plaza Hotel also takes credit cards as credit references. If the room reservation was made in advance, a customer may pay cash when he leaves. He may also pay cash in advance. Otherwise, he must show a card "so we have something to go back to" in case of non-payment, according to a hotel executive

"The fact that a guest announces he is going to pay cash still doesn't let us know his credit is good," the spokesman said.

A spokesman at American Express, one of the six major credit cards L'enfant accepts, described the use of the card as a precaution that "keeps you from running away with the bath towels."

He pointed out that credit card requirements worked a hardship on tourists from countries where such cards are not common.

"It's unfriendly. We go overseas and expect them to do anything for us when we present passports," he said

Noting that the U.S. is "the biggest host country in the world," he called the requirement "kind of dopey."

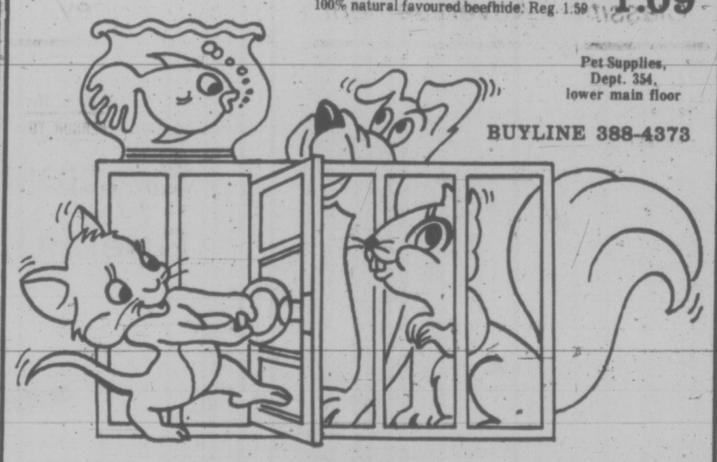

Even for non-travellers, cash may be going out of style. According to the estimate of one real estate company executive, 90 per cent of resident apartment house managers and other on-site rent collectors will not accept cash

"It's not just the inconvenience," he said. "Mainly, it's the exposure. There's a danger to the resident manager."

"You really cannot refuse to accept cash," he said, but added it took "an absolute, adamant tenant" to get payment in currency accepted.

Interior Sizes Now Define Cars

DETROIT (WP) — The U.S. automakers have settled into a state of moderately disgruntled acceptance of the federal government's grouping of cars into classes based on their interior dimensions for purposes of giving consumers fuel economy rankings on new cars.

A spokesman for Ford Motor Co. said of the groupings, "Based on what we know, they appear unrealistic ... there will be a lot of strange bedfellows."

Other responses, offered only on the promise of anonymity, ranged from "silly" to "excessive assumptions" to "inconsistent with the public perception of cars."

The traditional categories for cars have been mini, subcompact, compact, intermediate, full-size and specialty — groupings that evolved over time and were essentially defined by the car makers.

The intent of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act was to group new cars in terms of utility, according to Eric O. Stork, deputy assistant administrator for mobile source air pollution at the Environmental Protection Agency.

Therefore, he ordered his technical staff to group cars into three sizes — small, medium and large — the trade paper, Automotive News, reported.

That would result in putting the Cadillac Eldorado into the same class as the American Motors Pacer, as well as some other anomalies, a prospect that left the auto makers nonplussed.

After extensive discussions involving the auto companies, the EPA and the Federal Energy Administration have essentially come up with five groupings for new cars: two-seaters, sub-compact, compact, intermediate and large.

The industry initially proposed grouping cars by their fuel economy ratings. "I replied there is nothing so profound as a good redundancy," said Stork.

At a later point, the car makers proposed a variety of mathematical mixtures of internal space and outside length, an idea dropped when Stork termed it "irresponsible."

Further, "Congress obviously did not mean for the groupings to be on a basis of 0-60 miles per hour," Stork said.

Exterior length is if anything a measure of disutility," he said.

CHOLERA RAVAGE AFTER QUAKE

HONG KONG (Reuter) — A Hong Kong newspaper published Tuesday what it says is a letter from a resident of the earthquake-devastated Chinese city of Tangshan saying 900,000 people among the city's population of more than one million may have been killed or injured in last month's disaster.

The letter also says Tangshan was ravaged by cholera.

The Ming Pao, a respected independent daily, says the letter was mailed Aug. 14 to the writer's relatives in Hong Kong.

The writer, whom the paper declines to name in case he should get into trouble with Chinese authorities, says cholera was spreading rapidly through Tangshan.

The letter describes in detail the scene at Tangshan, a major industrial city near Peking, after the July 29 earthquake.

"Innumerable corpses and collapsed walls stretch for as far as the eye can see. An endless sea of rubble, streams of people carrying stretchers . . ."

The writer reports that his father and mother had been killed in the devastation, while his aunt and her family had all been evacuated from their Tangshan home.

"Ever since cholera started to spread rapidly, my aunt has not been able to stand it. She says that if she is going to die, she wants to die in her own home."

'Wonder Boy' May Be Fake: Professors

BOMBAY (CP) — India's seven-year-old "wonder boy" may after all be a fake.

This seems to be the tentative conclusion reached by a group of Bangalore University professors about the startling claims advanced on behalf of Sai Krishna.

According to his followers, Sai is gifted with miraculous powers. By a simple wave of his hand, he is said to have produced things ranging from bottles of honey to bank notes.

Sai lives in the small town of Pandavapura, about 100 miles from Bangalore, capital of India's southern state of Karnataka.

For the last four years thousands of people have been visiting Pandavapura to have a glimpse of the miracle-working boy. Several newspapers and magazines have written extensively about his exploits. But few journalists have openly questioned the veracity of the claims.

Said one Bangalore journalist, "I wanted to investigate the boy's claims but my editor decided that we should not offend the sentiments of his followers."

It is generally believed that some powerful local politicians were instrumental in blocking an objective inquiry into the miracle claims.

But three professors of Bangalore University decided to find things out for themselves. They wrote to Sai's father, 56-year-old Vishakantish Shettappa, a school teacher, for permission to make a scientific investigation.

When Shettappa did not bother to reply despite repeated reminders, the professors drove to the town and gatecrashed a prayer meeting at which Sai was expected to perform some of his reputed miracles.

"Nothing really happened. We saw no miracles," reported Prof. Dharma Lingam, head of the university group.

But Sai's followers say no miracles were performed on that day because of "the intrusion of skeptical outsiders."

Some Bangalore lawyers have asked the state government to file a case of cheating against Sai's parents.

"The whole thing is a gigantic hoax," said one of the lawyers.

Viking Suffering From Mystery Gas

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Viking 1 lander, about to lose centre stage on Mars to its arriving sister, Viking 2, has notified scientists that unexplained gas activity is still occurring inside its life-search laboratory.

Dr. Harold Klein, the project's head biologist, said Tuesday that latest reports radioed from Mars showed continuing signs of carbon dioxide in an experiment that detects gases issuing from a soil sample.

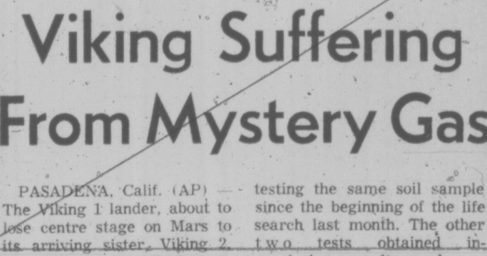

He said it will be Friday — the day Viking 2 lands on the other side of Mars — before the data can be interpreted.

The test Klein mentioned is the only one of three biology experiments that has been testing the same soil sample since the beginning of the life search last month. The other two tests obtained inconclusive results and are being repeated with new samples.

The long-running gas-exchange experiment involves feeding nutrients to a bit of soil to see whether any gases are exchanged between it and the surrounding atmosphere. Earlier, Klein reported that some carbon dioxide and a small amount of nitrogen was issuing from the sample. He said Tuesday that that trend is continuing.

He said biologists have not yet had time to discuss what the latest findings might indicate

City Loses Case On Voter Forms

B.C. Supreme Court Judge J. A. Macdonald today ordered Victoria city clerk Morran Waller to supply voter registration applications to those who request them.

The judge's decision followed an application for such a court order by the Fairfield Community Association, after Waller last month refused to supply the forms in bulk to the association.

Counsel T. P. O'Grady representing Waller argued that on the face of it the Municipal Act required the clerk to provide an unlimited number of forms to anyone who asked, but this was "manifestly unreasonable" and the clerk must be governed by common sense.

He suggested the wording of the act was careless and that issuing a writ of mandamus was for special situations and not justified in this case.

The association represented by John Brewin and Bob Milne argued that there was a degree of urgency. While the registration list closed Tuesday, applications submitted this month can be approved by a court of revision in time to qualify voters for the November municipal election.

The dispute arose two weeks ago when FCA president Sid Langfelt charged that Waller was violating the act in denying the association cards to distribute among its members.

Langfelt stressed that section 38 of the act requires municipal clerks to furnish applications, plural.

Crisis Building Talks

Labor Minister Allan Williams was holding crisis talks in Vancouver today with representatives of the Construction Labor Relations Association and building trade unions are the threat of a new construction tie-up.

A total lock-out of the unions is planned by CLRA for 4 p.m. Friday and a spokesman for the cement masons union said Tuesday that if the lock-out goes into effect the union will tear up its recently-signed contract with the association.

Frank Stevens said another work stoppage would make a one-year contract ridiculous and if the stoppage occurs the masons will seek a new contract covering 18 months and make additional demands retroactive to the end of April.

Stevens also said the cement masons will not sign a one-year pact if any of the other trade unions take any reciprocal action.

Chuck McVeigh, association president, said CLRA decided to take the lock-out action because of the strike by members of the plumbers.

AUGUST ALL WET

No, it wasn't an illusion. August was in all respects a lousy month.

But the Victoria weather office confirmed today that masochistic Victorians at least have a record to boast of (cry about?) for all that suffering.

There was less sunshine during the month than any August since records were first kept 85 years ago.

At the Gonzales observation station, where records go back to 1891, the previous dullest August was in 1975 when 191.6 hours of sunshine were recorded.

But in this record-breaking Olympic year we made that record look silly with a mere 174.6 hours — or 11.7 hours below the average August sunshine tally of 286.3 hours.

At Victoria International Airport, where records don't go back nearly so far, the figure was even lower: a paltry 148.1 hours.

It was also a cool month, with a mean temperature of only 14.9 degrees Celsius compared to the normal 16.1 for August. But August of 1973 was cooler still, with a mean temperature of only 14.5 degrees.

Extreme temperatures last month were a high of 24.5 on the 12th and a low of 8.2 on the 21st.

Then, of course, there was the rain. The Victoria area received 46 millimetres last month. The average August rainfall is 25.1 millimetres.

What the weathermen call "measurable precipitation" occured on twice as many days as usual — 12 instead of six.

In summary, then, it was colder, wetter and a whole lot duller than usual.

But it wasn't all bad.

"August was less windy than usual," said the spokesman, consolingly.

AIR FARES UP

OTTAWA (CP) — General domestic air fare increases of up to eight per cent took effect today on Air Canada and CP Air routes. The increases, second this year and fifth in three years, were judged "fair and reasonable" by the Canadian transport commission. They average 4.5 per cent on economy tickets.

BARRETT BARES STUDY

Major Ferry Report Ignored by Socreds

By LIZ HUGHES
Times Staff

A major report on B.C. Ferries rates and policies by a provincial government committee suggested a 50 per cent ferry fare hike, Opposition leader Dave Barrett said today.

The fares were actually increased 100 per cent June 1.

Barrett today released the report compiled by the Environment and Land-Use Committee, and said it was scandalous that such a report was ignored and kept secret by the Bennett government.

The report was commissioned in early 1975 by the NDP government, Barrett said, was completed in January, 1976, and delivered to a ferries' steering committee April 8.

The Social Credit government, instead of using the ELUC report as a basis for rate increases, used a report by Price Waterhouse Associates, a management consultant firm, which took only 10 days to complete, Barrett said.

Price Waterhouse itself complained in a confidential letter to Ferries' general manager Charles Gallagher that the time allotted for the report was insufficient.

The letter to Gallagher says: "This very tight time constraint (Jan. 6 to Jan. 15) restricted the scope of our review to an examination of major items contained in the 1976-77 estimates already prepared by B.C. Ferries."

The letter also complained that the study was constrained by "the inability to undertake detailed analysis and the lack of meaningful statistical data."

Barrett said the ELUC report, which took a year to complete, proposed a program and rates "completely contrary to the steps actually taken by the provincial government."

If the Social Credit government had followed the ELUC recommendations, Barrett said, the ferries policy would now include:

—Rate increases held to 50 per cent;

—A length measuring system so large cars would pay more tha small cars;

—A seasonal fare structure with higher rates in the summer and lower rates offseason;

—Lower rates for foot and bus passengers;

—Books of tickets available

PEN DRAMA LASTS 10 MINUTES

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The latest hostage drama at the B.C. Penitentiary lasted only 10 minutes Tuesday night.

It began about 8:30 when Richard Alexander, serving a two-year sentence for breaking and entering grabbed a guard who has not been identified and held him at knifepoint.

About 10 minutes later, another guard, John Lacusta managed to grab Alexander's hand and disarm him.

In the ensuing struggle Alexander suffered cuts and bruises, according to pen spokesman, Jack Stewart.

He was removed to the super-maximum-security wing of the penitentiary after the incident.

Reason for the incident has not been revealed.

"He had no time to issue any demands or give his reasons," Stewart said.

Northland Lays Off 150 Men

VANCOUVER (CP) — Northland Navigation Tuesday served notice that the company intends to lay off 150 employees Oct. 31 because of the federal government's recent withdrawal of the coastal shipping subsidy.

The employees affected are officers and crew members of the Northland Prince, the Skeena Prince and the Island Prince, three Northland vessels currently serving remote British Columbia coastal communities on the mainland.

The four unions involved — the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers, Local 400; Seafarers International Union; Canadian Merchant Service Guild and International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, Local 514 — were notified.

Kissinger Urges Talks, Not War, for Africa

By MURREY MARDER
Washington Post

PHILADELPHIA — U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told the leaders of black Africa Tuesday that they must not let the opportunity for resolving Africa's injustices slip away by abandoning negotiations and choosing violence.

"Violence will only escalate bloodshed and lengthen, rather than shorten, the road to their goal," he warned.

This admonition came as some of Africa's most important moderate black leaders, notably Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda, are reported to have despaired of the prospects that diplomacy will achieve their goal of black majority rule throughout southern Africa.

Kissinger said he may make the first visit by U.S. secretary of state to South Africa, if his talks with South African Prime Minister John Vorster in Zurich this weekend warrant it, and if Africa's black leaders concur.

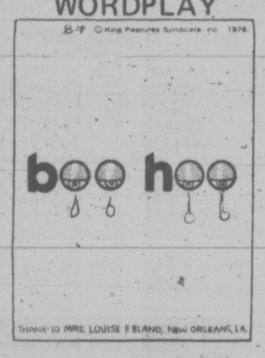

To emphasize that the support of Africa's black leaders is crucial to his diplomacy, Kissinger stressed at a news conference here that a trip to South Afrira would come only after he visits black Africa and would take place "in the closest co-operation and with the full support of black Africa or it will not be made."

In an earlier luncheon speech before a predominantly black audience, Kissinger acknowledged the pitfalls on all sides of his latest diplomatic mission to bridge the black-white gulf in Africa before time runs out.

At the same time, he sought to convince his audience here, and in Africa, that the time is ripe for diplomacy and the prospects are good, even though he acknowledged "there is no guarantee that our current diplomatic effort will succeed. It would be naive to suggest that a peaceful solution to issues so suffused by passions is inevitable."

Kissinger claimed that "unmistakable progress has been made" since he launched the Ford administration's new activist policy for Africa in that continent last April.

LUANDA — Namibian refugees in Angola tell of the destruction of villages and crops in the border area by South African forces to clear a militarized no-man's land.

The troops and civilian-driven bulldozers are leveling houses and burning or plowing up crops in the densely populated border zone, the refugees say.

People who volunteered for resettlement from the zone earlier this year were paid, but this compensation has ceased as the clearing operation has come to involve the enrire border area. Eviction is now by force, it is reported here.

A RIGHT ROYAL CAN OF WORMS

CALGARY (CP) — Queen Elizabeth would be happy to use a less expensive toilet than the $50,000 facility planned for her use during the 1978 commonwealth games in Edmonton, a Canadian monarchist said Tuesday.

John Aimers, chairman of the Monarchist League of Canada, said in a speech here that the Queen "would be the last person" to expect the elaborate royal flusher being planned for the games.

"That toilet reflects the over-enthusiasm of some the people preparing for the visit, rather than the Queen's personal desire," Aimers said.

"This is a question the press has dug up to detract from the serious purpose of her visit and to ridicule the Crown."

Aimers also said he believes Canadians have moved from questioning the survival of the monarchy to grappling with its role in Canada in the 1970's.

FEUD IN TAHSIS

TAHSIS — A family feud was at the bottom of a weekend riot which resulted in one man being shot in the leg, another in hospital in Victoria with head injuries, and numerous cases of cuts and bruises.

RCMP are considering numerous charges following the riot which involved two groups fighting with machetes, knives, axes, a rifle and lengths of lumber.

The riot started in a trailer park as the result of a deep-rooted family feud between two family groups, each consisting of about 10 members.

It ended when two shots were fired from an unknown source. RCMP said that by that time, the rioters were exhausted and apparently unable to continue.

Police moved in to clear up and cart the participants off to hospital.

Juvenile Lock-Ups Promised

The Social Credit government is committed to providin secure facilities for juvenile delinquents like the 13-year-old boy brought to Victoria from Nanaimo Tuesday, Attorney-General Garde Gardom said today.

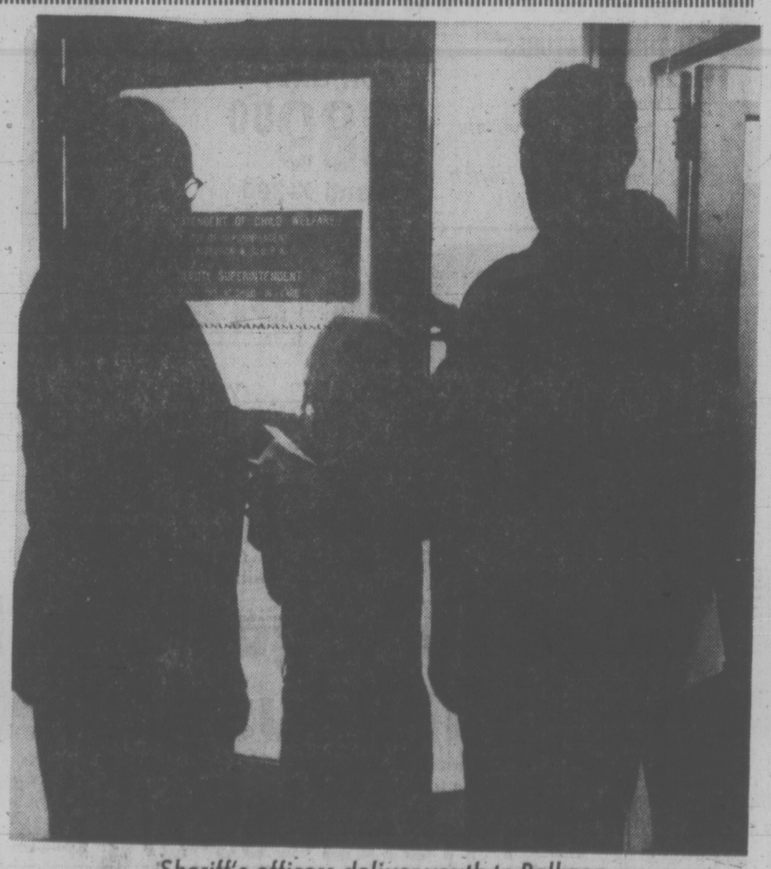

Gardom said he would be taking recommendations contained in a report on juvenile detention facilities to cabinet shortly and expected action quickly.

The boy was delivered by sheriffs' deputies to Superintendent of Child Welfare Vic Belknap Tuesday.

Nanaimo Juvenile Court Judge Stanley Wardill ordered Monday that the boy, charged with several break-ins and theft of a car, be delivered to Belknap because he was the boy's legal guardian.

In his ruling, the judge complained of the lack of secure facilities for repeating juvenile delinquents.

Gardom said today such facilities were necessary because now the only response of the judicial system to hard core delinquents is to transfer them to adult court.

Parents Hunt Child Molesters

LANGLEY (CP) — About 200 parents in this city and the surrounding township 40 miles southeast of Vancouver have volunteered to start one of the most intensive programs in British Columbia to prevent child molesting.

"Wherever the children go, they will be watched — parks, playgrounds, to and from school, and in the schoolyards," RCMP Constable Rick Scott, the man who organized the program, said Tuesday.

"Langley hasn't had any incidents of child molestings, but the number of reports of suspicious activities has increased," he said.

"I thikn people are generally concerned about the number of sex-related crimes in the Lower Mainland — the missing girl in Port Moody, the young girl found murdered in Matsqui, the young girl sexually assaulted and murdered in Mission. Those have all happened this year."

Constable Scott said he was confident more people will join once school begins.

"There's been a lot of apathy and a lot of enthusiasm so far. I guess nothing has come close to home yet so people don't take such a great interest in it."

Langley, including both city and township, has a population of over 45,000.

Freeway entrances into the municipality, the 29 elementary school areas, and other selected points will have signs to warn the public that the program is in operation.

Patrollers have been organized to watch all the day-to-day activities of the children. Co-ordinators have been chosen for each of the school districts so that each patroller only has to work one to two hours each week.

Spectators sit—and lie—in studied silence as cricket action unfolds on St. Michael's University School pitch.

Charm of Cricket? Golden Silence

max low

Cricket is silence.

Silence broken by the thud of a wooden bat clouting a hard cork-and-leather ball; silence broken by the gentlemanly handclapping of the fans; silence broken by the occasional voice asking the umpire: "How's that?"

But mostly, if you're lucky enough to sit there in the warm sun, it's a kind of timeless silence. The bowlers bowl, the batsmen bat and the fielders scamper after the ball in a quiet, refined way. But no one is really in a hurry and it seems to go on forever.

In the hustle and bustle of life today in North America, nothing seems more out of place than this outdated, outmoded game that is believed to have first been played in England in the 14th century.

Yet, perhaps it is this very contradiction of what we expect to see that is the charm of cricket. And though many of us struggle to understand why, some do find it charming.

Every weekend in the summer you'll see them, maybe a handful, maybe a hundred, at Beacon Hill or Windsor Park or at the picturesque grounds at St. Michael's University School.

"Oh, no!" says George Crookston in a horrified tone. "I don't find it slow. I could sit here all day." And he does, too.

George is typical of many fans here. He was born in England where he "had to" play cricket at school, lives near St. Michael's and has no favorite team. But he religiously turns out to experience the great feeling that is a part of the game he loves.

"To a cricketer, the sound of bat on ball is very pleasing," George explains, taking his eye from the field for a moment. "I suppose it's because I was brought up with it, but it's my favorite game to watch. I enjoy the whole spectacle of the game, the peace and quiet of it. And, of course, it can be pretty exciting, too."

If you want to take a look at this quaint game that still captivates millions in many countries, this is a good week to do it.

On Saturday and Sunday, for the first time ever, the Canadian cricket club championship for the John Ross Robertson Trophy is being played in Western Canada. Reigning B.C. champion Alcos of Victoria takes on Toronto Cricket Club in the two-day match at Beacon Hill Park.

Starting times are 11:30 a.m. Saturday, 12:30 p.m. Sunday and if you can't make it on either of those days, you can get a look at the Toronto side in action Friday in a warmup match against Victoria and District Cricket Association President Dr. Dave Philip's XI. That one's also at Beacon Hill and it starts at 1:30 p.m.

But don't try too hard to understand it.

In the World Book encyclopedia, Australia's most famous batsman, Sir Donald Bradman, takes almost five pages to explain the game of cricket. And really, all he touches on are the rules and the history and the strange terms that have long intrigued non-cricketers terms like bowling a maiden over, and strange-sounding fielding positions like fine leg, long-on, long-off, gully, square leg and backward short-leg, slips, and, of course, the all-time favorites silly mid-on and silly mid-off.

But to cricketers, this is all very basic and doesn't come near the real meaning of the game they love so dearly. Indeed, I wouldn't dream of trying to explain it.

A wise old gentleman of 85, who confesses he's been watching cricket at St. Michael's since 1939, told me it's a game you can't eplain.

"I've tried to explain it to Americans," said the oldtimer, who preferred to remain anonymous. "But unless you've been brought up with it, then it means nothing but a boring pastime. The Americans come along and they try to superimpose baseball on it. Well, that's a big insult to an old cricketer. The finer points of this game are kind of like the Welsh language — it's the little things that matter."

The only cricket-watcher I found with a Canadian accent was Cy Gibson and he was born in Yorkshire and brought to Canada as a small boy. He has never played the game himself but says his dad was a village cricketer and told him about the game. Though Cy has been following cricket for some years, he admits there are still a few things he doesn't understand.

"Sometimes it can be blessed boring, but I like it if you get a couple of good batters in there and they bash the ball about," I say, old chap, that should be batsmen, you know. Can't have those foreign words creeping in, can we?

Cy admits with a grin that he isn't the most ardent of fans.

"I never can stick through a whole game," he says. "I usually come and see one side bat and then I go home and I read in the paper what happened."

But no matter how long it lasts, the really faithful stay on.

"There are 101 little things to look for," my oldtimer explains, "little things that don't mean anything to anybody who hasn't been soaked in cricket. One thing that you admire is to see somebody do something better than you might have done it. And that's what glues the old cricketer to the modern game."

And the old gentleman goes on watching and he smiles, knowing that I don't really understand.

"You know, in Britain in the old days, cricket was regarded at school as part of your training in fair play," he says politely. "It is still the cleanest game in the world.

"There is one thing that is particularly applicable to cricket and that is nobody ever argues with the umpire.

"In every other game they argue with the referee and they hurl insults at him. But never in this game. It's a absolute gentleman's agreement. No one would argue with an umpire. I mean, it's just not cricket."

Fee Hike Likely At UVic

By KIT COLLINS
Times Staff

University students in B.C. are probably facing a tuition fee hike next year.

A letter from University of Victoria president Dr. Howard Petch to students council and the graduate student society says "budget restrictions will likely be so drastic" next year as to impair the academic program unless the university finds more money from students.

"In this context, it will be necessary for us to examine the feasibility of increased tuition fees effective July 1, 1977, to offset loss of provincial funds."

The basic tuition fee at UVic is $428. The last increase was in 1965 when fees went up $56. The real cost of a two-semester academic year per student is about $3,800.

UVic's fees are in line with those at the province's other two campuses, UBC and Simon Fraser, and Petch said Tuesday he would like to see an identical fee structure maintained.

Petch said representatives from the three universities met with Education Minister Pat McGeer July 30 to discuss mutual financial problems.

UVic, he said, was given a special operating grant of $1,113,450 over regular provincial funds to offset this year's salary commitments, and Petch asked McGeer if it would be repeated next year. The answer was no.

"As things stand now, we'll be entering the 1977-78 academic year with a deficit of that amount," said Petch.

Petch said UVic officials will start discussions in mid-September on a fee increase.

He said he wrote the letter to the two student societies to warn them and give them time to provide input.

His letter apologizes for the upcoming fee hike "at a time when other costs are rising rapidly" and opportunities for summer employment are bleak.

'Trolley' Is Back On Track

Former NDP MLA Jim Gorst will soon be able to invite tourists to climb aboard his not-quite-authentic "trolley" for a tour of the city's sights and attractions.

Victoria city council agreed Tuesday to issue a trades licence to Marguerite Tours, Ltd., the firm established by Gorst and his partner Gordon Dowding, who was the Speaker of the legislature during the NDP's administration.

Marguerite Tours will have to share curbside space on the Causeway with the present operators (bus firms owned by the provincial government) — and on an amicable basis.

Aldermen warned several months ago that if there is any outbreak of "warfare" between the companies they could all be faced with banishment from the area.

On Mayor Mike Young's suggestion, council also decreed Tuesday that motorized tour vehicles will be banned from Belleville between Government and Menzies.

Young said he didn't want to see a potentially hazardous intermingling of buses and the horse-drawn Tally-Ho wagons.

New Mail Rates Draw No Beefs

It was business as usual, with no complaints at the main post office on Government today in spite of the new 10-cent rate for stamps for all Canadian mail.

"There's nothing out of the normal," said acting postmaster Marvin Glover, "People appear to be aware that the rates have been low for a long time."

There was no rush to buy two-cent stamps to make up the difference between the old and new rates.

Employer Blameless In Death

A coroner's jury Tuesday ruled the owner of a tree service firm was not to blame in the Aug. 12 death of a 17-year-old employee killed by a falling alder.

The jury of six men said William Eugene Morgan was at fault for straying into the area where his employer, Donald Cowie, 49, of Sidney was felling the tree.

Morgan was killed instantly. Death was attributed to shock and hemorrhaging from multiple fractures and internal injuries.

The jury was told by Michael Severn, an inspector supervisor with the Workers' Compensation Board, that Cowie had failed to provide proper instructions on falling regulations, had failed to provide a hard hat, and had not made proper side-cuts and under-cuts in the alder.

Heating Oil Hike Hits Home Owners Hardest

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The gasoline prices catch the headlines but it will be the heating oil bill that will hit many Victorians hardest in the wallet, according to a survey by the Times today.

Companies raised the price of furnace oil Tuesday and the result will be an extra $50 a year in heating costs based on an average annual consumption of just over 800 gallons of furnace oil per year.

Meanwhile, the typical Victoria car will use about $27 more gasoline per year as a result of the new round of increases.

This estimate is based on the typical Victoria car being the largest of the smaller vehicles, the Dart, Toyota Corona or Maverick.

"People are really going to notice the increase in furnace oil on the next delivery," says Bill Smith, a Victoria retailer for Imperial Oil, which increased its furnace oil rate 6.3 cents Tuesday.

Smith said an average delivery is in the range of 180 to 200 gallons and this will produce a bill of $96, up $12 from the previous bill.

"That's a lot of money to have to pay at one time. The customers have our sympathy but there is nothing anyone can do, except keep the thermostat a bit lower and try to conserve fuel."

By contrast, the motorist will find he is paying about six cents per gallon more when he fills up with gasoline. It is a smaller jolt at each stop and over a full year should come to less than $30 for those driving smaller cars.

"People driving sub-compacts and getting 35 or 40 miles to the gallon will hardly notice the gasoline price increase at all," he said.

Meanwhile, oil companies raised their furnace fuel by varying amounts in Victoria but the increases will range from $45 to $50 more per year. Most Victoria homes rely on oil for heating.

R. W. Elston, general manager for the district office of the B.C. Automobile Association, said Victoria drivers should fare better than others in B.C. from the gas price increases.

"Cars tend to be smaller here and mileage is lower than on the lower mainland or in the interior. I think this increase will encourage even more Victorians to buy smaller cars."

Elston said that while Victorians will escape the brunt of the gas increases because few of them drive Buicks or Cadillacs, motorists as a group continue to be the highest taxed group in the nation. Taxes make up a large portion of the price of gasoline and, while oil prices will continue to rise, drivers should not be expected to carry such a heavy tax burden in future years.

Gasoline prices rose in an inconsistent pattern across the Victoria area today as companies implemented their allowed increases of 5.7 cents per gallon.

Imperial Oil increased its price 5.6 cents but in addition removed a subsidy of 1.7 cents per gallon, effectively pushing the price up 7.3 cents for regular gas and up 7.4 cents for premium gas.

Some gasoline retailers complained to the regional Anti-Inflation Board office that the increases in some cases exceeded the AIB guidlines and a clarification was awaited from Ottawa.

The price increases authorized by Ottawa includes the 3.5 cents to reflect the increase in crude oil plus about 2.2 cents previously authorized but blocked by a provincial freeze, which has expired.

ESCAPER NABBED AT HOTEL

A 38-year-old man who went missing from Snowden corrections camp near Campbell River June 9 was arrested at 4 a.m. today in a room in the Douglas Hotel.

Victoria police spokesman said William Kerneth Astrope will be returned to Campbell River where he faces a charge of being unlawfully at large.

Q. During the Olympic Games, I didn't hear any athletes called Israelis. Did they compete? Also, how did Princess Anne do?

A. Israeli athletes were among contestants at the Olympics but their small contingent was unable to win any medals. Trouble with her spirited horse, Goodwill, cost Princess Anne points in the team dressage event and her points total was fourth among members of the third-place British team. In cross-country equestrian competition, Princess Anne was shaken up in a tumble at one of the jumps but finished the event.

Q. Is there any accurate count of the number killed in the Battle of Iwo Jima in the Second World War? B.L.

A. The 1945 battle for the Northwest Pacific isle, which is only eight square miles, claimed 6,000 men, more than 5,800 of them from the Third, Fourth and Fifth U.S. Marine divisions.

IMPORTING LUMBER from Portland seems strange in this lumber-exporting province but an American subcontractor working on the provincial government office complex at Broughton and Blanshard gulped at the price of B.C. wood and decided it would be cheaper to bring in used lumber from the U.S. to build concrete forms, despite trucking costs and duty charges. The wood will be dismantled after concrete is poured and will be trucked back to the U.S. (Bill Halkett photo)

PARTY CRASH ENDS IN JAIL

Two adults and a juvenile were expected to appear in court today facing charges in connection with a disturbance at a Saanich home Tuesday night where 40 to 50 youths attmepted to crash a party.

Police said a juvenile boy was holding a party at his parents home at 4513 Tanglewood and had invited five guests. At about 11:45 p.m. a crowd of youths began to gather on the front lawn.

Several neighbors called police reporting an unruly mob of youths were shouting, swearing and breaking bottles on the road.

Twelve officers from Victoria and Saanich police departments rushed to the scene. As they were trying to disperse the gathering a fight broke out between two youths.

Police interceded and when other youths tried to rescue their friends, a melee erupted. It ended abruptly when police started making arrests.

ROSLYN ASKS MORE

Victoria city council was asked Tuesday to authorize a further payment of $2,600 to complete the restoration of a city-owned heritage building on which, actual costs incurred to date are already double the original estimate.

The recommendation came with some reluctance from council's central area development committee, whose members appeared sceptical that this really would be the final payment on the rehabilitation of Roslyn House in Victoria West.

It was ex-alderman Sam Bawlf who first persuaded council to tackle the job at an estimated cost of $13,000.

Victoria has already shelled out $26,000, the most recent payment of $2,500 being for roof repairs.

Paul Condon, the resident caretaker supervising the work with student help, now estimates that another $2,600 is needed to complete a number of decorations, plumbing and repair jobs.

City Loses Case On Voter Forms

B.C. Supreme Court Judge J. A. Macdonald today ordered Victoria city clerk Morran Waller to supply voter registration applications to those who request them.

The judge's decision followed an application for such a court order by the Fairfield Community Association, after Waller last month refused to supply the forms in bulk to the association.

Counsel T. P. O'Grady representing Waller argued that on the face of it the Municipal Act required the clerk to provide an unlimited number of forms to anyone who asked, but this was "manifestly unreasonable" and the clerk must be governed by common sense.

He suggested the wording of the act was careless and that issuing a writ of mandamus was for special situations and not justified in this case.

The association represented by John Brewin and Bob Milne argued that there was a degree of urgency. While the registration list closed Tuesday, applications submitted this month can be approved by a court of revision in time to qualify voters for the November municipal election.

The dispute arose two weeks ago when FCA president Sid Langfelt charged that Waller was violating the act in denying the association cards to distribute among its members.

Langfelt stressed that section 38 of the act requires municipal clerks to furnish applications, plural.

Crisis Building Talks

Labor Minister Allan Williams was holding crisis talks in Vancouver today with representatives of the Construction Labor Relations Association and building trade unions are the threat of a new construction tie-up.

A total lock-out of the unions is planned by CLRA for 4 p.m. Friday and a spokesman for the cement masons union said Tuesday that if the lock-out goes into effect the union will tear up its recently-signed contract with the association.

Frank Stevens said another work stoppage would make a one-year contract ridiculous and if the stoppage occurs the masons will seek a new contract covering 18 months and make additional demands retroactive to the end of April.

Stevens also said the cement masons will not sign a one-year pact if any of the other trade unions take any reciprocal action.

Chuck McVeigh, association president, said CLRA decided to take the lock-out action because of the strike by members of the plumbers.

AUGUST ALL WET

No, it wasn't an illusion. August was in all respects a lousy month.

But the Victoria weather office confirmed today that masochistic Victorians at least have a record to boast of (cry about?) for all that suffering.

There was less sunshine during the month than any August since records were first kept 85 years ago.

At the Gonzales observation station, where records go back to 1891, the previous dullest August was in 1975 when 191.6 hours of sunshine were recorded.

But in this record-breaking Olympic year we made that record look silly with a mere 174.6 hours — or 111.7 hours below the average August sunshine tally of 286.3 hours.

At Victoria International Airport, where records don't go back nearly so far, the figure was even lower: a paltry 148.1 hours.

It was also a cool month, with a mean temperature of only 14.9 degrees Celsius compared to the normal 16.1 for August. But August of 1973 was cooler still, with a mean temperature of only 14.5 degrees.

Extreme temperatures last month were a high of 24.5 on the 12th and a low of 8.2 on the 21st.

Then, of course, there was the rain. The Victoria area received 46 millimetres last month. The average August rainfall is 25.1 millimetres.

What the weathermen call "measurable precipitation" occured on twice as many days as usual — 12 instead of six.

In summary, then, it was colder, wetter and a whole lot duller than usual.

But it wasn't all bad.

"August was less windy than usual," said the spokesman, consolingly.

AIR FARES UP

OTTAWA (CP) — General domestic air fare increases of up to eight per cent took effect today on Air Canada and CP Air routes. The increases, second this year and fifth in three years, were judged "fair and reasonable" by the Canadian transport commission. They average 4.5 per cent on economy tickets.

Kissinger Urges Talks, Not War, for Africa

By MURREY MARDER
Washington Post

PHILADELPHIA — U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told the leaders of black Africa Tuesday that they must not let the opportunity for resolving Africa's injustices slip away by abandoning negotiations and choosing violence.

"Violence will only escalate bloodshed and lengthen, rather than shorten, the road to their goal," he warned.

This admonition came as some of Africa's most important moderate black leaders, notably Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda, are reported to have despaired of the prospects that diplomacy will achieve their goal of black majority rule throughout southern Africa.

Kissinger said he may make the first visit by U.S. secretary of state to South Africa, if his talks with South African Prime Minister John Vorster in Zurich this weekend warrant it, and if Africa's black leaders concur.

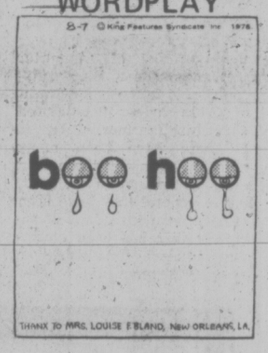

To emphasize that the support of Africa's black leaders is crucial to his diplomacy, Kissinger stressed at a news conference here that a trip to south Africa would come only after he visits black Africa and would take place "in the closest co-operation and with the full support of black Africa or it will not be made."

In an earlier luncheon speech before a predominantly black audience, Kissinger acknowledged the pitfalls on all sides of his latest diplomatic mission to bridge the black-white gulf in Africa before time runs out.

At the same time, he sought to convince his audience here, and in Africa, that the time is ripe for diplomacy and the prospects are good, even though he acknowledged "there is no guarantee that our current diplomatic effort will succeed. It would be naive to suggest that a peaceful solution to issues so suffused by passions is inevitable."

Kissinger claimed that "unmistakable progress has been made" since he launched the Ford administration's new activist policy for Africa in that continent last April.

BARRETT BARES STUDY

Major Ferry Report Ignored by Socreds

By LIZ HUGHES
Times Staff

A major report on B.C. Ferries rates and policies by a provincial government committee suggested a 50 per cent ferry fare hike, Opposition leader Dave Barrett said today.

The fares were actually increased 100 per cent June 1.

Barrett today released the report compiled by the Environment and Land-Use Committee, and said it was scandalous that such a report was ignored and kept secret by the Bennett government.

The report was commissioned in early 1975 by the NDP government, Barrett said, was completed in January, 1976, and delivered to a ferries' steering committee April 8.

The Social Credit government, instead of using the ELUC report as a basis for rate increases, used a report by Price Waterhouse Associates, a management consultant firm, which took only 10 days to complete, Barrett said.

Price Waterhouse itself complained in a confidential letter to Ferries' general manager Charles Gallagher that the time allotted for the report was insufficient.

The letter to Gallagher says: "This very tight time constraint (Jan. 6 to Jan. 15) restricted the scope of our review to an examination of major items contained in the 1976-77 estimates already prepared by B.C. Ferries."

The letter also complained that the study was constrained by "the inability to undertake detailed analysis and the lack of meaningful statistical data."

Barrett said the ELUC report, which took a year to complete, proposed a program and rates "completely contrary to the steps actually taken by the provincial government."

If the Social Credit government had followed the ELUC recommendations, Barrett said, the ferries policy would now include:

—Rate increases held to 50 per cent;

—A length measuring system so large cars would pay more than small cars;

—A seasonal fare structure with higher rates in the summer and lower rates offseason;

—Lower rates for foot and bus passengers;

—Books of tickets available

PEN DRAMA LASTS 10 MINUTES

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The latest hostage drama at the B.C. Penitentiary lasted only 10 minutes Tuesday night.

It began about 8:30 when Richard Alexander, serving a two-year sentence for breaking and entering grabbed a guard who has not been identified and held him at knifepoint.

About 10 minutes later, another guard, John Lacusta, managed to grab Alexander's hand and disarm him.

In the ensuing struggle Alexander suffered cuts and bruises, according to pen spokesman Jack Stewart.

He was removed to the super-maximum-security wing of the penitentiary after the incident.

Reason for the incident has not been revealed.

"He had no time to issue any demands or give his reasons," Stewart said.

Northland Lays Off 150 Men

VANCOUVER (CP) — Northland Navigation Tuesday served notice that the company intends to lay off 150 employees Oct. 31 because of the federal government's recent withdrawal of the coastal shipping subsidy.

The employees affected are officers and crew members of the Northland Prince, the Skeena Prince and the Island Prince, three Northland vessels currently serving remote British Columbia coastal communities on the mainland.

The four unions involved — the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers, Local 400; Seafarers International Union; Canadian Merchant Service Guild; and International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, Local 514 — were notified.

S. Africa Razes Border

LUANDA — Namibian refugees in Angola tell of the destruction of villages and crops in the border area by South African forces to clear a militarized no-man's land.

The troops and civilian-driven bulldozers are leveling houses and burning or plowing up crops in the densely populated border zone, the refugees say.

People who volunteered for resettlement from the zone earlier this year were paid, but this compensation has ceased as the clearing operation has come to involve the enrire border area. Eviction is now by force, it is reported here.

A RIGHT ROYAL CAN OF WORMS

CALGARY (CP) — Queen Elizabeth would be happy to use a less expensive toilet than the $50,000 facility planned for her use during the 1978 commonwealth games in Edmonton, a Canadian monarchist said Tuesday.

John Aimers, chairman of the Monarchist League of Canada, said in a speech here that the Queen "would be the last person" to expect the elaborate royal flusher being planned for the games.

"That toilet reflects the over-enthusiasm of some the people preparing for the visit, rather than the Queen's personal desire," Aimers said.

"This is a question the press has dug up to detract from the serious purpose of her visit and to ridicule the Crown."

Aimers also said he believes Canadians have moved from questioning the survival of the monarchy to grappleing with its role in Canada in the 1970s.

FEUD IN TAHSIS

TAHSIS — A family feud was at the bottom of a weekend riot which resulted in one man being shot in the leg, another in hospital in Victoria with head injuries, and numerous cases of cuts and bruises.

RCMP are considering numerous charges following the riot which involved two groups fighting with machetes, knives, axes, a rifle and lengths of lumber.

The riot started in a trailer park as the result of a deep-rooted family feud between two family groups, each consisting of about 10 members.

It ended when two shots were fired from an unknown source. RCMP said that by that time, the rioters were exhausted and apparently unable to continue.

Police moved in to clear up and cart the participants off to hospital.

Juvenile Lock-Ups Promised

The Social Credit government is committed to providin secure facilities for juvenile delinquents like the 13-year-old boy brought to Victoria from Nanaimo Tuesday, Attorney-General Garde Gardom said today.

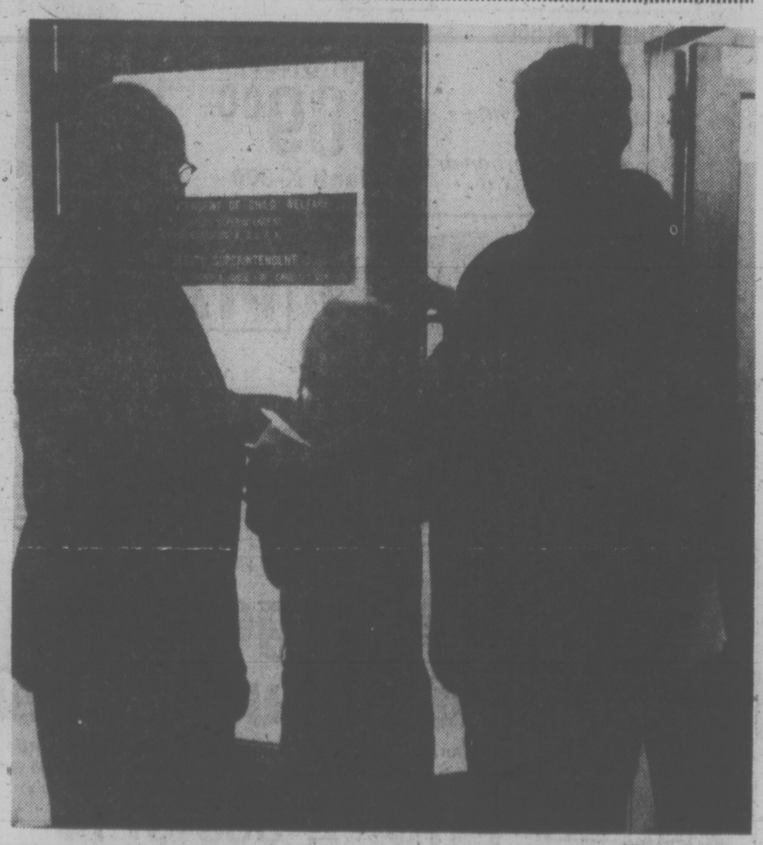

Gardom said he would be taking recommendations contained in a report on juvenile detention facilities to cabinet shortly and expected action quickly.

The boy was delivered by sheriffs' deputies to Superintendent of Child Welfare Vic Belknap Tuesday.

Nanaimo Juvenile Court Judge Stanley Wardill ordered Monday that the boy, charged with several breakins and theft of a car, be delivered to Belknap because he was the boy's legal guardian.

In his ruling, the judge complained of the lack of secure facilities for repeating juvenile delinquents.

Gardom said today such facilities were necessary because now the only response of the judicial system to hard core delinquents is to transfer them to adult court.

Parents Hunt Child Molesters

LANGLEY (CP) — About 200 parents here have volunteered to start one of the most intensive programs in British Columbia to prevent child molesting.

"Wherever the children go, they will be watched — parks, playgrounds, to and from school, and in the schoolyards," RCMP Constable Rick Scott, the man who organized the program, said Tuesday.

"Langley hasn't had any incidents of child molestings, but the number of reports of suspicious activities has increased," he said.

"I think people are generally concerned about the number of sex-related crimes in the Lower Mainland — the missing girl in Port Moody, the young girl found murdered in Matsqui, the young girl sexually assaulted and murdered in Mission. Those have all happened this year."

Constable Scott said he was confident more people will join once school begins.

"There's been a lot of apathy and a lot of enthusiasm so far. I guess nothing has come close to home yet so people don't take such a great interest in it."

Langley, including both city and township, has a population of over 45,000.

Freeway entrances into the municipality, the 29 elementary school areas, and other selected points will have signs to warn the public that the program is in operation.

Patrollers have been organized to watch all the day-to-day activities of the children. Co-ordinators have been chosen for each of the school districts so that each patroller only has to work one to two hours each week.

Eight Win In Early Draw

NANAIMO — Eight Victorians were among the winners in the second early-bird draw of the Lucky Leo lottery held here Tuesday.

Bertram Williams of 2490 Mowat picked up $1,000, Jean Alder of 350 Douglas, $100, Marjorie Lindsay-Dixon of 2135 McLaren and E. L. Halliday of 1530 Church $50 each and Betty Whittcher of 4112 Tuxedo, Fenton Oldham of 361 Irving, William Henly of 1143 Chapman and Bud Curry of 2500 Florence Lake $25 each.

Nanaimo Mayor Frank Ney drew the winning tickets.

All eight will have their tickets returned to the barrel for the Oct. 31 draw of $100,000.

The lottery is sponsored by the B.C. Lions Society for Crippled Children.

It was also announced Tuesday that a group of 15 Victoria police and court workers won $500 in Sunday's Olympic lottery draw. The 15 had pooled their money to purchase 15 of the $10 tickets.

It was the fifth time this year a group of Victoria policemen or court workers has won money in lottery draws.

RCMP BOAT PULLOUT QUERIED

NANAIMO — The RCMP will be asked to explain to city council why the police boat Athabasca is being pulled out of Nanaimo.

Ald. Jim Moffat told council he has learned the 33-foot vessel will be moved to the Sechelt and Powell River areas of the mainland and will not likely be replaced here.

Insp. George Strathdee, commanding officer of the Nanaimo RCMP detachment, has been asked for an explanation.

In addition, Moffat said he has learned that next summer the Canadian Coast Guard's Zodiac will not be posted in Nanaimo but will be moved to Northwest Bay near Parksville.

Moffat said 70 marine rescues were reported by the coast guard and the volunteer Nanaimo Emergency Program (NEP) so far this year. Another 23 rescue incidents were reported by radio station CHUB, he added.

Withdrawal of the coast guard and RCMP vessels will leave only the NEP and radio station to oversee rescue operations for an unofficial count of 26,000 boats of all types opeating out of Nanaimo.

CMHC Funds Given Aged

Funds totalling $2,501,331 have been approved by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for a Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society apartment building for the elderly.

CMHC office also announced Tuesday that the federal government would grant $273,296 to the project, reducing the amount outstanding to $2,228,035.

In addition, a federal interest-reduction grant of $4,290 a month will reduce the effective interest rate on the mortgage from 10½ to eight per cent.

The seven-storey apartment building will contain 71 bachelor units, 27 one-bedroom suites and a caretaker suite. It will be built on a Collinson Street site, leased from the province.

Rents will range from $225 to $330 a month. This includes refrigerator, stove, utilities, laundry equipment and cablevision.

Trident Protest Trial Date Set

SEATTLE (AP) — Trial has been set for Nov. 4 for eight persons charged with trespassing and destruction of government property in connection with a demonstration Aug. 8 at the Trident nuclear submarine base.

The cases stem from a demonstration Aug. 8 by the Pacific Life Community, based in Vancouver. The protest bagan with a parade across the border at the International Peace Arch and proceeded without incident to the Trident base under construction on the Hood Canal near Bangor.

COOK STREET CLOSURE

The intersection of Cook and Finlayson Streets will be closed to traffic Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week for construction and repaving.

The closure is effective 24 hours a day. Traffic will be rerouted via Lang, Highview and Merritt.

Community Plan Ignores Details

Before a public hearing is held in late October on Victoria's Official Community Plan, city council will have to explain to various neighborhoods why their areas are not covered in any detail by the document.

That suggestion came from Ald. Murray Glazier Tuesday, as council in caucus agreed to delete from the draft plan a supplement dealing with the city's residential areas on a basis.

The neighborhoods section will remain an adjunct to the community plan but it will not be forwarded with the latter for formal registration or filing with the provincial government later this year.

Mayor Mike Young said this way of handling the matter was recommended by the Advisory Planning Commission, because the neighborhood plans are expected to be modified and amended "and do not lend themselves to filing with the Official Community Plan."

(Essentially, council wants to retain both jurisdiction and flexibility in regard to neighborhood planning. Under the required procedure for filing the plans, it fears that if detailed neighborhood proposals are included they could be in a sense "locked in" and control would have passed to a higher levbel of government).

However, explanations are needed, Glazier noted, because the neighborhoods are expecting "lot and block" treatment in the community plan — which council merely regards as a broad statement of long-term planning objectives and policies.

In other discussion on the draft plan, aldermen agreed to incorporate a section of the supplement dealing with the Inner Harbor into the main document.

The ommission had been pointed out by Glazier, who said: "We can't possibly have an Official Community Plan for the city of Victoria without a statement on the Inner Harbor."

Proposals for the printing and general release of the plan will be presented to council next week by Ald. Alf Hood, chairman of the zoning and land-use planning committee.

SPORT FISHING CLOSURE SET

All sports fishing will be prohibited in the tidal waters of the Koksilah and Cowichan rivers starting midnight Monday, a federal fisheries official announced Tuesday.

The closure will extend straight across from a boundary sign on Skinner point in the north to a sign on the south shore of Cowichan Bay.

The closure goes into effect each year to allow spawning salmon to return to the rivers.

Additional information on gear and size restrictions may be obtained through the federal fisheries service and the fish and wildlife branch in Duncan.
